FOUR KILLED, 102 ESCAPE IN CRASH OF JET AIRLINER

Mexican Plane Falls and Burns Just After Takeoff From Idlewild — 26 of Survivors Hurt.

ALL DEAD WERE CREW MEMBERS

61 of Passengers Are U.S. Residents — Craft Was Same Type as One Involved in Collision.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP)—A jet airliner crashed at Idlewild airport last night a few seconds after taking off in a snowstorm. Of the 106 persons reported aboard, 102 escaped death, although at least 26 were injured, several seriously.

The dead tentatively were identified as four of the eight crew members—three men and a woman purser. Sixty-one of the 98 passengers aboard the four-engine liner are residents of the United States.

The airliner, a DC-8B of Aeronaves de Mexico, went down at 8:25 p.m. It was bound nonstop for Mexico City.

One survivor, G. Terry Sechrist of Farmington, Conn., said the plane got about 50 feet in the air. Other survivors were not certain if the plane ever got off the ground.

Cleared Concrete Fence.

Airport observers said the $5,000,000 craft had to be airborne to clear a concrete fence at the end of the runway. The plane did hit a wire fence just beyond the concrete barrier. Sections of the wire fence were enmeshed in the wreckage.

After hitting the fence, the plane skidded across a highway, clipping an automobile, and ended up in a marsh, where the front section burst into flames.

Efforts of aviation officials to start an investigation at the crash scene were severely handicapped as the heavy snowfall continued today. Scattered bits of wreckage were picked up but concentrated efforts were impossible.

The one person aboard who might have the answer is William B. Poe, 52 years old, of Miami, Fla., check pilot aboard the plane. Poe's condition early today at St. Joseph's Hospital in Queens was described as "still critical."

Bill to Be Offered.

Noting that the plane took off in a blinding snowstorm with winds up to 25 miles per hour, Representative Steven B. Derounian (Rep.), New York, said in a statement from Washington:

"Next week I will introduce some legislation to make it mandatory that no takeoff or landings of planes will be allowed unless visibility is 2.5 miles and the minimum ceiling is 2500 feet."

Visibility at the time of the crash was a quarter of a mile, and the ceiling about 300 feet.

Derounian is a member of the House subcommittee on transportation and aeronautics.

Police tentatively identified the four bodies found in the wreckage as those of Capt. Ricardo Gonzales, the pilot; First Officer Antonio Ruiz Bravo; Second Officer Javier Alvarez Bacha; and

LINK ACQUITTED OF MURDER OF HIS HANDY MAN

Jury at Hermann Deliberates About Two Hours and Half — One Ballot Taken.

By THEODORE P. WAGNER
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HERMANN, Mo., Jan. 20 — Theodore C. Link, a member of the Post-Dispatch news staff, was found not guilty of murder yesterday in the killing of Clarence W. Calvin, a handyman who worked part-time at Link's St. Albans farm.

A jury of 12 men, eight of them farmers, deliberated about two and one-half hours before returning the verdict at 5:15 p.m. in Circuit Judge Joseph T. Tate's court here.

When the jury foreman, Raymond Engelbrecht, read the decision, Link slumped slightly in his chair, relaxing a bit from the four-day trial.

His wife, Ruth; their 12-year-old son, Theodore C. Link Jr., and daughter, Virginia, 18, who were sitting across the courtroom, burst into tears of joy.

Foreman's Comment.

Engelbrecht said only one ballot was taken and that came after each of the jurors "had his say" about the case. Jurors added that they thought the fact that Calvin had advanced toward Link with a three-pronged hoe and a knife gave Link the right to protect himself.

"We discussed it and put ourselves in the position of Link and came to the conclusion that if we were in his position, we might have done the same thing that he did," Engelbrecht said.

Calvin, 35, was shot twice with a shotgun and three times with a pistol by Link last July 11. Link, 55, had come upon the handy man as Calvin was raking with the hoe in the ruins of Link's summer home, which had burned to the ground a few days earlier.

Link, who told the jury he shot the man in self-defense, said Calvin became enraged when the reporter accused Calvin of having a hand in the burning of the house. Witnesses at the trial

CITY ASKS END OF EASTBOUND CAR SERVICE ON FRANKLIN AVE.

Step Toward Making Delmar and Franklin One-Way — Mid-Street Loading on Washington to Stop.

Removal of eastbound streetcars from Franklin avenue in order to speed traffic in the downtown area was requested yesterday by Traffic Commissioner Ellis T. Henry.

He said the Traffic Division has been planning for years to make Franklin a one-way street for westbound traffic and Delmar boulevard one-way for eastbound traffic downtown.

Henry also announced that he plans to prohibit loading of busses in the center of Washington avenue in the downtown area to facilitate the movement of traffic on that street.

Bottleneck At Bridge.

The one-way movements on Franklin and Delmar, he pointed out, not only would improve handling of traffic on these streets but also would eliminate most of the congestion at the western end of Veterans' Memorial Bridge. Both streets end at this terminus.

In letters to the St. Louis Public Service Co., Henry suggested that the transit firm might substitute busses for Wellston and Hodiamont street cars. He said he intended to designate both Franklin avenue and Delmar boulevards as one-way streets beginning May 1.

The plan to make Delmar and Franklin one-way throughfares is part of the overall traffic improvement program for the downtown area, Henry explained. This will provide for better transit service, better business and better movement of traffic, he stated.

Offers Co-operation.

His department is ready to work with the transit company in the selection of new routes and loading zones, he reported.

The prohibition against center-of-the-street loading on Washington is planned to be effective by March 15. It is part of a traffic improvement program for the street, work on which was started today.

All intersections on Washington from Broadway to Twelfth boulevard will be equipped with new synchronized electric signals. Elimination of mid-street loading will permit division of the street into five traffic lanes. Currently, there are four lanes.

The additional lane will permit three lanes for eastbound traffic and two for westbound movements. Henry pointed out that this use of the street was recommended in the traffic study made for the city by the W. C. Gilman firm of consulting engineers.

Rerouting Likely.

The prohibition against mid-street loading of express busses during peak hours may require some rerouting of some of the lines now using the street, Henry told the company.

He added that engineers of the traffic division have studied the problem thoroughly and are certain that a satisfactory solution exists. His department will assist and co-operate with the company in every way possible to effect the change, he said.

The Traffic Commissioner

KENNEDY IN HIS INAUGURAL OFFERS CO-OPERATION WITH REDS IN QUEST FOR PEACE

NEW PRESIDENT IS SWORN IN AS AMERICA'S 35TH CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Oath Administered by Chief Justice Warren as Thousands Watch on Snow-Covered Capitol Hill.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—John Fitzgerald Kennedy took the oath of office today as thirty-fifth President of the United States before thousands massed on snow-covered Capitol Hill.

Standing bareheaded, the former Massachusetts Senator placed his hand on a family Bible and in a firm, clear voice repeated the 35-word oath after Chief Justice Earl Warren.

The 43-year-old President, the youngest elected chief executive in the nation's history, pledged his Administration would open the way to new frontiers for America.

Party faithful from all over the United States cheered their approval of the new Chief Executive after he took the oath and then stepped to the podium to deliver in a clear voice and with a forceful manner his inaugural.

The watching and listening throng had endured slush, subfreezing temperatures and a penetrating northeasterly wind to share in the historic event.

Oath of Office.

The simple oath which Mr. Kennedy recited is: "I do solemnly swear that I will execute the office of the President of the United States and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

To the oath, he added quietly: "So help me God."

President Kennedy thus followed an example set by George Washington in adding this reference to the deity, a precedent which has been observed by Presidents ever since.

The crowd applauded warmly as President Eisenhower appeared on the platform.

But a large ovation resulted when Mr. Kennedy strode to the front of the platform from the Capitol rotunda and took his seat alongside the man he was succeeding as President.

Johnson and Nixon.

While the two men chatted in their seats to the right of the podium, the incoming Vice President, Lyndon B. Johnson, of Texas, was exchanging pleasantries with the man he will succeed, Vice President Richard M. Nxon.

The arrangements committee had placed Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama between Nixon and former President Harry S. Truman. Seldom in political history has there existed such publicly expressed contempt by one politician for another as Truman has held for Nixon.

Nevertheless, Truman frequently leaned in front of Sparkman to converse with Nixon'

Eisenhower Intent.

Mr. Eisenhower, his face reddened by the cold, watched Mr. Kennedy intently as the solemn moment of oath-taking there transpired the shifting from his shoulders to that of the slim young man of the burden of the presidency, which Thomas Jefferson once described as "the splendid misery."

During most of the ceremony,

EISENHOWER ENDS 50 YEARS OF U.S. SERVICE

Has Final Breakfast at White House — Leaving Capital Without Fanfare.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (UPI) —The Eisenhower era passed into history today.

The long snow-covered mile from the White House to the Capitol was the end of a trail that had stretched from West Point to Omaha Beach, from Abilene in Kansas to 1600 Pennsylvania avenue in Washington.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, at 70 the oldest President in American history, gave way to John F. Kennedy, at 43 the youngest man ever elected to the nation's highest office.

After 50 years of service to the nation, Mr. Eisenhower became a private citizen. He passed the burdens of an era and of the nuclear age onto the shoulders of a man young enough to have been his son, and headed into the role of an elder statesman.

The day began with a final breakfast at the White House. The beginning of the end of official power was late this morning when President-elect and Mrs. John F. Kennedy called at the White House.

Then they rode down Pennsylvania avenue together for the swearing-in ceremonies for Kennedy. At that moment the titles became President Kennedy and "Mr. Ex-President," as Eisenhower himself laughingly put it this week.

The retiring President bowed out of the nation's capital without fanfare.

Present and former members of his Cabinet attended a luncheon in honor of the Eisenhowers at the exclusive F-Street Club following the inauguration.

Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower, their son, John, and his wife, Barbara, drove to their farm homes in Gettysburg, Pa., after the luncheon.

A family dinner including the four Eisenhower grandchildren was arranged for tonight at John's home on one corner of the 500-acre Eisenhower farm.

Tomorrow night, 200 leading citizens from the Gettysburg area will honor the Eisenhowers at a welcome-home dinner in the Hotel Gettysburg.

$200,000 Jewel Robbery.

PARIS, Jan. 20 (AP) — The Duchess de la Rochefoucauld, a member of a noted French literary family, reported to police yesterday that her mansion on the fashionable Place d'Etats Unis had been robbed of jewels valued at $200,000.

BUT HE PLEDGES U.S. TO DEFEND LIBERTY, REMAIN LOYAL TO ALLIES

Calls on Citizens for Sacrifices in Struggle Against Tyranny, Poverty, Disease and War.

(Text on Page 6A.)

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—John F. Kennedy, the thirty-fifth President of the United States, offered today to co-operate with the Communist rulers in a quest for peace "before the dark powers of destruction unleashed by science engulf all humanity in planned or accidental self-destruction." At the same time he pledged that this nation would defend liberty at all costs.

In an inaugural speech conciliatory but firm, the new head of the American state and Government said that if a beachhead of co-operation were made in the jungles of suspicion a new world of law could be created where the strong are just and the weak secure and the peace preserved forever.

Interrupted by Applause.

The address was interrupted 12 times by applause, the most prolonged when he said this hemisphere intends to remain the master in its own house. The new President spoke slowly, rarely looking down to his manuscript. He paused for emphasis as he intoned:

"I do not shrink from this responsibility — I welcome it." This brought cheers and similar applause followed when he told Americans: "Ask not what your country can do for you — ask what you can do for your country."

To his fellow citizens he called for sacrifices in a struggle against the common enemies of man—tyranny, poverty, disease and war. To our old allies he pledged the loyalty of faithful friends, saying we dare not meet a powerful challenge split asunder. To the new nations he gave his word that one form of colonial control would not be replaced by a far more iron tyranny.

Arms Control.

As a start he suggested serious and precise proposals for the inspection and control of arms. Previous negotiations on this subject have been blocked by Russian refusals to permit what the United States and other free nations regarded as adequate inspection.

The 1200-word, inspirational statement of principles that would guide his administration reflected his personal concept of his new responsibilities and the world-wide sweep of the struggle for freedom.

The youngest Chief Executive (43 years old) elected to the office began his message to the United States and the world by observing that he had taken the same oath our forebears prescribed nearly 150 years ago.

"The world is different now," he said, "for man holds in his mortal hands the power to abolish all forms of human poverty and to abolish all forms of human life. And yet the same revolutionary beliefs for which our forebears fought are still at issue around the globe — the belief that the rights of man come not from the generosity of the state but from the hand of God."

A New Generation.

He served notice to friend and foe alike that the torch of the American revolution had been passed on to a new generation—his own—"born in this century, tempered by war, disciplined by a cold and bitter peace and proud of our ancient heritage."

This generation, he continued, would not willingly witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights to which this nation has always been committed.

Without naming the Soviet Union or any other Communist power, he uttered this warning:

"Let every nation know, whether it wish us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend or oppose any foe in order to assure the survival and success of our liberty."

He listed the aid the United

EAST HIT BY BLIZZARD, SOME CITIES PARALYZED

Inaugural Activities Hampered — New York Hard Hit — Gale Warnings Up.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP)—A fast-moving snowstorm, fanned by gusty winds, slowed inaugural activities in Washington today and dealt severe blows to New York City and many other eastern cities.

The storm reached blizzard proportions during the night along the east coast from Philadelphia northeastward into southern New England, and temperatures fell below zero at many points.

Snow piled up to more than a foot in some areas. Winds reached 47 miles an hour along coastal sections. Gale warnings were posted along the coast from Delaware bay northward to coastal areas of Maine.

The storm dumped more than eight inches of snow on the nation's capital, and New York City. The fresh snow piled new woes on New York's traffic situation, already seriously affected by a railroad tie-up which hit some 100,000 commuters.

Route Cleared of Snow.

In Washington, hundreds of snowplows working through the night succeeded in clearing Pennsylvania avenue of nearly all snow and ice in time for the big inaugural parade.

Tons of rock salt dumped along the 1½-mile parade route left the streets wet and slightly slushy but enabled the marchers and floats to move.

At 7 a.m. workmen had tacked up a clear plastic wind shield on the sides of the reviewing stands to protect President John F. Kennedy and his official party.

Work Done On Stands.

Workmen also cleared snow from the bleacher-type stands lining both sides of Pennsylvania avenue during the night. Chairs placed in honor boxes in front and beside the White House were clear of snow but about three inches of snow was on the floor of boxes.

Thousands of automobiles were stranded throughout the storm belt. The National Airport in Washington closed last night and flights in New York City, at the Newark and Teterboro airports in New Jersey, and many other eastern cities were curtailed or canceled. Busses and trains also operated

VILLAGERS DANCE IN JOY AT HOME OF IRISH KENNEDYS

NEW ROSS, Ireland, Jan. 20 (UPI) — People in this south coast port danced in delight today on Charles street pier, from which President Kennedy's great-grandfather set out for the United States.

A torchlight parade celebrating Kennedy's inauguration was scheduled tonight.

James Kennedy, an Irish fourth cousin of the President, raised the United States flag at the ceremonies here. Council Chairman P. Minihan read the town's congratulations and best wishes for the new President.

The United States military attache in Dublin brought a message from Kennedy to the people of New Ross.

SNOW IS SLOWING TRAFFIC; 2 TO 3 INCHES FORECAST

Traffic began moving cautiously in the St. Louis area today as snow accumulated on the streets. A snowfall of two to three inches was predicted.

City, county and state highway departments and the Public Service Co. sent out snow-fighting equipment shortly before noon. Fifteen traffic accidents occurred in the county in the first three hours of the snowfall, and 10 on Missouri highways in this district.

Lambert-St. Louis Field was closed to incoming traffic for about 25 minutes around midday. Three airline flights circled over the airport until visibility lifted to one-half mile.

Temperatures were expected to range between 3 and 8 degrees tomorrow morning. The snow was brought by a weak low pressure area which moved in a southeastward direction across the state.

SNOWBOUND AT WHITE HOUSE

About 30 on Eisenhower's Staff Spend Night There.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (UPI) —About 30 members of President Eisenhower's staff were snowbound at the White House last night.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the staff members were unable to get to their homes because of the snowstorm and were lodged for the night in White House facilities.

New State Department Crisis; Ages of Women Workers Bared

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (UPI) —Castro, The Congo, and Laos paled into insignificance at the State Department in the shadow of an embarrassing new crisis.

The latest edition of the State Department's biographic register, just out, listed for the first time in history the birth dates of women officials and employes.

Women in the upper echelon, heretofore generally believed to be "somewhere in their forties," cried "foul" when the new volume disclosed some were pushing the retirement age of 65.

The anonymous officials who decided to include the birth dates decided to remain anonymous.

G.O.P. LEADERS ADD ACCLAIM TO DEMOCRATS' ON KENNEDY TALK

Dirksen Calls It 'Inspiring' — Halleck 'Impressed'—Saltonstall Says It 'Hit Nail on the Head.'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) —President John F. Kennedy drew the acclaim of Republicans as well as Democrats today for what they described as a "brilliant," "inspiring" and "magnificent" inaugural address.

Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the G.O.P. leader in the Senate, called it "inspiring" and "a very compact message of hope."

Representative Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House Republican leader, said, "I was much impressed."

Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate Democratic leader, said of the speech, "It was magnificent, great."

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, assistant majority leader, described it as "the American message to the world," and said it gave "a true picture of our country."

Senator Thomas H. Kuchel (Rep.), California, the G.O.P. whip, said all Americans would subscribe to the splendid goals Kennedy outlined.

And Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, called it "a tremendous challenge to all of us."

'Hit Nail on Head.'

Senator Leverett Saltonstall (Rep.), Massachusetts, chairman of the conference of all G.O.P. Senators, said the speech was "a superb message and it hit the nail on the head."

Senator John Sherman Cooper (Rep.), Kentucky, who was ambassador to India under President Eisenhower, said the speech was "first class, awfully good."

"It was strong and yet left the door open to negotiation," Cooper added.

Senator Kenneth B. Keating (Rep.), New York, told reporters, "It was a brilliant address. The President said to both our friends and foes abroad exactly what needed to be said," Keating added.

Adlai E. Stevenson, twice-defeated Democratic presidential candidate, and Mr. Kennedy's nominee as ambassador to the United Nations, said the speech was eloquent and inspiring—"It was a great speech."

"The President reaffirmed our dedication to our own freedom and to freedom around the world," Stevenson said.

Praised by Diplomats.

Praise came also from members of the diplomatic groups.

French Ambassador Herve Alphand said that President Kennedy had outlined a well-balanced and excellent formula which will have great effect.

Alphand singled out Mr. Kennedy's phrase, "Let us never negotiate out of fear; but let us never fear to negotiate."

Ambassador M. C. Chagla of India said the Kennedy speech was "magnificent — a hopeful message for the whole world."

Japanese Ambassador Koichiro Asakai called it "a good start, a strong and powerful speech, reflecting his youth and vigor. It was impressive indeed."

Canada's Ambassador A. P. D. Heeney said the speech "was an excellent beginning for the new Administration."

QUEEN ELIZABETH, PHILIP TAKE OFF ON TRIP TO EAST

LONDON, Jan. 20 (UPI) Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip took off today for a 39-day tour of the Middle and Far East. The visit will include India and Pakistan, the first any British monarch has paid to these two nations since they achieved independence from Britain in 1947.

The couple was cheered by hundreds of Britons as they boarded their plane at Cociferous airport. Among those seeing them off were Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret and husband Anthony Armstrong-Jones.

The royal party, numbering about 30 persons, was traveling in a special Britannia prop-jet.

In addition to India, where she plans to spend 24 days, Queen Elizabeth will spend four days in Iran and four in Nepal. On the flight to India she will stop at the island of Cyprus and meet President Archbishop Makarios.

ONE EVENT, BUT BIG ONE, ON WHITE HOUSE PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (UPI) —The changing of the guard was never more evident than in today's White House calling list.

Normally, it would contain as many as a dozen appointments. But today it merely said: "11:20 a.m. — President-elect John F. Kennedy will arrive to pick up President and Mrs. Eisenhower at the north portico to drive to the inaugural ceremonies at Capitol Hill.

Affectionate Gesture for the President

Mrs. Kennedy Watches Proudly As Husband Becomes President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) —Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, a fashion picture in beige, watched proudly today as her husband became the thirty-fifth President of the United States.

A bright smile played occasionally on her face, as she sat through the ceremonies in frigid weather, with a gray blanket tucked about her.

Nearby were the wives of two former Presidents, Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower and Mrs. Bess Truman.

Mrs. Kennedy sat to the right of outgoing President Eisenhower and, when the historic ceremony was over, he put his arm around her waist and helped escort her out.

In the gathering of distinguished personages, four women stood out in the front row on the right.

Besides Mrs. Kennedy was Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, who watched with a smile as her husband took the oath as the new Vice President.

Then, there was Mrs. Eisenhower. Beside Mrs Eisenhower was Mrs. Richard Nixon, who, after campaigning valiantly with her husband across the nation, was now witnessing the great day of the man who defeated her husband in the election.

The four made a colorful picture at the snowy Capitol.

For the 31-year-old Mrs. Kennedy, the inaugural ceremony was just the start of a long day.

After the ceremony and a quick lunch at the Capitol, the Kennedys reviewed the long inaugural parade from an open air reviewing stand in front of the White House.

With only a brief breather in between, they will change to formal evening clothes to attend five separate inaugural balls, winding up at about 2 a.m.

Mrs. Kennedy apparently was keenly aware of the busy schedule in store for her.

She took all the rest she could get. And, last night, making her first big public appearance since the November election, she went home before her husband from the inaugural gala.

Mrs. Kennedy had made a hit appearance on a night when many famous people were in the spotlight.

She looked regal and beautiful in a long gown of white silk ottoman, with a simple rounded neckline set off with a necklace of diamonds and emeralds. The dress had elbow length sleeves. Mrs. Kennedy wore long white gloves, which she never took off —even when sipping coffee at the gala intermission.

Few in the National Guard Armory audience were aware that Mrs. Kennedy had slipped out shortly before 1 a.m. after watching the late-starting variety show for about two hours.

Mr. Kennedy quietly escorted his wife to the back of the balcony box. Then, on the arm of a Secret Service agent she went downstairs and cautiously maneuvered over the icy path to a car that took her home.

She missed the last few acts of the gala, including the brief remarks of her husband. Only as Mr. Kennedy rose and the spotlights came up on the President-elect's box, was it evident to the audience that she had left her front-row spot.

The Kennedys had a slow and slippery crosstown drive to the armory after attending a special inaugural concert at Constitution Hall. They left the concert after about an hour.

KENNEDY ON AIR TO EUROPE

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP) — Radio Free Europe is scheduled to broadcast President John F. Kennedy's inaugural address in Washington today direct to Europe.

A spokesman said yesterday that translations of the address in Czech, Slovak, Hungarian, Polish and Bulgarian languages will be transmitted simultaneously with the live broadcast.

KENNEDY HEALTH EXCELLENT, TWO DOCTORS REPORT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)— John F. Kennedy's doctors said today his health "continues to be excellent."

The statement was issued in response to reporters' inquiries about two hours before Mr. Kennedy was sworn in as President.

It said: "A physical examination this month indicated that President Kennedy's health continues to be excellent."

The statement was signed by Dr. Eugene J. Cohen and Dr. Janet Travell, both of New York.

Dr. Travell treated Mr. Kennedy for the serious back ailment which brought him close to death a few years ago. It was a flare-up of an injury he suffered while in college, and which was aggravated when the PT boat which he commanded was cut in two by a Japanese destroyer in World War II.

In response to questions, Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said the physical examination to which the physicians referred was made on one of Mr. Kennedy's visits to New York earlier this month.

Another Killing in Cyprus.

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Jan. 20 (AP)—Gunmen killed 58-year-old Greek Cypriot Christoforos Onissoforou in a Limassol street today. It was the third murder in Limassol in a week.

LYNDON JOHNSON TAKES OATH AS VICE PRESIDENT

Plans to Devote Much of His Time to Executive Department Tasks.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)— In a preliminary to the presidential inauguration, Lyndon Baines Johnson of Texas took the oath as Vice President today.

Johnson, who served five years as Senate Democratic majority leader, will take over the presiding officer's chair when the Senate meets to discuss cabinet appointments.

As the new Vice President, Johnson has drafted operating plans which will keep him busy a large part of his time in executive department tasks. He will take over the chairmanship of a space advisory council and head a presidential committee for job equality on government contracts.

Although he will serve as a liaison man between the White House and Congress, associates said Johnson has no intention of trying to run the Senate majority from his position as Vice President.

The man whom Johnson succeeded as Vice President, Richard M. Nixon, takes off tomorrow with his wife, Pat, for a month's vacation in Nassau. When he returns, he plans to join a Los Angeles law firm.

BRITAIN EASES INSTALLMENT SALES CURBS

© New York Times News Service

LONDON, Jan. 20 — Yielding to increasing demands from business and industry, the government announced yesterday a relaxation of installment buying restrictions.

This took the form of extending the repayment period from two years to three. The down payments required by the government, 10 per cent for some goods and 20 for others, remain the same.

The concession was less than industrial, business and trade union leaders had sought. They would have liked a reduction in down payments and a cut in the purchase taxes the government collects on many items.

Still, they expect the ruling to stimulate home sales in many fields where they have been falling badly. The hard-pressed automobile manufacturing industry and its suppliers are expected to be among the chief beneficiaries. The decline in car sales has forced manufacturers to cut production with the result that more than 100,000 of their employes are working only two, three or four days a week and thousands more have been laid off.

Two Executed by Castro Men; Some Coast Defenses Removed Firing Squads in Action Again — Cuban Leader to Welcome Part of Demobilized Militiamen.

HAVANA, Jan. 20 (AP)—Fidel Castro's firing squads executed two more Cubans today. His regime meanwhile began dismantling some of its defenses after 20 days of alert against the invasion that never came.

The two men were executed at Havana's La Cabana prison. Their names were not announced immediately.

They and six others were sentenced to die yesterday after conviction on charges of terrorism and sabotage. The newspaper Revolucion said this morning that the sentences of two of the men, convicted of killing militiamen, were reduced to 30 years in prison. Authorities were silent on the fate of the other four. Seven other defendants got 30-year sentences.

The executions brought to 587 the unofficial total of those put to death by Castro's firing squads since he took power in January 1959.

(United Press International said Castro had suspended mass military trials of so-called terrorists in an apparent good-will gesture to John F. Kennedy, who became the new President of the United States today.

(It was reported authoritatively that Castro himself ordered the trial suspension. The decision was believed to be intended to counteract popular reaction against continued executions.)

Castro scheduled a speech this afternoon to welcome home some of the civilian militiamen being demobilized as the government called off its anti-invasion alert. It was assumed he would repeat his claim of last week that only the 20-day alert and the arms given him by the Communist bloc prevented the invasion he had said the Eisenhower Administration would order before it left office.

Castro's supporters kept up their gibes at Mr. Eisenhower. Foreign Minister Raul Roa said in a radio address last night that only a few hours remained for "the most genuine representative of an arterio-sclerotic policy of power to abandon the White House and Wall street." Santiago University students held a funeral procession for the Eisenhower Administration and some demonstrators shouted: "Down with the senile old man!"

Government sources said that while the majority of the militiamen were being returned to their jobs in the fields and factories, thousands would remain on duty at strategic defense positions along the coasts and in the larger cities.

Roa echoed Castro's warning that vigilance must be maintained, but added that the civilian soldiers must return to the "production lines" which suffered seriously in their absence.

The continued vigilance apparently was necessary to counter opposition elements on the home front as well as anti-Castro Cubans abroad who say they will return to overthrow the revolutionary regime.

MRS. ISAAC STERN RAISES $20,000 TO KEEP PLAY OPEN

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP)— Mrs. Isaac Stern rescued a Broadway play yesterday from scheduled closing with a whirlwind $20,000 fund-raising campaign. A year ago her husband headed a committee that saved Carnegie hall.

Mrs. Stern, wife of the concert violinist, gathered the funds from 15 friends because of "a tremendous impulse to help" after attending a performance last week of "The Wall." The drama, based on John Hersey's best-seller about destruction of the Warsaw ghetto in World War II, was scheduled to close tomorrow.

Producer Kermit Bloomgarden said the fund might spur sufficient new public interest to warrant a run into March. Mrs. Stern had no connection with the production before seeing it with her husband. Both were stirred deeply by the events depicted. In World War II, she and her parents lived in occupied France and wore the Star of David, as did others of the Jewish faith. During the combat her father was taken to Auschwitz prison and was never after heard from.

MAN WHO SHOT S. AFRICA PREMIER FOILED IN ESCAPE

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa, Jan. 20 (AP) — David Pratt, who shot and wounded Prime Minister Verwoerd last April, tried to escape yesterday, the South African Press Association reported.

Pratt was taken from Orange Hospital, where he is held as a mental case, to a dentist in Bloemfontein. While the dentist was waiting for an injection of a pain-killing drug to take effect, Pratt jumped from the chair, raced down a flight of stairs and disappeared into a large department store.

A woman in the store tipped pursuing guards to Pratt's hiding place — behind a rack of clothes. Pratt was charged with attempted murder but was found to be mentally disordered. Verwoerd recovered.

LAOS TROOPS PUSHING NORTH AGAINST REBELS

Pro-Communist Forces Throw Back Loyal Column in Another Area of Front.

VIENTIANE, Jan. 20 (AP) — A Laotian government column today pushed to within 10 miles of the important Phou Khoun road junction commanding the western approach to the rebel-held Plaine des Jarres.

The column had advanced north from Vientiane. It captured the rebel base at Vang Vieng Monday and has driven 30 more miles north, reports from the front said.

But the advance of the column from Vientiane was a mixed blessing for Premier Prince Boun Oum's government. As it advanced, pro-Communist forces from Vang Vieng were retreating north. And as they retreated, the rebels pushed back another government column from Luang Prabang trying to link up with the column from Vientiane.

The Luang Prabang column was reported 10 miles north of Phou Khoun junction yesterday. Its retreat opened an escape route east to the Plaine des Jarres for the pro-Communist forces from Vang Vieng.

Another column still threatens Luang Prabang, the royal capital from the north. And rebel paratroop Capt. Kong Le and his allies, the Pathet Lao guerrillas, still threaten Tha Thom and Paksane, the government's two staging areas for a southern offensive against the Plaine des Jarres that was scattered by a rebel drive south this week.

Reports from the Tha Thom-Paksang area were confused.

"Both sides appear to be going in circles trying to outflank each other," said one military expert.

Fighting there has reverted to guerrilla warfare, with neither side apparently willing to fight head on for the few strategic points.

CITY-COUNTY GROUP URGES MERGER UNDER BOROUGH PLAN

Petitions to Be Circulated for Board of Freeholders to Prepare Proposal for Voters.

A merger of St. Louis and St. Louis county governments into a borough system was proposed yesterday by a group of city and county residents who said they would seek signatures for a board of freeholders to prepare their plan for presentation to the voters.

Included in the group sponsoring the proposal are several members of the 1959 Metropolitan Board of Freeholders, and labor and business leaders.

The borough plan has "a good chance" to win approval in the city and in the county, Charles F. Vatterott Jr., spokesman for the group, said. Vatterott was chairman of the 1959 Metropolitan Board of Freeholders and supported a similar merger plan then. The freeholders failed to adopt it.

Previous Plan Rejected.

The less-sweeping metropolitan district plan for governmental co-ordination in St. Louis and St. Louis county was rejected in 1959 by large majorities in both the city and the county. In that year, a proposal to consolidate Ladus, Frontenac and Huntleigh was defeated by Ladue voters by a 3½-to-1 margin. Frontenac and Huntleigh had strongly favored the proposition.

Vatterott was asked whether he thought, in view of those actions, a borough system or any kind of merger plan could win sufficient support for approval.

"I think the people in the city and the county will approve the borough plan," Vatterott said. "I believe they will realize this is the necessary machinery to cope with the vital problems which must be solved if the city and county are to go forward.

"The issues were not clear in the metropolitan district plan. The issues will be simple and clearly drawn in the borough plan, and I believe the voters will be eager to pass it when they have had an opportunity to study it."

Following the defeat of the metropolitan district plan, proponents of merger announced plans to work for a new government covering both city and county.

Year of Meetings.

The decision to work toward establishment of a municipal county form of government was reached after a series of informal meetings over a period of more than a year, Vatterott said.

"Our study of the St. Louis Metropolitan Survey, and our discussions with many citizens since the defeat of the district plan, convince us more than ever that there is impressive public support for a single area-wide government," Vatterott added. "Such a government would replace the multiplicity of jurisdictions that threatens the development of our community."

"In view of the time and public funds which were devoted to the development of a plan by the 1959 Board of Freeholders for a single area-wide government, we believe that the public should have the opportunity to vote on this proposal, since it offers the most economical, the simplest and the most effective solution to our area-wide problems," Vatterott said.

"Establishment of this new form of government is essential to the bringing about of improved and unified traffic and transportation facilities, fire and police protection. It also is needed to provide a much more effective and comprehensive plan of land use and zoning for the over-all economic benefit and future development of the area."

Viewed as Separate Problem.

Vatterott said the citizens's group "considers the governmental problem to be distinct from and more immediate than any question concerning schools, and should be dealt with separately."

Petitions would be drawn in a form directing the new board of freeholders to proceed "under Power No. 1 of Section 30 (a) of Article VI of the Missouri Constitution, which provides for consolidation of the territories and governments of St. Louis county and the city of St. Louis into one area-wide political subdivision," Vatterott added.

Freeholders would be expected to conform generally to the municipal county merger plan which was prepared by the minority faction on the 1959 Board of Freeholders, Vatterott said.

He explained that that plan would establish 22 boroughs or districts throughout the area. Two representatives would be elected from each borough to form an over-all legislative council of 44 members. A president of the council would be elected at large.

Petitions bearing signatures equal to 3 per cent of the total vote cast for Governor last November in the city and in the county would be required to initiate appointment of the new board of freeholders, Vatterott said.

Under the 3 per cent requirement of the Constitution, 8878 signatures would be required in the city and 9544 in the county, Vatterott said.

To Set Date for Petitions.

A definite date to begin circulation of the signature petitions will be set when the group supporting the plan meets again in a few weeks, Vatterott said.

A maximum of one year would be permitted, after appointment of a new board of freeholders, to present the borough plan for a vote.

"Extensive work done on the municipal county plan by the 1959 Board of Freeholders could simplify the task of the new freeholders and considerably shorten the time which would be required to submit the plan to the voters," Vatterott said.

In addition to Vatterott, other members of the 1959 Board of Freeholders in the new group are: Richard D. Shewmaker and James S. McClellan, Mrs. Rogers Deakin, Dale Ferris and Russell Egan.

Other members of the new group are: Joseph P. Clark, president of the St. Louis Labor Council, AFL-CIO; David E. Castles, president of Castles-Wilson Buick Co.; Mark R. Holloran, Democratic National Committeeman and candidate for mayor; Lon Hocker, attorney and unsuccessful G.O.P. candidate for United States Senator last year; Frank Bick, editor and publisher of the South Side Journal; J. F. Schwier, president of Inland Research Corp., and Fred M. Switzer, business man and attorney.

St. Louis Delegation Is Received By Pope With Cardinal Ritter

By C. L. KELLIHER
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ROME, Jan. 20—Pope John XXIII today received the delegation which accompanied Cardinal Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis to Rome to see him elevated to his new rank in the church.

The audience with the Pontiff was lighthearted and frequently punctuated with laughter. Pope John spoke in Italian and Bishop John P. Cody of Kansas City, Mo., served as interpreter. The Pope said: "I am happy to welcome all of you as a little family circle."

Pope John was seated on his throne in Consistorial Hall in the Vatican Palace. Cardinal Ritter sat on a golden chair between the Pope and his friends.

After the audience with the Pope today, the St. Louis group returned to the Grand Hotel where a dinner in Cardinal Ritter's honor was held in the Grand ballroom. It was learned that the Cardinal, in his speech at the dinner, will announce that certain St. Louis Priests in the delegation have been named monsignors by the Pope.

The Pontiff, before entering Consistorial Hall today, was to receive Cardinal Ritter in a private audience in the Holy Father's apartment. The new Cardinal was to be accompanied by Bishop John P. Cody of Kansas City, who has been assisting the St. Louis archbishop through the intricate maze of church protocol since the party arrived here Jan. 11.

Meanwhile, Cardinal Ritter was assigned today to membership in three Vatican congregations by the Pope.

They are the Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith, which directs the Roman Catholic Church's worldwide missionary activities; the Consistorial Congregation, which provides for the erection and government of dioceses and prepares business for consistories, and the Congregation of the Basilica of St. Peter.

Cardinal Ritter received actual possession of the red hat which was conferred on him yesterday in St. Peter's Basilica. The new Cardinal's efforts on behalf of racial integration were praised by the Vatican messenger who delivered the new symbol of office.

The messenger, Msgr. Oddone Taccoli of the Vatican Curia, read a message of congratulations which said:

"The Roman Catholic world is particularly proud of your election as Cardinal because you wish to lead all people to the truth, salvation and sanctity without any distinction of class or race."

A special film report on Cardinal Ritter's investiture and activities in Rome will be presented by Post-Dispatch Station KSD-TV from 4:30 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

WEBSTER TILTON DIES IN THE EAST

Webster Tilton, former St. Louisan, died last night of cancer at the Tilton home, "Farmlands," in Cooperstown, N.Y. He was 60 years old.

A member of the New York Stock Exchange and the old St. Louis Stock Exchange, Mr. Tilton had been engaged for a number of years in the brokerage business. In recent years he had devoted himself to the management of the estate of his mother-in-law, the late Mrs. August A. Busch.

Mr. Tilton was a member of numerous clubs, including the Racquet Club of St. Louis, the Racquet and Tennis Club of New York and the Everglades and Bath and Tennis clubs of Palm Beach, Fla., where the family maintained a winter home.

Survivors include his wife, the former Alice Busch, Veiled Prophet Queen of 1922 and daughter of the late August A. Busch, the brewer; a son, Webster Tilton Jr.; a grandson, Webtster Tilton III, both of Washington, and a sister, Mrs. Charles M. Polk of St. Louis.

Funeral services will be Monday at Christ Church (Episcopal) in Cooperstown, with burial there.

RESTITUTION OF $204,104 BY FIRM'S EX-OFFICER

William M. Venner, former vice president and a director of Sterling Aluminum Products Inc. of St. Charles, had made restitution of $204,104 by last Dec. 31 under a judgment obtained by the company last year, the firm announced today.

An award of $1,297,389 in favor of the Sterling company against four former officers and employes and their relatives was granted by Circuit Judge Franklin Ferriss at Clayton last Oct. 7. The defendants had received kickbacks from firms supplying goods and services to Sterling.

The company said it was paid by Venner the amount he and his family had received. In its decree last October, the court said the kickbacks were obtained "through fraud and in gross violation of the fiduciary duties owed to the plaintiff."

BIG STORE SALES IN DOLLARS 3 PCT. HIGHER FOR WEEK

Dollar volume of department store sales in the St. Louis metropolitan area last week was 3 per cent higher than in the corresponding week of 1960, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today.

In the Eighth Federal Reserve District, which includes St. Louis and parts of seven states, department store sales last week were unchanged from volume in the comparable week last year.

In the United States, sales were 7 per cent higher, the Federal Reserve Board reported in Washington. Sales were higher in nine of the 12 reserve districts and lower in two.

During the four weeks ended last Saturday, department store sales in the St. Louis area and in the Eighth District were 4 per cent higher than in the comparable period a year ago. In the nation, sales were up 12 per cent.

PUT ON 5-YEAR PROBATION FOR KILLING OF WOMAN

Gershom R. Moses, a sheet-metal worker, was placed on probation for five years today by Circuit Judge James F. Nangle. Moses, 44 years old, previously had pleaded guilty of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Bonnie Null, with whom he lived at 830A McLaran avenue.

Police learned the shooting followed a quarrel during which Mrs. Null, 43, said she wanted to break off relations with Moses and share the apartment with a woman co-worker at a photographic studio.

SMUT CHARGE FILED AGAINST PRINTING SHOP PROPRIETOR

Les A. Waltman, proprietor of a printing shop at 1439 Chouteau avenue, was charged with possession of obscene literature in an information issued today by the Prosecuting Attorney's office.

Police searched Waltman's shop last night and reported finding a large number of obscene photographs. The information charged that Waltman had them with "intent to sell or circulate." The charge is a misdemeanor.

FIRE IN GROCERY STOCKS CAUSES HEAVY LOSS

Icing Hampers Firemen at Associated Grocers Warehouse on Berthold Avenue.

A fire at the Associated Grocers warehouse, 5053 Berthold avenue, caused extensive damage to stock last night and early today.

The fire, which was discovered shortly after 9:40 p.m., was not completely extinguished until about 3 a.m. In this period, the temperature dropped from 21 to 13 degrees, causing ice conditions which hampered the fire fighters.

Water from the hoses flowed into Manchester avenue, giving the street an icy coating. Members of the police mobile unit barred traffic on Manchester for several blocks in each direction.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. Jack C. Conreux, president and general manager of the grocery firm said he would be unable to estimate damage to the building or contents until after completion of an inventory later today.

The fire department said large amounts of toilet paper, paper cups, wax paper, wrapping paper and other paper products were consumed by the flames. Frozen food products also were kept nearby. It was not immediately determined whether they were damaged.

Supplies for 700 Stores.

Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Findlay said the fire was confined largely to the southeast corner of the extensive one-story building. Supplies for more than 700 groceries belonging to the Associated Grocers chain are stored in it.

The warehouse, built of concrete blocks, extends about one block from Berthold south to a railroad spur. It contains about 35,000 square feet of storage space.

Firemen had difficulty getting to the flames because there were no windows or doors in the area where the fire broke out.

Firemen, carrying sledge hammers, climbed ladders and broke holes in the walls. Dense smoke rolled through the openings as other firemen sent streams of water through them to the interior.

Fireman Joseph Hughes, 41 years old, 1343 Central avenue, suffered burns of the ears and face when flames flared up as he approached the center of the fire. He was treated at City Hospital.

Fireman Injured.

Findlay said firemen saw no flames until they got inside the building. The fire did not burn through the roof, which is constructed of a new fireproof type of poured-on composition.

About 30 pieces of equipment were used in fighting the fire. Hoses were stretched to fire plugs a considerable distance from the building in order to obtain a heavy concentration of water.

Fire destroyed a vacant two-story brick building at 2330 Chestnut street early today. The building, which was to be razed for the Mill Creek Valley redevelopment project, was owned by the Land Clearance Authority. No estimate of damage was given.

Suspended Six-Month Sentences Given to Dr. McCaffery and Son

Nangle Grants Probation in Case Involving School Board Labor—No Opposition by Circuit Attorney's Office.

Dr. James J. McCaffery, former president of the Board of Education, and his son, James N. McCaffery, each was sentenced today to six months, in the Workhouse on guilty pleas to charges growing out of Dr. McCaffery's use of school board employes in the renovation of the son's home. Both were admitted to probation by Circuit Judge James F. Nangle and the sentences were suspended.

The charges, to which the guilty pleas had been entered last Oct. 20, had been reduced from felonies to misdemeanors. Dr. McCaffery originally had been charged with perjury and stealing. These were reduced to willful misconduct in public office and attempted stealing, lesser offenses. The younger McCaffery originally had been charged with perjury also but the charge was modified to willfully signing a false statement under oath.

The two-year probation was granted after an investigation by the probation and parole office.

The McCafferys were indicted last July 6 by a circuit court grand jury which investigated the practices of some members and employes of the Board of Education.

The stealing indictment against Dr. McCaffery said he had stolen time and labor of board employes in the amount of $329 and board equipment valued at $392 to repair and improve his son's home at 6117 McPherson avenue.

The perjury indictment against the father declared Dr. McCaffery had lied in a deposition taken July 31, 1958, when he testified he had no knowledge of electricians and other board employes working at his son's home before May 12, 1958. The perjury charge was also based on his denial that he knew board material was being used at the home.

In indicting the son for perjury, the jury charged he had falsely denied that the employes had worked at his home in May, 1958.

In an opinion last May 17, the St. Louis Court of Appeals found that Dr. McCaffery was guilty of gross misconduct in office in connection with the home renovation. The opinion was handed down in an appeal by two board members of their suit to oust Dr. McCaffery from the school board.

By the time the suit reached final determination, Dr. McCaffery's term had ended and he had been defeated for re-election in April, 1959.

Probation for the two men was not opposed by the Circuit Attorney's office. Thomas F. Eagleton, who was circuit attorney when the guilty pleas were entered, told the court at that time he was not recommending or opposing probation. He added that if probation were granted, the period should be for not less than two years and that a conditions should be the restitution of $3042 to the school board as the amount the appeals court found had been taken.

The Board of Education agreed to accept monthly payments of about $126 from Dr. McCaffery until the full amount is paid. Notice of the first installment was mailed to Dr. McCaffery last Wednesday but Board Secretary-Treasurer Mervyn E. Wiethaupt said payment had not yet been received.

A condition of Dr. McCaffery's probation was that he pay the sum to the board in the monthly installments noted, the first to be made not later than Feb. 19.

COURT RESOLVES ONE TAX PROBLEM; ANOTHER POPS UP

The Illinois Supreme Court ruled today that Treasurer Leonard O. Reinhardt of St. Clair county is within his legal right in holding on to taxes paid under protest, but Reinhardt wishes somebody would no something about all the interest which has accumulated.

School Districts 118 and 201 of Belleville and 187 of Cahokia filed suit last March to force the treasurer to disburse about $4,500,000 in protested real estate and personal taxes. Reinhardt said the money could not be released until the protests were decided in county court.

The Supreme Court dismissed the petition. Chief Justice Walter V. Schaefer said the court could take no action because the taxpayers were not represented in the suit.

Reinhardt said the problem about what to do about $75,000 in interest, collected on the taxes, still remained.

"The law does not provide for collection of interest on this money," Reinhardt said, "but my predecessor and I did anyway. Now we don't know who is entitled to the interest."

KILLER ATTACKED IN COURT BY DEAD GIRL'S MOTHER

Abraham Skaggs Had Been Awaiting Sentencing in Murder of Carol Blankenship.

Abraham William Skaggs, 17 years old, who has pleaded guilty of the murder of Carol Sue Blankenship, 7, last July 7, was attacked by the child's mother in Circuit Judge James F. Nangle's courtroom today.

Skaggs had been brought before the judge for sentencing. After court attaches told the judge that Skagg's attorney, James J. Rankin, was not present because he was trying another case in another court, Mrs. Joseph J. Blankenship jumped from her seat in the front row and walked toward Skaggs.

She grabbed his hair and pulled it violently. She screamed at him: "You killed my daughter. You killed my daughter."

A man who was with her and deputy sheriffs managed to pull the woman away from Skaggs and take her to the corridor outside. She then fainted. She was carried to another room, placed on a couch and revived.

Judge Nangle announced that he would postpone any action. He said he did not "wish to sentence Skaggs in the absence of his attorney, because he is going to be sentenced for a long, long time."

Skaggs admitted to police that he enticed the girl to a thickly wooded area near the foot of Nagel street, taking her there on his bicycle. He also told police he molested her. He said he beat her to death with a tree limb when she told him she wanted to go home.

Skaggs, who lived at a produce store where he worked at 7018 South Broadway, attended classes for retarded children until he was 16. A psychiatric examination at Malcolm Bliss Hospital disclosed that he had a "dull normal intelligence," but knew right from wrong.

The Blankenships live at 7229 Pennsylvania avenue.

NEED OF FUNDS AT TRAINING SCHOOL CITED

"More years of overcrowding and long waiting lists" are in prospect at St. Louis Training School as a result of omission of $3,603,367 in priority building proposals from Gov. John M. Dalton's budget recommendations for the 1961-63 biennium, Dr. Arthur A. Hines, superintendent of the school, said today.

"Lack of space is a constant problem and interferes with any plans we make for treatment of our mentally retarded children," Dr. Hines told a reporter.

"We have a waiting list of 329 children who could be taken care of if our building needs were supplied. Construction completed last year increased our rated capacity from 601 to 803 patients. Our budget requests for 1961-63 would have increased our capacity to 1100."

Buildings Proposed.

Construction proposals were for a building for mentally defective delinquent girls, who now are housed with non-delinquents; an additional building for mentally defective delinquent boys; an additional custodial building for low-grade, defective children and a combined auditorium-chapel-gymnasium.

"The Legislature provided us with sufficient operating funds in the last session, but we are so crowded we have not even been able to spend the money allotted for the help we need," Dr. Hines said.

"For example, we have the money to hire directors of recreation, occupational therapy, vocational training and volunteer workers, but we haven't got the space for them to operate."

The training school is at 10695 Bellefontaine road, St. Louis county.

Disappointed by Cuts.

Meanwhile, St. Louis area proponents of improved mental health facilities joined Dr. Addison M. Duval, director of the Missouri Division of Mental diseases, in expressing disappointment over the drastic cuts in mental health requests contained in the Governor's proposed budget submitted to the Legislature last Tuesday.

Mrs. William D. Bowie, president of the Mental Health Association of St. Louis, told the Governor in a telegram yesterday:

"Knowing as you must that this (budget) figure actually means only a holding action, the 3000 members of the Mental Health Association of St. Louis respectfully request supplementary recommendations which will realistically meet the biennium needs of the 10-year plan."

Budget requests by Dr. Duval for the next biennium, under the 10-year mental health program he announced last September, totaled $61,591,550 for operation of the division and the state's seven mental institutions and $45,045,290 for capital improvements.

In his proposed budget Gov. Dalton cut the operations figure to $52,063,696 and recommended only $6,360,066 for additional construction.

Plea to Take Lead.

Walter M. Clark, St. Louis attorney and chairman of a citizens' committee named at Missouri's First Mental Health Conference last September, said he hoped the Legislature would "take the leadership" and find the money to implement the program laid out by Dr. Duval.

"If the Governor would take a week and visit these institutions—as I did recently— I can guarantee that he would change his mind," Clark said.

"Conditions are simply pitiful. The patients are simply stacked up on a storage basis, kept under tranquilizers so they'll stay quiet and are getting little or no treatment.

"Out at St. Louis State Hospital there are 3200 patients—more than twice capicity—most of them in rocking chairs or pacing up and down the halls. There simply isn't the staff to give adequate treatment.

"At the training school in the county they have to keep the delinquent retarded girls in the same building with the non-delinquents. What goes on as a result you couldn't describe in the newspaper.

Danger From Rats.

"And conditions are worse — much worse—at the school for mentally retarded at Marshall, where the kids are sleeping in closets, halls and any other place they can crowd them. Some of the buildings are so bad that rats actually chewed the fingers off a couple of kids.

"Dr. Orr Mullinax, the superintendent at Marshall, told me that with sufficient professional help, half of the 1750 children at Marshall and its two branches—Higginsville and Carrollton—could be returned to their communities.

"As it is, Marshall has only three doctors, including the superintendent, and there is no psychiatric program at all."

Clark said he would call a meeting of the executive group of the citizens' committee next week to consider steps to put the state's mental health needs forcefully before the legislators.

Broken Promise Charged.

Mrs. Bowie, who is a member of the citizens' committee headed by Clark, charged in a talk last night at Compton Heights Christian Church that Gov. Dalton had gone back on a campaign promise is failing to recommend greater expenditures for mental health.

She quoted him as saying in a speech at St. Joseph last June: "If I am elected Governor, I will recommend to the 1961 Legislature immediate attention to treating our psychotics and emotionally disturbed children, because time is running out on them."

The reduced amounts for capital outlay and for professional staff in Dalton's proposed budget make it impossible for the Division of Mental Diseases to carry out such a program, Mrs. Bowie said.

"I simply can't believe the Governor means what he says in his budget message," she added.

TERMS 'ORDINARY PEOPLE' OF WEST ISRAEL'S FRIENDS

Moral and political responsibility is felt more by the people of Israel than by those of any other country in the Western world, a former member of the Canadian Parliament told the Histadrut Forum last night at the University City Community Center.

Alistair Stewart, a member of Parliament from north Winnipeg from 1945 to 1958, said a recent visit to Israel had convinced him that the young nation's surest friends are "ordinary people of the Western world who see there the sort of nation we would want to put into operation for ourselves."

The Histadrut (labor organization) has a gigantic task of educating new immigrants to Israel from Oriental countries in the same manner it educated previous groups of immigrants from the industrialized cities of Europe. "Histadrut not only has to help Israelis build a country," he said, "but also to defend it in a hostile neighborhood."

Kennedy Drives Through Snow To Attend Celebrity Revue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) —John F. Kennedy spent the first hour and a half of his inauguration day watching the last acts of a glossy revue staged in his honor by a cast of Hollywood and Broadway stars.

He appeared to be having the time of his life.

But when the massive show ended at 1:30 a.m. (12:30 a.m. St. Louis time)—90 minutes behind schedule—Kennedy struck a serious note.

"It is now Inauguration Day" he said, quietly. "I hope that all of you will join Lyndon B. Johnson and myself in committing us all to the defense of the Constitution of the United States."

Kennedy and his wife, Jacqueline, and Vice President-elect and Mrs. Johnson drove to the National Guard Armory through a blinding snowstorm.

It was Mrs. Kennedy's first formal appearance since the birth of her second child.

Thousands Late.

The Kennedys reached the armory about a half hour after the show was scheduled to begin. But that was well before thousands of others in the audience reached there. Sir Laurence Olivier, one of the principals in the cast, was reported standed at the British Embassy. Olivier finally made it. But Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, also scheduled to appear with the cast, did not get to the scene at all.

Neither did Kate Smith, who was scheduled to sing "God Bless America." The television-radio singer boarded a plane in Los Angeles yesterday but the plane could not land at Washington or New York because of the storm. Instead it landed at Boston, too late for the singer to make it over the road.

Apparently in order to give other guests time to arrive, Kennedy and his wife waited in a reception room for an hour instead of going to their box. The show was timed to start, just at the moment after he took his seat. It was an hour and 40 minutes late.

The armory, with a capacity of 13,000, was about half filled when the show started. However, Democratic officials hoped nevertheless that tickets sold would bring an estimated $1,300,000 toward defraying campaign expenses. Kennedy said the party had gone into debt by $4,000,000 to win the presidency.

Once the big show was under way, the storm and cold outside were forgotten.

Bette Davis, Fredric March, Sidney Poitier, Anthony Quinn and Olivier started it off. Each briefly recited some aspect of the world, the United States, and the presidency in the hour of Kennedy's coming to office.

Then, for more than two hours, the stars followed one another on stage.

Frank Sinatra, co-producer of the show, quipped that "nobody in the cast is young enough to be in the new cabinet."

There were singers Sinatra, Ethel Merman, Helen Traubel, Louis Prima, Ella Fitzgerald, Nat King Cole and Harry Belafonte. Between songs, comedians Joey Bishop, Alan King, Jimmy Durante and Milton Berle held the stage. Gene Kelly and Juliet Prowse performed the main dance numbers.

After the intermission, Johnson was introduced and spoke briefly. He said the appearance of so many people on such a night was "a perfect example of the spirit of the Democratic party. Neither rain, nor sleet, nor snow can stop the Democrats once they get going."

Ovation for Kennedy.

As the last number closed, and the house lights went up, Sinatra announced, "The President-elect, John F. Kennedy." The audience rose to a man and gave Kennedy a long ovation.

Like Johnson, he said the presence of so many people "when the winds of adversity blow" was a testimonial to the character of the Democrats.

He said "the happy relations between the arts and politics have come to a culmination here tonight." And he singled out Sinatra as a special subject of his appreciation.

Then, in reminding his listeners that the inauguration ceremony was only hours away, he left. He reached home about 3:45 a.m. after stopping with friends at a downtown restaurant.

FM LICENSE IS GRANTED TO STATION WOKZ, ALTON

A frequency modulation (FM) license was granted yesterday to radio station WOKZ at Alton by the Federal Communications Commission in Washington.

Herman Bunyan, station manager and vice president of Palen Broadcasting Corp., which owns the station, said broadcasting from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily probably would begin in about three months when WOKZ receives new equipment. The station now operates under an AM license limiting broadcasting to daylight hours.

The company, owned by Edward N. Palen, is purchasing about $20,000 worth of FM equipment. The FCC assigned the station a frequency of 100.3 megacycles.

FIVE JEWISH GROUPS CRITICIZE SPELLMAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP)—Five national Jewish organizations disagreed today with Cardinal Francis Spellman's recent remarks on federal aid to church schools.

The religious and civic bodies said distributing such funds to other than public schools would violate both public opinion and the United States Constitution.

A statement was issued jointly by the American Jewish Congress, Jewish Labor Committee, Jewish War Veterans, Union of American Hebrew Congregations (Reform) and United Synagogue of America (Conservative).

The Cardinal, Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York, had aroused Protestant leaders by saying at an archdiocesan meeting last Tuesday that plans for federal school aid would be unfair if the money went only to public schools and not to church-operated schools.

An education task force of the incoming Kennedy Administration called for a $9,300,000,000 program of federal aid to education. Cardinal Spellman's remarks followed.

The Jewish groups said they do not consider exclusion of Jewish religious schools from federal aid programs discriminatory.

"We deem the maintenance and furtherance of the Jewish religion to be the responsibility of the Jewish community, a responsibility which we have no desire to impose either in whole or in part upon the American taxpayer," their statement said.

"While it may appear to be a heavy burden upon religious groups to finance their schools exclusively out of the voluntary contributions of their adherents, in the long run acceptance of governmental support would be even more costly to the cause of religious freedom."

The bulk of Jewish schools provide supplemental religious teaching beyond the secular education their pupils get at public or private schools.

400 IN MISSOURI PARTY ATTENDING INAUGURATION

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 — About 400 Missourians, almost all of them Democrats in a festive mood, gathered in Washington yesterday for some pre-inaugural conviviality and a few words about the past and the future from former President Harry S. Truman.

The occasion was a reception given by the Missouri Society of Washington for Missourians attending the inauguration of John F. Kennedy as President and Lyndon B. Johnson as Vice President.

Truman, who arrived on Wednesday to attend the swearing-in ceremony, told the gathering in the caucus room of the old Senate office building that after today's inauguration "the government is going to be back in the hands of the people again."

'Wanted a Hero.'

The former President, in jovial good humor, said the American people thought in 1952 that "the best thing to do was to have a hero in the White House." Then he added: "I don't know what they think now, but I'll bet it will be a long time before they have another one in there."

Truman was accompanied to the reception by his wife, who was wearing a black afternoon ensemble with a fur stole, and his daughter, Mrs. Clifton Daniel, also in black with a fur wrap and a hat with red flowers.

Two special trains brought the Missourians, including a large contingent from the St. Louis area, to the capital for the round of inauguration parties. Their enthusiasm appeared undiminished by the heavy snowstorm that swept into Washington.

Introduced by Jones.

At yesterday's reception, the Missourians milled around, drank punch, applauded the members of the state's congressional delegation and other guests as they were introduced by Representative Paul C. Jones (Dem.), Missouri, and talked.

The ingredients of the conversation included the victory of the Democratic ticket nationally, Kennedy's narrow margin in Missouri, the composition of the Cabinet and sub-Cabinet and such weighty questions as who was or was not going to which inaugural ball or affair, with a generous measure of local politics thrown in.

The ingredients of the punch were non-alcoholic.

Others present included Gov. John M. Dalton and Mrs. Dalton; Lt. Gov. Hilary Bush; State Treasurer Milton F. Carpenter; John J. Dwyer, chairman of the St. Louis Democratic city central committee; Magistrate Anton Sestric of St. Louis; Circuit Attorney Daniel P. Reardon Jr. of St. Louis, and a number of other state and local officials, most of them accompanied by their wives.

Blair Not Present.

Former Gov. James T. Blair did not make the trip, but eight state Senators and seven state Representatives were on hand. Also at the reception was Rex M. Whitton, chief engineer of the Missouri Highway Department, who has been named by Mr. Kennedy as the new federal highway administrator.

Only a few Republicans could be identified in the crowd of Missourians and former Missourians living in Washington. Representative Duward G. Hall, newly-elected Republican from the Seventh Missouri District, braved the prevailing Democratic majority at the reception.

The state's other Republican Congressman, Representative Thomas B. Curtis of Webster Groves, was, his office reported, "in St. Louis for the inauguration."

Kerner Leads Delegation From Illinois in Parade.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) —Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois—himself inaugurated less than two weeks ago—led his state's delegation today in the gala parade saluting the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy.

Illinois's contribution to the serpentine parade boasted a 120-piece band from the Chicago Fire Department and the 60-member marching band of Chicago's Weber High School.

Another Illinois resident, Midshipman Ronald H. Reimann of Danville, brigade commander of midshipmen at the United States Naval Academy, headed the cadet corps marching near the head of the parade.

State officials estimated that 500 Illinoisans came to Washington to watch or participate in inaugural festivities.

HAT NAMED FOR KENNEDY'S WIFE A HIT IN LONDON SHOW

LONDON, Jan. 20 (AP)—A hat named after Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy was one of the hits of the British capital's first 1961 fashion shows yesterday.

In addition to a hat named "Jackie," for the wife of the new President, designer Ronald Paterson offered a model called "Fabiola," for the new queen of the Belgians.

"Jackie" was a navy blue rough straw with a deep crown and a large brim. "Fabiola" was a straw-edged sombrero.

Inauguration

the outgoing Chief Executive allowed his thoughtful gaze to wander out over the crowd gathered to honor his successor, and beyond.

As President Kennedy moved from the platform to the inside of the Capitol, the Marine band played "Hail to the Chief," as it had President Eisenhower just a few minutes earlier.

Before his trip downtown with the paraders, President Kennedy attended a private and well-guarded luncheon at the Capitol. This event was of such import that not even the guest list was announced in advance.

Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower, in the first minutes they have known as private citizens since Jan. 21, 1953, moved quietly away with a group of friends, including the former Vice President and Mrs. Nixon.

To Capitol With Eisenhower.

Prior to the ceremony Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Eisenhower drove down a windswept Pennsylvania avenue from the White House to the Capitol. They rode in a closed limousine with a "bubble top," transparent so that they could be seen by the shivering spectators.

As they arrived at the Capitol, Mr. Kennedy took off his top hat and waved it at the reviewing stands.

Their wives followed in a limousine behind two Secret Service cars. The next car, a bubble-top, carried Johnson and Nixon with Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas and House Democratic Majority Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts in jump seats. Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Nixon followed in another limousine.

Then the official ceremony of oath-taking, whereby the presidency changes hands, began.

Invocation by Cardinal.

Cardinal Richard Cushing, Catholic archbishop of Boston, pronounced the invocation at the first inauguration of a Roman Catholic as President of the United States.

Then came a solo by Marian Anderson and another prayer by Archbishop Iakovos of the Greek Orthodox Church.

Then Johnson, a former Senate colleague of Mr. Kennedy, stepped forward to take the oath of office as Vice President, administered by his old friend, Speaker Rayburn.

A third prayer was given by the Rev. Dr. John Barclay, pastor of the Central Christian Church, Austin, Tex.

Robert Frost, 86-year-old poet, then read his poem, "The Gift Outright."

This led into the most solemn moment of the ceremony when Mr. Kennedy took the oath administered by Chief Justice Warren.

Following the oath taking, benediction was offered by Rabbi Nelson Glueck, president of the Hebrew Union College, and the ceremony ended with the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the Marine Corps Band.

Government at Standstill.

Government business on Capitol Hill was at a standstill during the inauguration ceremony.

Both the Senate and the House met at 11 a.m., transacted some routine business and then recessed to go in a body to special bleacher stands to witness the oath-taking.

Unlike the House, the Senate resumed its session after the session, for within an hour after President Kennedy took the oath, his nominations for the 10 Cabinet posts and that of Adlai E. Stevenson to be United States Ambassador to the United Nations had been submitted to the Senate. The Senate plans to vote on them tomorrow and approval appears certain.

The Supreme Court, which normally meets at noon daily, convened in extraordinary session at 11 a.m., just long enough to place itself on the record as having recessed to attend the inaugural. All of the justices had special places among the distinguished guests on the inaugural platform.

Coffee at White House.

The official ceremony was preceded by an unusual event, a touch of courtesy from the outgoing to the incoming President. Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower invited the Kennedys to drop by for coffee this morning before starting the ride to the Capitol. The Kennedys accepted.

The Kennedys left their home in the Georgetown section of Washington for the short drive to the Whie House, a drive made slippery by last night's snowstorm.

They arrived at the White House and were greeted on the steps by a bareheaded and grinning Mr. Eisenhower in a cutaway.

Mrs. Kennedy wore a beige wool coat with matching blue pillbox. She carried a fur muff which matched the collar of her coat.

Mr. Kennedy, in a cutaway under a black overcoat, wore a top hat as he left his house. But he removed it for the ride to the White House. He looked relaxed as he cmiled and nodded to spectators along the way.

Nixons Arrive.

Within minutes, Mr. Kennedy was followed into the White House by the man he defeated in the November presidential election, Vice President Nixon. Mrs. Nixon was with the Vice President.

Then, along came Vice President-elect Johnson, accompanied by Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, the House Democratic leader, and Senator Carl Haydan (Dem.), Arizona.

The Congress members represented the committee on inauguration arrangements.

Mr. Eisenhower met all at the north portico steps, shook hands with each, and then led them into the White House to join the Kennedys.

Mrs. Eisenhower greeted her visitors in the White House lobby. There they all went to the Red Room for coffee.

This gathering at the White House was in marked contrast to the meeting there eight years ago between Mr. Eisenhower and former President Harry S. Truman. In 1953, Mr. Eisenhower did not leave his limousine when calling at the White House for Truman to accompany him to the Capitol.

Blankets and Ear Muffs.

First of those seeking vantage points for the inaugural in areas where tickets were not required began arriving in front of the Capitol about 8 a.m. Their attire set the tone for the day insofar as the unofficial inaugural uniform was concerned. It consisted mainly of sweaters, heavy overcoats, augmented by blankets, overshoes and ear muffs. Scarves were knotted at nose level.

Hundreds of civilian workers, joined by a small army of soldiers from nearby installations, worked diligently through the night to clear the main arteries to the Capitol and the nearby staging area for the parade.

Secret Service men were on the job early, scanning the incoming visitors, especially those carrying packages. Some agents peered out from beneath the inaugural platform as part of probably the most painstaking security measures ever taken on behalf of an incoming president.

One of the tasks confronting the snow force was to clear about eight inches of snow from the stands for favored guests.

Despite the severe weather which had plagued the area for more than 12 hours, the sun shone brightly this morning. Flags on the Capitol, the nearby new and old Senate Office Buildings and the House Office Buildings were whipped briskly by the strong wind. The fine snow swirled about the visitors and the inaugural stand.

At East Front of Capitol.

Most of those who assembled to watch the inauguration were seeing for the first time the newly completed east front of the Capitol.

The actual inaugural stand on which Mr. Kennedy stood today to take the oath was a make-believe backdrop for the solemn event. Most of its beams and boards will be discarded. Salvaged from it will be only its eight Corinthian columns, fashioned of wood, its bowed-out balustrade, from behind which President Kennedy delivered his inaugural address, and a few other classical ornaments, including a full entablature with architrave, frieze and cornice.

These elements are linked with history because they were made for the first inaugural of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and have been used at inaugurals ever since.

An Innovation.

The poetry reading by Frost was an innovation.

It had been Mr. Kennedy's first thought that the 86-year-old Frost might write a special poem for the inaugural, but Frost indicated, according to reports, that "occasional poetry" was not his long suit. After consulting with friends of the poet, Mr. Kennedy decided to ask Frost to read his work, "The Gift Outright," which he wrote in the 1930s.

As with numerous readers, many of those who heard the reading today were puzzled as to the precise meaning of the poem. Friends of the poet have explained its meaning this way, as was the case with Harvey Shapiro, a member of the New York Times Sunday staff, who publishes poetry of his own: As colonials, we possessed the land but she was not truly ours (no more than we were truly ourselves) until we gave ourselves to the land through loyalty to the nation and through the many bloody deeds of our Revolutionary War. We gave ourselves to the land as she was then, and to our vision of the America she was to become.

Word Changed.

In reading the poem, Frost altered the last line to read "such as she was, such as she wil become," from the original, which said "would become." The change, Frost has said, was made at the suggestion of Mr. Kennedy who, according to the poet, found the word "will" more in keeping with his positive plans for action.

Mr. Kennedy, with only about four hours sleep, started his inaugural day by attending Mass at his Catholic parish church. Father Martin J. Casey, the pastor, met him at a side door and escorted him to a pew which Mr. Kennedy appeared to pick at random.

He left his Georgetown home at 8:55 a.m. for Holy Trinity Church about three blocks away. He was driven in an automobile by a Secret Service man.

He stepped out into the cold bright day onto his snow-covered steps and told reporters who greeted him that he was feeling fine.

He had gotten home at about 3:45 o'clock this morning after a pre-inaugural round of festivities snarled by the snow storm that tied up capital traffic.

Andrew Hatcher, a press aid, said Mr. Kennedy rose at 8 a.m. and had a quiet breakfast served in a tray in his sitting room.

Requests Copy of Speech.

First of all he requested a reading copy of the inaugural speech.

The copy of the speech was brought to him by his personal secretary, Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, who had been forced by the weather to spend the night at a house across the street from Kennedy's home

Though the weather was severe, it might have been a lot worse, as history attests.

President Grant, among other distinctions, had the coldest inauguration day in history in 1873, when it was only a few degrees above zero.

In 1909, when President William Howard Taft took office, a blizzard struck, and set the mark for the worst inaugural weather. Cadets coming to Washington from West Point became snowbound in Maryland. They scrambled from their train to cut up telephone poles which had fallen on their train track. Despite these heroic efforts, the cadets had to do the last few miles afoot.

In 1841, William Henry Harrison, at 68 the oldest man ever elected President, was greeted by a windy, wintry day when he took the oath of office. He compounded his own misery by standing in the cold, bareheaded, to deliver the longest inaugural address on record, one hour and 40 minutes. Earlier, he had ridden a white horse to the Capitol for the ceremony. The strain of all this took its toll. One month after his inauguration, President Harrison was dead.

Kennedy

States is prepared to give in the support of freedom. Of the former colonial nations he said:

"We shall not always expect to find them supporting our every view. But we shall always hope to find them strongly supporting their own freedom—and to remember that, in the past, those who foolishly sought to find power by riding on the tiger's back inevitably ended up inside."

To the less-developed countries, he promised help to help themselves for whatever period is required "not because the Communists are doing it, not because we seek their votes, but because it is right. If the free society cannot help the many who are poor, it can never save the few who are rich."

For the Latin American republics he rephrased the Monroe Doctrine against outside domination in these words:

"Let all our (southern) neighbors know that we shall join with them to oppose aggression or subversion anywhere in the Americas. And let every other power know that this hemisphere intends to remain the master of its own house."

Support to U.N.

He renewed the pledge of American support to the United Nations, parenthetically adding as a jab at Russian Premier Khrushchev that we would prevent it becoming "merely a forum for invective."

In requesting the co-operation of the Communist powers in a search for peace, he warned our allies that "we dare not tempt them with weakness. For only when our arms are sufficient beyond doubt can we be certain beyond doubt that they will never be employed."

Speaking directly to the Communists, he asserted that two great and powerful groups of nations could not take comfort from their present course with "both sides overburdened by the cost of modern weapons, both rightly alarmed by the steady spread of the deadly atom, yet both racing to alter that uncertain balance of terror that stays the hand of mankind's final war."

He asked for a new beginning, both sides remembering "that civility is not a sign of weakness and sincerity is always subject to proof. Let us never negotiate out of fear. Let us never fear to negotiate."

On Disarmament.

With negotiations for disarmament as the first step, he suggested "serious and precise proposals" to bring "the absolute power to destroy other nations under the absolute control of all nations," apparently meaning all the members of the United Nations and non-member Communist China.

From such a beginning, he said, both sides could invoke the wonders of science instead of its terrors so that we could together explore the stars, conquer the deserts, eradicate disease, tap the ocean depths and encourage the arts and commerce.

He conceded these things could not be done in 100 or 1000 days or during his administration or even perhaps the lifetime of his generation on this planet.

"But let us begin," he urged.

He emphasized each word. The massed crowd which was listening attentively throughout the address, applauded and cheered.

Calls for Sacrifices.

As a peroration, he asked Americans for a historic effort to assure a more fruitful life for all mankind. In words reminiscent of his speech accepting the Democratic presidential nomination at the Los Angeles convention, he closed with this call for personal and national sacrifices:

"In the long history of the world, only a few generations have been granted the role of defending freedom in its hour of maximum danger. I do not shrink from this responsibility—I welcome it. I do not believe that any of us would exchange places with any other people or any other generation. The energy, the faith and the devotion which we bring to this endeavor will light our country and all who serve it—and the glow from that fire can truly light the world.

"And so, my fellow Americans: Ask not what your country will do for you—ask what you can do for your country.

"My fellow citizens of the world: Ask not what America will do for you, but what together we can do for the freedom of man.

"Finally, whether you are citizens of America or of the world, ask of us the same high standards of strength and sacrifice that we shall ask of you.

"With a good conscience our only sure reward, with history the final judge of our deeds, let us go forth to lead the land we love, asking His blessing and His help, but knowing that here on earth God's work must truly be our own."

KENNEDY IS 35TH PRESIDENT, BUT 34TH MAN TO HOLD JOB

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (UPI) —John F. Kennedy will be listed officially as the thirty-fifth President of the United States. But he is only the thirty-fourth man to hold the job.

The confusion stems from Grover Cleveland, who served two non-consecutive terms, and who is counted twice by official historians.

Baudouin's Good Wishes.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 20 (AP) — King Baudouin of Belgium sent a cable to President John F. Kennedy today wishing him "lots of success in his task," a palace spokesman said.

Text of Kennedy Address At Inauguration Ceremony

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP). Here is the text of President Kennedy's inaugural address:

MY fellow citizens:

We observe today not a victory of party but a celebration of freedom, symbolizing an end as well as a beginning, signifying renewal as well as change. For I have sworn before you and Almighty God the same solemn oath our forebears prescribed nearly a century and three quarters ago.

The world is very different now. For man holds in his mortal hands the power to abolish all form of human poverty and all form of human life. And yet the same revolutionary beliefs for wihch our forebears fought are still at issue around the globe—the belief that the rights of man come not from the generosity of the state but from the hand of God.

We dare not forget today that we are the heirs of that first revolution. Let the word go forth from this time and place, to friend and foe alike, that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans, born in this century, tempered by war ,disciplined by a hard and bitter peace, proud of our ancient heritage, and unwilling to witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights to which this nation has always been committed, and to which we are committed today at home and around the world.

Let every nation know, whether it wish us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend or oppose any foe in order to assure the survival and success of liberty.

This much we pledge, and more.

To those old allies whose cultural and spiritual origins we share, we pledge the loyalty of faithful friends. United, there is little we cannot do in a host of co-operative ventures. Divided, there is little we can do, for we dare not meet a powerful challenge at odds and split asunder.

Pledge Against Tyranny.

To those new states whom we welcome to the ranks of the free, we pledge our word that one form of colonial control shall not have passed away merely to be replaced by a far more iron tyranny. We shall not always expect to find them supporting our view. But we shall always hope to find them strongly supporting their own freedom, and to remember that, in the past, those who foolishly sought to find power by riding on the tiger's back ended up inside.

To those peoples in the huts and villages of half the globe struggling to break the bonds of mass misery, we pledge our best efforts to help them help themselves, for whatever period is required, not because the Communists may be doing it, not because we seek their votes, but because it is right. If the free society cannot help the many who are poor, it cannot save the few who are rich.

To our sister republics south of our border, we offer a special pledge—to convert our good words into good deeds, in a new alliance for progress, to assist free men and free governments in casting off the chains of poverty. But this peaceful revolution of hope cannot become the prey of hostile powers.

Let all our neighbors know that we shall join with them to oppose aggression or subversion anywhere in the Americas. And let every other power know that this hemisphere intends to remain the master of its own house.

To that world assembly of sovereign states, the United Nations, our last best hope in an age where the instruments of war have far outpaced the instruments of peace, we renew our pledge of support, to prevent its pledge to support, to prevent it from becoming merely a forum for invective, to strengthen its shield of the new and the weak, and to enlarge the area in which its writ may run.

Finally, to those nations who would make themselves our adversary, we offer not a pledge but a request: that both sides begin anew the quest for peace, before the dark powers of destruction unleashed by science engulf all humanity in planned or accidental self-destruction.

We dare not tempt them with weakness. For only when our arms are sufficient beyond doubt can we be certain beyond doubt that they will never be employed.

But neither can two great and powerful groups of nations take comfort from our present course—both sides overburdened by the cost of modern weapons, both rightly alarmed by the steady spread of the deadly atom, yet both racing to alter that uncertain balance of terror that stays the hand of mankind's final war.

Negotiate Anew.

So let us begin anew, remembering on both sides that civility is not a sign of weakness, and sincerity is always subject to proof. Let us never negotiate out of fear. But let us never fear to negotiate.

Let both sides explore what problems unite us instead of belaboring those problems which divide us.

Let both sides, for the first time, formulate serious and precise proposals for the inspection and control of arms, and bring the absolute power to destroy other nations under the absolute control of all nations.

Let both sides join to invoke the wonders of science instead of its terrors. Together let us explore the stars, conquer the deserts, eradicate disease, tap the ocean depths and encourage the arts and commerce.

Let both sides unite to heed in all corners of the earth the command of Isaiah—to "undo the heavy burdens . . . (and) let the oppressed go free."

And if a beachhead of cooperation can be made in the jungles of suspicion, let both sides join in the next task, creating, not a new balance of power, but a new world of law, where the strong are just and the weak secure and t he peace preserved.

All this will not be finished in the first 100 days. Nor will it be finished in the first 1000 days, nor in the life of this Administration, nor even perhaps in our lifetime on this planet. But let us begin.

In your hands, my fellow citizens, more than in mine, will rest the final success or failure of our course. Since this country was founded, each generation of Americans has been summoned to give testimony to its national loyalty. The graves of young Americans who answered the call to service surround the globe.

Common Enemies.

Now the trumpet summons us again, not as a call to bear arms, though arms we need, not as a call to battle, though embattled we are, but a call to bear the burden of a long twilight struggle, year in and year out, "rejoicing in hope, patient in tribulation" — a struggle against the common enemies of man, tyranny, poverty, disease and war itself.

Can we forge against these enemies a grand and global alliance, North and South, East and West, that can assure a more fruitful life for all mankind? Will you join in that historic effort?

In the long history of the world, only a few generations have been granted the role of defending freedom in its hour of maximum danger. I do not shrink from this responsibility. I welcome it. I do not believe that any of us would exchange places with any other people or any other generation. The energy, the faith and the devotion which we bring to this endeavor will light our country and all who serve it, and the glow from that fire can truly light the world.

And so, my fellow Americans, ask not what your country can do for you. Ask what you can do for your country.

My fellow citizens of the world, ask not what America will do for you, but what together we can do for the freedom of man.

Finally, whether you are citizens of America or of the world, ask of us here the same high standards of strength and sacrifice that we ask of you. With a good conscience our only sure reward, with history the final judge of our deeds, let us go forth to lead the land we love, asking His blessing and His help, but knowing that here on earth God's work must truly be our own.

SNOW BREAKS UP INAUGURAL TRIP, HOOVER TO FISH

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 20 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover, turned back from the presidential inauguration by a snowstorm in Washington, returned here last night and planned a fishing trip in the Florida Keys today.

The 86-year-old former Chief Executive said he sent a message to John F. Kennedy that "I made a hard try to attend your inauguration."

Then, Hoover said, "Make that 'the crew made a hard try'." He referred to the crew of an Air Force DC-6 which had chauffered him on the unsuccessful round trip flight from Miami. The plane circled Washington for an hour before it was decided a safe landing would be impossible.

CHAMBER URGES BUILDING CODE'S EARLY PASSAGE

Speedy adoption of the proposed new St. Louis building code was urged today at the first public hearing on the bill before the Aldermanic Committee on Public Safety. The committee met in City Hall following a meeting of the Board of Aldermen.

G. Carroll Stribling, chairman of the municipal legislation committee of the Metropolitan Chamber of Commerce of St. Louis, urged approval of the proposed code, saying it "would provide an excellent tool to attract new industry to St. Louis and, in turn, would provide new jobs and new sources of tax revenue."

"We strongly believe that with the development of new materials and modern construction methods," Stribling said, "it is economic waste to adhere to specifications which are no longer required to protect the public safety and welfare."

At the earlier meeting of the board, two resolutions were adopted and eight minor bills were introduced.

One resolution praised Dr. Thomas A. Dooley, St. Louis physician who died of cancer in New York Wednesday, for his medical work with Southeast Asians and offered condolences to his mother, Mrs. Thomas A. Dooley Sr., 4402 McPherson avenue.

The other resolution praised the work of Brig. and Mrs. Arvid E. Hamilton of the Salvation Army for their work in St. Louis. The Hamiltons recently retired. They live at 3949 Forest Park boulevard.

Bills introduced would:

Appropriate $22,500 from parking meter funds to buy a parking lot on the west side of Ohio avenue, north of Cherokee street from the Cherokee Businessmen's Association.

Provide for erection of a yield right-of-way sign at the northeast corner of the Lindell boulevard cut-off into Union boulevard; prohibit parking on both sides of Euclid avenue between Forest Park and Kingshighway; establish a stop sign on Fourteenth street at Branch street.

Require that warnings be printed on plastic cleaning bags urging parents of infants to destroy the bags because of the danger of babies playing with them and suffocating.

Authorize St. Ann street to be vacated from Park to Carroll avenues to expand city hospital properties; rezone nine lots at Devonshire and Hampton avenues to permit the construction of multi-storied apartments, and rezone four lots on Lansdowne avenue between Chippewa and Donovan streets to permit the construction of two four-family flats.

DJILAS, YUGOSLAV CRITIC OF REDS, LEAVES PRISON

BELGRADE, Jan. 20 (UPI)—Former Vice President Milovan Djilas was released on parole today from the prison where he had served nearly five years for criticizing Communist policies.

He originally was sentenced in 1956 to serve two years on charges of spreading propaganda hostile to the Yugoslav government.

Djilas was resentenced in 1957 to an additional seven years after publishing "The New Class," a book that sharply condemned the trends of Communism.

The court declared that the book tried "to compromise socialism as an idea." Djilas himself testified that "I do not feel myself to be a Communist any more."

behind schedule. All public schools in New York City, parts of New Jersey, and in many other areas were closed. Businesses and industry were affected by lack of manpower.

Funeral Services Off.

Even the burying of the dead was affected in New York City when funeral parlors canceled scheduled services. Burials would be impossible, a mortuary spokesman said.

Suburban communities in New York state were paralyzed by the storm. Poughkeepsie's Mayor Victor Waryas proclaimed a state of emergency, with all firemen and police ordered to their stations. Mail service, industry and schools were shut down.

At Newburgh, N.Y., the Newburgh-Beacon News suspended publication of all four of its editions today because of the storm. It was the first shutdown in the afternoon daily's 76-year history.

"We could probably get out a newspaper, but we couldn't get it distributed," said City Editor Ralph Aiello.

By United Press International.

At least 14 deaths were attributed to the storm, including eight in Pennsylvania, two in New York, two in New Jersey, and one each in New Hampshire and Washington.

As new snow and the mercury both fell in New York, the city's Weather Bureau chief quit. But Ernest J. Christie, head of the New York office since 1949, assured reporters that yesterday's storm and his resignation to become a private weather consultant were mere coincidence.

Famed National Leaders of Past, Present on Inaugural Platform

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—The Democratic faithful massed on Capitol Hill today, endured subfreezing temperatures, and witnessed the inauguration of John Fitzgerald Kennedy as the thirty-fifth and—at the age of 43—the youngest elected President of the United States.

The inaugural platform glittered with the political leaders of past and present who have shared in some of the momentous decisions of modern times, including former President Harry S. Truman. The weather kept former President Herbert Hoover away.

Also present were members of the Supreme Court and members of the new President's team, mostly a corps of dedicated young men likely to figure prominently in his efforts to shape the destinies of the nation for the next four years.

Also among the honored guests was Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who nearly 28 years ago on this same spot watched her husband Franklin D. Roosevelt, in his inaugural address, chart a course for what became famous in the nation's history as the New Deal.

Near Mrs. Roosevelt was Mrs. Alben Barkley, a former St. Louisan who is the widow of one of the Democratic party's legendary figures. Barkley served as President Truman's Vice President.

Mrs. Truman was seated near her husband. Also on the inaugural stand was Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the nation's World War I President.

Parents Aglow With Pride.

Aglow with pride as their son took the oath of office were Mr. Kennedy's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, former Ambassador to the Court of St. James under President Franklin Roosevelt, and his mother, Mrs. Rose Kennedy.

Three generations of Kennedys were represented at the ceremonies. Only the oldest of this new political dynasty—the President's aged grandmother, widow of Boston's famed Mayor John F. (Honey Fitz) Fitzgerald — and the very youngest of the Kennedy grandchildren could not attend. The latter included the new President's children, Caroline, 3, and John F. Jr., 2 months, who remained in Florida under care of a family nurse.

Others among the 18 Kennedy grandchildren were driven by nursemaids and governesses from homes rented by their parents in the Georgetown section of Washington to watch from box seats while "Uncle John" took the oath.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kennedy, who were childhood playmates when the father of each was a power in Boston Democratic politics, had been confident through the years they would live to see one of their four sons, three of whom are living, take the oath of office as President.

Today they became the first parents in the nation's history to witness their son's inaugural. The mother and father of Ulysses S. Grant both were living when he took office, but the elder Mrs. Grant was unable to attend the inauguration.

Clustered about the inaugural stand, though not all visible to spectators, was a formidable array of Kennedy family members.

They included the new President's brother, Robert F. Kennedy, who will be his Attorney General, and his wife, Ethel; another brother, Edward, and his wife; and sisters Eunice, Jean and Patricia, and their respective husbands, R. Sargent Shriver, Stephen Smith and Peter Lawford; Miss Ann Gargan, an aunt, and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, mother of the new President's wife, and her husband.

If ever there was a "family day" on Capitol Hill on inauguration day this was it. The album presented by the Kennedy gathering was one of personal as well as family triumph. All have been active in using their wit, weatlh, charm and energy in framing the political fortunes of John Kennedy since the day his older brother, Joseph P. Kennedy Jr., was killed on a naval flying mission in World War II and John Kennedy was tapped to carry the load in establishing the nearest thing to a political royal family this nation has known.

38 Governors on Hand.

Thirty-eight of the nation's 50 Governors were here for the inauguration, as was former Vice President Henry A. Wallace. Missing were three Southern Democratic governors, Orval Faubus of Arkansas, Ross Barnett of Mississippi and Jimmie H. Davis of Louisiana.

Among those watching the ceremony from favored positions were nine surviving members of the crew of the PT boat commanded by Lt. John F. Kennedy, then 26, when it was sunk by a Japanese destroyer in the Solomon islands in World War II. Lt. Kennedy was decorated for his heroic efforts in rescuing his crew.

Also witnessing the ceremony was probably the new President's most dangerous adversary — Gunji Hosono, commander of the destroyer which cut Mr. Kennedy's craft in two, and now chairman of the Japanese Foreign Affairs Institute.

KENNEDY PHOTO IS SELECTED FOR ENGRAVING SERIES

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—A photograph of John F. Kennedy, much used as a poster in the last campaign, has just been approved as a basis for the collection of engravings of the Presidents at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The photograph was brought to the bureau by Edward H. Foley, chairman of the Inaugural Committee, as part of the change-over of administrations. Charles A. Brooks, a top engraver at the bureau, will engrave it on steel for circulation among interested citizens and future use in currency. The photograph was taken by Bachrach.

It will take from two to three months for Brooks to reproduce the photograph by hand on steel. Then it may be purchased, like the engravings of all the other Presidents; from the bureau. The small size will cost 25 cents. The complete set now costs $8.25. Engravings of 14 of the presidents are available in a larger size at 55 cents each.

POET FROST READS BEST WHAT COMES NATURALLY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—Poet Robert Frost may sometimes have trouble reading a speech, but he still can recite a poem.

He had a poem to read at the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy today, but planned to precede it with an introduction noting Mr. Kennedy's special invitation to various artists to attend the inauguration. That, he said, "seems something for us to celebrate." But he had trouble reading the introductory remarks and commented, "I can't read in this sunlight."

Mr. Kennedy smiled. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson stepped up to shade the manuscript from the sun with his top hat. The audience applauded and laughed.

Frost gave up on the preliminary remarks and went on to his poem. "I can say it to you without reading it," he said.

ARMY RACKET IN FORMOSA

TAIPEI, Formosa, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Chinese Nationalist Defense Ministry today ordered two major generals, Wu Kung-yi and Chiang Yu-chen, arrested on charges of heading a $50,000 kickback racket.

The ministry said the two generals were directors of the army automobile rebuilding plant in Taipei and that they and other officials of the plant collected more than $50,000 from dealers who sold automobile parts to the plant.

stated that his department had discussed the proposed prohibition against mid-street loading with company representatives several times and that the suggestion should not come as a surprise to the firm.

He said his department had refrained for several years from seeking the establishment of Franklin and Delmar as one-way streets because of the two-way streetcar operation on Franklin.

"We are convinced, however, that this no longer can be accepted as an obstacle to the establishment of traffic control principles," he declared.

A spokesman for the transit firm said there would be no immediate comment on the Henry proposals.

"Serious study will have to be given to them first," he said.

3 Eichmann Aids Wanted.

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 20 (AP)—The West German police today offered rewards of 10,000 marks ($2380) each for the capture of three former S.S. officers charged with helping Adolf Eichmann carry out the Nazi program to exterminate the Jewish people. Wanted are Majs. Rolf and Hans Guenther and Capt. Franz Novak.

CAROLINE PLAYS IN FLORIDA AS DADDY IS INAUGURATED

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 20 (UPI)—Caroline Kennedy played on her grandfather's lawn today while her father became President of the United States.

"She's too young to know much about what's going on, but she knows she's going to see her Daddy and Mommy on television," said Maude Shaw, nurse for the three-year-old daughter of the new President.

MANY NATIONS SALUTE KENNEDY AND EISENHOWER

LONDON, Jan. 20 (AP) — Many nations of the world bade President Eisenhower an affectionate farewell yesterday and sent warm greetings to his successor, John F. Kennedy.

On the eve of inauguration, the tenor of messages from the non-Communist world was one of hope that the new administration will provide leadership to spare mankind from war.

The first messages came from Asia. From New Delhi, President Rajendra Prasad of India told Mr. Kennedy his inauguration "comes at a time when the world needs all men of good will to work together in the cause of peace and progress," adding:

"I am confident that the warm friendship between the peoples of India and the United States, already so happily and firmly established . . . will continue to grow stronger during your tenure as President."

Korean Message.

President Yun Po-sun of South Korea told Mr. Eisenhower:

"The untiring efforts of your excellency to promote peace with justice in the world will ever be remembered by men of good will of all nations."

John M. Chang, South Korea's prime minister, expressed similar sentiments to Mr. Eisenhower and congratulated Mr. Kennedy in these words:

"We pray that Almighty God in his wisdom will guide you and grant unfailing strength in carrying out the arduous affairs of state upon the successful handling of which the hopes of so many now depend."

President Ayub Khan of Pakistan and President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China sent congratulations to Mr. Kennedy.

Moscow radio led the Communist chorus against Mr. Eisenhower. Blaming the Eisenhower Administration for the disarmament deadlock at Geneva and the collapse of the Paris summit conference, a broadcast said:

"America's role and influence in the world diminished catastrophically in those eight years.

"America's name was disgraced by the part it played in stirring up various international conflicts as well as its share in the conspiracies against the nations who are fighting for national independence."

British Comment.

Not all the criticism of Mr. Eisenhower came from the Communist side. The Manchester Guardian said he left behind an impression "of good intentions marred by indecision and lack of imagination."

"He was a good man, sincere, honorable, obviously anxious to serve his people and the world," the British newspaper said. "But he faced a task that seemed beyond his capacity; and he approached it in a spirit which made failure almost inevitable."

The Daily Express said "Mr. Eisenhower quits the scene enjoying still an immense popularity," is "loved and trusted in the United States" and "is deeply respected in Britain."

"Now Mr. Kennedy comes in," the Express added, "with high hopes and great expectations. The problems he faces are heavy and not unlike those that beset his predecessor . . . certainly, Britain will sustain him."

President Heinrich Luebke of West Germany pledged the support of the German people to the new administration.

"May you, in concert with the people of good will in all nations, succeed in bringing the great and earnest problems of the present closer to a permanent solution in the spirit of justice and thereby safeguard peace and freedom in the world," Luebke said.

Italy's Best Wishes.

President Giovanni Gronchi of Italy extended to Mr. Kennedy best wishes that his "work in the service of progress in freedom, justice and peace will strengthen further the friendly ties" between Italy and the United States.

Premier Fanfani of Italy joined in the messages of farewell and congratulations.

Chancellor Adenauer assured Mr. Eisenhower the German people would be grateful to him for his "energetic understanding" of Germany's problems. "The confidence which all free nations have in you has made co-operation in the Western world close and fruitful," Adenauer said.

President Istvan Dobi of Communist Hungary cabled congratulations to Mr. Kennedy. He said he hoped the Kennedy Administration would "contribute toward the relaxation of international tension, the strengthening of understanding and friendship among the peoples all over the world."

NIXON TO PUSH MIDDLE-OF-ROAD POLICY IN G.O.P.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) —Retiring Vice President Richard M. Nixon pointed yesterday to a middle-of-the-road course for the Republican party, from which he intimated he might seek the G.O.P. presidential nomination again in 1964.

Nixon announced at a goodby gathering of reporters that he was negotiating to join a Los Angeles law firm. He did not name the firm.

He and Mrs. Nixon will take off tomorrow for Nassau for a month's vacation. They will go to California shortly after their return to seek a new home. The Nixons will retain their Washington house until June, when their two daughters complete the school year.

Questioned as to whether he plans to seek a second presidential nomination four years from now, Nixon replied:

'No Plans at Present'.

"I have no plans at the present time to run for any office in 1962 or 1964. I have no organization for 1964, but that doesn't mean I am ruling out any possibility of being a candidate."

Nixon made it clear he intended to be active as titular head of his party.

He said he planned to write and speak in an effort to build up the party, particularly in the metropolitan areas which generally went against him in the November election, in the South and among young people in the colleges.

Otherwise, Nixon said his primary concern would be a continuing study of world affairs. He said he planned travel abroad later.

He said he did not think his defeat in the presidential election would swing the Republican party either to the right or to the left.

Potential rivals for the 1964 nomination, should he seek it, are Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, regarded as a liberal, and Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, an avowed conservative.

Nixon said he thought most Republicans agreed with the economic philosophy he expressed in the campaign which he said put primary emphasis on private enterprise instead of big government.

"What President Eisenhower stood for is the position that the country needs and the Republican party should follow it, regardless of who is the nominee in 1964," he said.

View on Kennedy in 1964.

A reporter wanted to know if the Vice President thought President Kennedy would be easier to defeat in 1964.

That depends, Nixon replied, on what happens to the country and the world in the next four years.

He said Mr. Kennedy would have the power behind him and, if the Democratic Chief Executive did reasonably well in office, there would be an inclination on the part of many people to give him a second term.

On the other hand, he said Mr. Kennedy might find it a disadvantage to have to defend his administration's actions, particularly if things did not go well in the country and the world.

"My prediction is that when the Kennedy Administration begins to deal with some of the basic problems facing the country they will find their actions compare with those we took," Nixon said.

"I think the Eisenhower Administration will come out pretty well. The verdict of history will not sustain the position that this administration has left the country in a terrible state."

AUTO MAKERS PROVIDE 450 CARS FOR INAUGURATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (UPI) — Auto manufacturers provided 450 new cars, including 110 convertibles, to transport dignitaries in today's inaugural parade. The first President to use a motor vehicle for his inaugural parade was Warren G. Harding in 1921. Before that time, horse-drawn carriages were used to transport the Chief Executive on his big ride down the avenue.

CONGO REBELS HOLD BELGIANS IN RETALIATION

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo, Jan. 20 (AP)—The United Nations command today said 12 Belgians have been arrested in Stanleyville by incensed rebels seeking revenge for the transfer of Patrice Lumumba into the hands of his enemies in Katanga province.

U.N. overtures for the Belgians' release were curtly rejected. The rebels charged the U.N. command with connivance in the ex-Premier's transfer from an army camp near Leopoldville.

Rajeshwar Dayal, head of the U.N. Congo operation, sent a sharp protest against what is feared may become a wave of violent reprisals against Europeans living in the rebel-controlled provinces of Oriental and Kivu.

A U.N. spokesman said he had no evidence that those arrested, including three women, had been tortured. The 1800 U.N. troops in Oriental province were specially alerted to guard against expected outbreaks of violence.

The rebel authorities demanded that the U.N. stay out of the affair.

"This we have no intention of doing," the U.N. spokesman declared.

In his note of protest, Dayal warned that the U.N. would not tolerate any arbitrary deprivation of individual freedom of movement or subjection to rough physical treatment.

Lumumba's followers have been particularly angered by the reports of the beating he received from Katanga police when he arrived at Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, three days ago.

The U.N. command said it had received an official report that Lumumba and two of his followers were beaten with rifle butts, then knocked to the ground and thrown into a jeep that rushed them off.

Katanga President Moise Tshombe denied reports of the beating.

As tempers rose in Oriental province, the 11-member U.N. Conciliation Commission arrived in Stanleyville yesterday, hopeful of constructive conversations with rebel leaders. They were met at the airport by a representative of self-styled Premier Antoine Gizenga. The commission hoped to have formal talks with him and provincial authorities today before flying on to Elisabethville.

NEW ANGLICAN CHURCH HEAD TO PUSH FOR UNITY

LONDON, Jan. 20 (UPI)—Dr. Arthur Ramsey, who will become Archbishop of Canterbury in June, made it clear today he will follow his predecessor in seeking closer ties with other Christian churches.

"I should love to meet the Pope (as the outgoing Archbishop did in December), but union of all churches is a slow process. . . ." said Dr. Ramsey, now Archbishop of York. "I intend to serve this process to the best of my power."

The Anglican prelate was nominated formally yesterday for the vacancy created by the May 31 retirement of Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, who has been Archbishop of Canterbury since 1945. Election is a formality. The new Archbishop will be installed shortly after his 73-year-old predecessor steps down.

Dr. Ramsey will be succeeded as Archbishop of York by Donald Coggan, Bishop of Bradford.

12 SAVED WHEN FREIGHTER SINKS OFF FLORIDA KEYS

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 20 (AP)—All 12 crewmen were reported safe after the sinking of a small British freighter in waters between Cuba and the Florida Keys.

The 141-foot ship, the Caribbean Queen, flashed an S.O.S. followed by the word "breaking" at 5:30 p.m. yesterday. The Coast Guard said it had been unable to learn why the vessel sank. The ship underwent hull repairs at Tampa three weeks ago and seas were only slightly choppy.

The Honduran crew, headed by Capt. Albert G. Shippee of Maine, made its way to Cay Sal, a small Bahamian island 125 miles south of Miami and 45 miles north of Cuba. The Caribbean Queen, owned by Eastern shipping Co., of Miami, sailed empty from Tampa Wednesday for the Dominican Republic to pick up a load of bananas.

NASA PLANS SPACE SHIP TO LAND GENTLY ON MOON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced plans yesterday to develop a space ship that would land gently on the moon, drill below the surface, and send television pictures back to earth.

The space ship, to be named the Surveyor, would drop to the moon more slowly than a parachutist landing on earth. The Surveyor, weighing 750 pounds, would land on three legs. Its total height, including antenna: 11 feet.

The NASA said it plans to send seven Surveyors to the moon betwen 1963 and 1966. The program's total cost was estimated at $50,000,000.

W. GERMANY ACTS TO HELP CURB U.S. DOLLAR DRAIN

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 20. (UPI) — The West German Bundesbank cut its discount rate to 3½ per cent yesterday in another move aimed at easing pressure on the United States dollar.

The ½ per cent reduction came little more than two months after a 1 per cent cut ordered by the official bank in an effort to halt the flow into West Germany of "hot money" in search of short-term high interest rates.

The Bundesbank coupled the rate reduction with a lowering of minimum requirements of private and business banks. The minimum requirements are the funds banks must deposit with the Bundesbank from their German and foreign accounts. The requirements were lowered by 5 per cent to encourage the banks to invest money abroad at higher interest rates.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—Foreign purchases of American gold totaled $105,000,000 in the past week, the Federal Reserve Board said yesterday. The purchases reduced the total United States gold supply to $17,510,000,000. Foreigners so far this year have bought $256,000,000 of American gold.

Missile Plant Layoffs.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20 (AP)—The General Electric Co. announced yesterday that 500 to 600 employes will be laid off at its missile and space vehicle department here because of a cutback in federal defense funds.

Blasted out of solid rock, this Butane storage cavern is located 432 feet straight down beneath Shell's refinery in Wood River, Illinois. Some 230,000 tons of limestone were removed to clear a total area that's larger than two football fields—and holds 22 million gallons. Storage space consists of many corridors, each as high and wide as a good-sized suburban house, and many times as long.

BULLETIN:

40 stories down, in caverns no tourist will ever see, lies the secret of the quicker starts you get with today's Super Shell—the gasoline for top performance

The 9 ingredients in today's Super Shell are specially blended every season to give you top performance in any weather.

While colder, harder-starting mornings are here, today's Super Shell is primed with extra Butane—an ingredient so volatile it has to be stored under pressure all summer to stop it from vaporizing by itself.

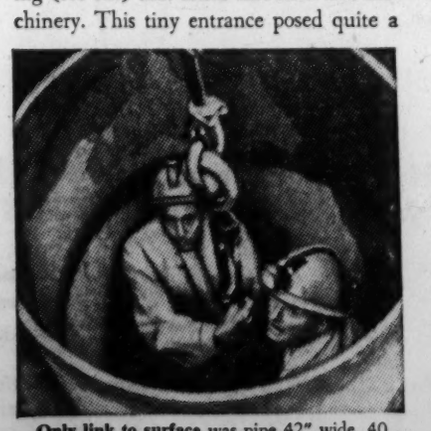
Think what this high volatility means on cold days. Faster firing. A big strain off your battery. And an even bigger one off your patience.

IT TAKES millions of gallons of Butane to give today's Super Shell its nationwide reputation for quick winter starts.

But you might wonder why Shell goes to so much trouble to store this quick-start ingredient underground. Here's why.

Butane is stored as a liquid. But it is so eager to vaporize that it has to be kept under pressure. This can be done in tanks of course. But Shell's refinery experts decided that a cavern would be safer and more economical. They didn't have a cavern handy. So they built one.

It was no mean task. For instance, the whole cavern had to be leakproof, airtight—and had to have the smallest possible opening (see cut) that could take men and machinery. This tiny entrance posed quite a problem when it came to getting a bulldozer down. But our "spelunkers" simply cut up the bulldozer to fit the hole.



Only link to surface was pipe 42" wide, 40 stories deep. Hefty equipment was dismantled, lowered and reassembled on the cavern floor.

The very thing that makes Butane a problem to store makes it work wonders in stone cold engines.

Low temperatures make ordinary gasoline reluctant to fire. But when you add Butane, volatility increases dramatically and even the coldest engine finds it easier to start.

That's why an extra dose of Butane is added to today's Super Shell whenever the weather is likely to be wintry. It takes a strain off your engine, your battery and your patience.

Butane has hot-weather benefits, too—an odd little paradox

Shell's refining experts always add a certain amount of Butane to Super Shell—even in mid-summer. This may sound paradoxical. But it isn't.

Volatile Butane also happens to have an unusual anti-knock value at high temperatures. So this winter-start ingredient has a summer benefit, too. It helps to smooth out your car's performance just as much in June as it does in January.

Now that you know about Butane, why not take a couple of extra minutes and learn about the eight other ingredients in today's Super Shell? It's essential reading if you want to know the secret of top performance.

Ingredient #2 is TCP for power, mileage and longer plug-life

Super Shell now contains an even better version of this famous additive. Its chemical name is cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate.

TCP additive can give your car up to 15 per cent more power; up to 17 extra miles per tankful; and can make plugs last up to twice as long.*

New TCP does this by neutralizing certain harmful effects of combustion deposits. It is scientifically formulated to keep them from glowing when hot—a major cause of power loss. Also to keep them from diverting your spark—a major cause of "missing."

Ingredient #3 is "cat-cracked" gasoline for power with a purr

This is petroleum that has actually cracked under 900-degree heat and catalytic action. Its heavier molecules have been shattered into livelier, lighter ones.

The result is a super-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.

NOTE: "Cat-cracking" refers to the use of a catalyst—the mysterious substance that can alter molecules without changing itself.

Ingredient #4 is Alkylate, noted for knock control in hot engines

Jimmy Doolittle helped pioneer this outstanding high-octane ingredient for Shell aviation fuel.

Alkylate—the ingredient that took the dream of 100-octane gasoline out of the lab and put it into the skies—is now in Super Shell. It controls knocking in hot engines at high speeds better than anything else yet available.

NOTE: Speaking of controlling knocks at high speeds, remember that car engines frequently turn even faster than the engines of a DC-7.

Ingredient #5 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks

You might think that two high-octane ingredients are enough for knock-free performance. But Shell's scientists have ears like musicians.

They insist on adding a special anti-knock mix. A mix, so effective, one teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating by five points.

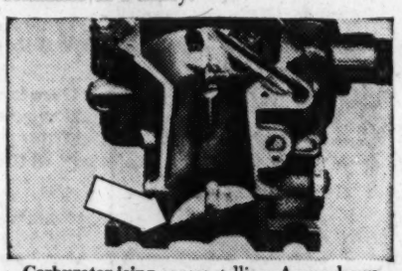
This mix has the tricky job of regulating combustion so that Super Shell gives each piston a firm, even push—rather than a sharp blow which would cause a knock.

Ingredient #6 is Pentane mix for fast warm-ups on cold days

Pentanes are made by tearing gasoline apart, much as you split kindling to start a log fire.

In this case, the "logs" are petroleum's heavier hydrocarbons. A special process transforms their molecules from slow-burning "logs" into the quicker-firing "kindling."

NET RESULT: Fast warm-up and top performance in a hurry.



Carburetor icing causes stalling. Arrow shows where ice can form on your throttle plate. Shell anticipates this problem. See below.

Ingredient #7 is an "anti-icer" to check cold-weather stalling

Super Shell's formula is adjusted as often as eight times a year to beat the weather. For example, whenever the temperature is likely to be less than forty-five degrees, a carburetor anti-icer is added.

Why add anti-icer at forty-five degrees? Because, even then, frost can form in your carburetor just as it does in your refrigerator. It can choke your engine dead.

Ingredient #8 is gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside

Even the purest gasoline can form gum when stored. This can clog carburetors and foul automatic chokes. But, with Super Shell, you needn't worry. A special gum preventive does the trick.

It acts like a policeman controlling a mob. Regulates unstable elements to help keep them from clotting. Hence no gum problem.

Ingredient #9 is Platformate for extra energy, more mileage

It takes eight million dollars' worth of platinum catalyst for Shell to produce Platformate. But fortunately for you and for us, this precious stuff can be used over and over again.

The platinum re-forming process, which gives Platformate its odd name, converts petroleum into super-energy components—such as benzene, xylene and toluene.

These three alone release 11 per cent more energy per gallon than the finest 100-octane gasoline.

But make no mistake. This is not untamed energy. Far from it. The super-energy of Platformate is harnessed by the eight other ingredients in Super Shell, where it behaves so well you scarcely know it's there. That is until you note your extra mileage. After that, there is no doubt.

Test Super Shell for yourself

Try Super Shell next time you fill up. You'll soon feel and hear a difference in the way your engine runs.

That difference is top performance.

WOMAN CASHIER FOILS HOLDUP AT LACLEDE GAS

Quick thinking by Mrs. Mary Slupsky, a cashier, prevented a robbery yesterday at the Laclede Gas Co., 1017 Olive street.

Mrs. Slupsky was in the cashier's cage about 4:25 p.m. when she saw a man standing at the other side of the tall counter. He was holding a pistol in his right hand.

"Stay away from the buzzer," the holdup man said. "Give me all the money."

Mrs. Slupsky told police the pistol was partly concealed by a handkerchief. She also noticed that the man had placed on the counter a piece of brown paper on which letters from newspaper headlines had been pasted. It apparently was a message concerning the holdup.

Sounds Alarm.

Without losing a moment, Mrs. Slupsky dropped to the floor and pressed a buzzer under the counter. It sounded a police alarm.

Miss Virginia Chuchian, 4157 Westminster place, working at the next cage, noticed Mrs. Slupsky's action and also dropped to the floor.

When the two women stood up again, the holdup man had fled without obtaining any money. His note also was gone.

Mrs. Slupsky, who lives at 10600 Larkspur drive, Affton, said the robber was about 60 years old and six feet tall. He wore a brown tweed topcoat and a brown hat, she said.

Victor Cohen reported that two men, one armed with a revolver and the other with a knife, robbed him of an undetermined amount of money in his confectionery at 3126 Prairie avenue last night.

Jabs Gun in Side.

The man with the revolver jabbed it in Cohen's side and directed Cohen to transfer money from a cash register to a paper bag. The robbers forced Cohen and an employe, Mrs. Linda Marx, to lie on the floor, and they fled with the money.

John Vaughn was held up in his food store at 3921 North Eleventh street last night by two men who fled with $333, he reported.

The men, armed with a revolver and shotgun, rifled two cash registers and a cigar box which contained money order receipts. They tore a telephone from a wall before leaving, Vaughn said.

EISENHOWER GETS $8125 IN LAST PAY, EXPENSE CHECKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) — President Eisenhower received his last salary and expense checks yesterday. The checks for 19½ days in January, totaled $8125 before deductions.

The presidential salary is $100,000 a year plus $50,000 for expenses. Both are subject to income taxes and are payable in 12 monthly installments.

The checks are not delivered directly to the President. Each month, the General Accounting Office authorizes the Treasury to write two checks for the President, for salary and for expenses, and specifies the amounts. The checks are taken to Col. Robert Schultz of the White House staff, who signs a receipt book and passes the checks along to the President.

The checks delivered yesterday amounted to $5416.69 in salary and $2708.31 in expenses. The Treasury would not disclose the amount of taxes withheld. Officials said the salary check was reduced by $10.83 for life insurance and $10.70 for health insurance.

Hazel Scott Remarried.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SHELDON, Ia., Jan. 20 — The president of the Northern Biochemical Corp., in which confessed embezzler Mrs. Burnice Iverson Geiger invested $130,000, was paroled in 1958 from a one-year jail sentence for unauthorized sales of securities in Nebraska.

Nebraska authorities said Harold E. Kistner was involved in several securities schemes in that state. He pleaded guilty to an indictment charging 14 counts of unauthorized sales on Aug. 7, 1958, at Kearney, Nebr.

Mrs. Geiger, principal stockholder in Kistner's latest corporation, has admitted taking $2,126,859 from the Sheldon National Bank where she worked as an assistant cashier. Her father is president of the bank, which has been forced to close.

Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, has been economic adviser to Northern Biochemical. He told reporters he had been unable to obtain a profit-and-loss statement of last year's operations. The company manufactures additives for agricultural feeds.

Meanwhile, the job of liquidating the bank was continued today by officials of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. E. L. Cox Jr., of Washington, supervising liquidator, said all accounts will be paid off to the insured maximum of $10,000.

After the accounts up to $10,000 are paid, Cox said, they will be subtracted from the bank's assets. These were reported as $1,995,000 in a bank statement last Dec. 31.

Mrs. Geiger remained in jail today and refused to see her husband, Wallace P. Geiger, operator of a hardware store. Her only visitors were identified as Mrs. Harold Kistner Jr., wife of the head of the Northern Biochemical Corp., and Mrs. Kistner's mother.

Mrs. Geiger's court-appointed attorney, Stanley Corbett, announced his withdrawal from the case. He explained he had reached the conclusion that Mrs. Geiger and her family were in position to furnish counsel.

The FDIC officials said they had not learned how Mrs. Geiger sole the money, but United States Attorney F. E. Van Alstine at Sioux City said he had an inkling. Her methods were "like nothing I've ever seen before," he said.

SECOND BODY RECOVERED FROM SUNKEN TOWER

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass., Jan. 20 (AP)—Divers searching the sunken platform of Texas Tower No. 4 recovered a second body from the ill-fated off-shore radar station yesterday before poor weather forced a temporary halt to the search.

The first body was recovered from the sea the day after the tower collapsed into a raging sea last Sunday night off the New Jersey coast. The body recovered yesterday was identified by the Air Force as that of M/Sgt. Roald Bakke, 35 years old, of Valley Stream, N.Y. He was a medical supervisor.

The Air Force officially announced yesterday that all 28 of the military and civilian personnel on the tower when it disappeared are now presumed dead. A board of inquiry is continuing an investigation of the collapse.

ORCHID DISPLAY TO OPEN SUNDAY AT SHAW'S GARDEN

The annual orchid display at the Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden, 2315 Tower Grove avenue, will open Sunday. This year it is augmented with camellias and tropical plants, it was announced today.

Several thousand orchids will be exhibited in the Floral Display House, camellias in the Linnaean House and tropical flowers and plants in the Climatron. In addition, paintings of orchids will be hung in the Floral Display House along with special exhibits by the Orchid Society of Greater St. Louis. The Linnaean House is especially lighted to show the camellia trees.

The garden is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Fridays through Sundays. The display will continue through Feb. 26. Admission to the Climatron is 50 cents.

BRITISH YOUTH IS ACCUSED OF HAVING SECRET PAPERS

LONDON, Jan. 20 (AP)—Police announced today the arrest of a 19-year-old youth on charges of possessing secret official documents.

Bryan Scott, a translator, made a brief appearance in Chelsea's police station and was formally charged. Scotland Yard declined to give any details of Scott's arrest—or to state what documents he was alleged to have carried.

MINISTER SAYS HE BURNED DOWN TWO OF HIS CHURCHES

PALO ALTO, Calif., Jan. 20 (AP)—A Baptist minister stunned his parishioners yesterday by admitting, officers said, that he had burned down two of his churches. He said he did not know why.

Officers booked on arson charges the Rev. Leonard Ross Rhoads, whose First Southern Baptist Church in Palo Alto burned last Dec. 13. Deputy District Attorney Harry Parker said the minister also admitted burning down his own church at Fontana Nov. 16, 1956.

"He is a fine fellow and a wonderful pastor," said Edwin Jones, president of the Palo Alto church's board of trustees. "There are no words to express how shocked I am."

Mrs. Omar Sharp, of East Palo Alto, who knew the Rev. Mr. Rhoads in Fontana and recommended him to the Palo Alto church, gasped: "There must be some mistake."

Airliner Crash

Gloria Sanchez Herrejon, the purser.

Many Picked Up by Autos.

Earlier, many persons had been reported missing in the confusion.

When the plane finally halted, passengers leaped through exit doors, smashed windows and fled in all directions in the subfreezing temperature.

Many were picked up by passing motorists and driven back to the airport or taken to hospitals.

Mrs. Josephine Nickleski, of Rosedale, Queens, was driving the auto struck by the plane. Her car was hurled about 100 feet off the road and caught fire. Mrs. Nickleski was described as in satisfactory condition today at St. Joseph's Hospital in Queens.

Sechrist, a teletypesetter operator for the Hartford (Conn.), Courant, described what happened after the plane hit:

"Small packages and bags fell off the racks," he said. "Women lost their shoes, eyeglasses went flying. Women started screaming.

Waited for Others.

"I was at a window seat. Three seats up from me across the aisle was an emergency door. Someone opened it, I don't know who. All I could see was fire across the door.

"I had to wait for eight or 10 other people before I got through. The girl in front of me lost her shoes somehow and tripped. She landed face down in the snow. When I got out, I helped her up and started running directly away from the plane. . . .

"When I turned around I saw about 15 or 20 people running from my side of the plane from the same door. There seemed to be about 10 other escape hatches. About a third of the plane was now on fire."

Sechrist said he was picked up by a motorist, adding: "As I sat in the car, I could see the entire plane in flames and the tail section was slowly melting in the fire."

The DC8B is the same type plane involved in the crash last month over Staten Island, killing 134 persons in history's worst commercial aviation disaster. A United Air Lines jet and a Trans World Airlines piston-driven Super Constellation came together while coming in for landings.

Five of Seven Aboard Killed When Bomber Explodes.

MONTICELLO, Utah, Jan. 20 (AP)—An Air Force B-52 jet bomber carrying seven men exploded in the air north of here last night.

Two men parachuted to safety. Witnesses reported seeing parts of two and possibly three bodies in the burning wreckage. The plane was from the Ninety-second Bomb Wing at Biggs Air Force Base, El Paso, Tex. Officials at Biggs said it was on a routine training mission.

Biggs Air Force Base identified the two survivors as First Lt. Thomas A. Stout, the copilot, of New Orleans, and Second Lt. Jerome R. Calvert of Phoenix, Ariz., the navigator.

It listed as missing: Capt. John P. Marsh, Edgar Springs, Mo., aircraft commander; Capt. Harold S. Bonneyville, Los Angeles, radar navigator; First Lt. Ivan G. Petty of Pekin, Ill., electronics warfare officer; Tech. Sgt. David Forsythe of Haverhill, Mass., gunner, and S.-Sgt. Lionel A. Terry, Athens, Ala., a passenger.

MISSOURI MILK PRICE LAW VOID, CIRCUIT JUDGE RULES

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 20 (AP) — Circuit Judge Samuel Semple of Moberly today declared Missouri's Milk Price Control Act unconstitutional.

The decision came in a case filed by the Borden Co. of Kansas City. Judge Semple was called in to hear the case after Cole County Circuit Judge Sam C. Blair disqualified himself. Borden complained against the act Sept. 11, 1959, just after the law became effective.

Sponsors of the act said it was needed to keep city dairies from invading the operating areas of small firms, driving them out of business by cutting prices. Borden contended the act violated the right of free enterprise and its provisions were vague and impossible to follow to the letter.

Link Verdict

had described Calvin as a trouble maker and prosecution lawyers agreed, saying "he was not the number one citizen of Franklin county."

Son Not Called.

The only witness to the shooting was Link's son. The state did not call him to testify.

Charles E. Hansen, former prosecuting attorney of Franklin county, in his final argument pictured Link as the aggressor. Agreeing that Calvin was a trouble-maker, he said "That does not give a reporter from the Post-Dispatch the right to come out from St. Louis and kill somebody."

Link, who was on the stand three hours, had testified that he feared for his life and for that of his son.

William Wessel, co-counsel for the defense, opened the final defense argument by stating that Link had simply defended himself and his son from a trespasser.

"The only dissenting opinion," he said, "comes from Mr. Hansen, who doesn't like Ted Link and doesn't like the Post-Dispatch.

Court's Instruction.

In his instructions to the jury, Judge Tate said it could find Link guilty of first-degree murder, second-degree murder, or manslaughter, or hold that Calvin's death was justifiable homicide. He added that if the jury believed Link or his son thought they had been in danger, it should acquit Link on the ground of self defense.

After the verdict was read and the judge dismissed the jury, Link thanked each juror personally.

CHAPLAIN, FOUR NURSES KILLED BY ALGERIAN REBELS

ALGIERS, Jan. 20 (AP)—Seven persons, including a French army chaplain and four nurses, were killed last night in a rebel ambush near Algiers.

They were returning from a tour of flooded areas near the Grib dam, about 60 miles from the city, when machinegun bullets smashed into the chaplain's car and a truck in which the nurses and two Moslem soldiers were riding. Three of the nurses were Moslems.

The guerrillas then surrounded the vehicles, which had come to a halt, and fired point-blank at the victims. French army units found the seven corpses and burned vehicles at dawn today. A knife was sticking out of the priest's throat.

SAME BAND FOR KENNEDY WEDDING, INAUGURAL BALL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (UPI) —At his wedding, John F. Kennedy requested "I Married an Angel" for his first dance with his bride, Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy.

They will hear the same band at tonight's inaugural ball, but this time the President-elect and his wife have no special requests.

Meyer Davis, musical director for the ball, played at the Kennedy wedding, at Miss Bouvier's debutante party and at six other inaugural balls — from Coolidge to Eisenhower. He also provided the music for the wedding party of Miss Bouvier's parents in 1928.

In an interview, the top society orchestra leader said Mrs. Kennedy wrote him that they have no special requests this time. She mentioned that she liked "libiamo," the popular waltz from La Traviata, and the President-elect was fond of "Greensleeves," an old English melody.

They both like fast-paced music, Davis said, and added that "she is a very good dancer." Davis said the presidential couple would not dance at their own ball because of Secret Service objections.

Colombia Is Achieving Stability After 13 Years of Civil War That Has Taken 200,000 Lives

Death Toll Drops From 100 a Day to 7 — Lleras Camargo's Rule Threatened by Return of Conflict and Revolt in Venezuela.

This is the sixth of a series of articles by a Post-Dispatch team investigating the extent of Communist infiltration into the South American countries.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BOGOTA, Jan. 20.

COLOMBIA HAS A SIMPLE STATISTICAL measure of its stability—the death toll in a civil war that has taken at least 200,000 lives in the last 13 years.

As the death rate goes down, the chances increase that the country can survive as an independent liberal democracy.

The current figure is seven dead a day. The rate was nine a day in 1959 and 15 a day in 1958. In earlier years it ran to 100 or more a day.

Despite sharp improvement in recent years, the 1960 toll was about 2600. Of these 100 were soldiers and police and 300 were outlaws.

THE REST WERE men, women and children, often tied hand and foot and hacked to pieces with machetes by roaming gangs that ambushed them on mountain roads or swooped down on isolated farmhouses.

This steady slaughter is what is left of a large scale civil war between the liberal and conservative parties in a case of two-party government gone wrong. It began in 1948 with the assassination of Liberal President Jorge Eliecer Gaitan and continued through the four-year dictatorship of Gen. Gustavo Rojas Pinilla who seized control in 1953.

President Alberto Lleras Camargo now heads a novel government in which the presidency alternates between the liberals and conservatives until 1974 and other offices are evenly divided between the two parties.

A FACTION of Lleras Camargos' own Liberal party has split off to form the revolutionary liberal movement. Its leader, Senator Alfonso Lopez Michelsen, wants to call off the alternation formula. At first he was strongly pro-Castro, although he has softened his tone lately. On the conservative side, there also is impatience with the national front. A big question is whether the conservatives can agree on a suitable nominee for the presidency by 1962 when it will be their turn to head the government.

In addition to continuing bandit raids, Lleras Camargo faces the problem of guerrilla warfare that is merely suspended, not wiped out. Guerrilla leaders of the two parties have settled down as feudal lords of their organizations. If the national front were to collapse, a new outbreak of full-scale civil war would be likely.

OTHER BANDIT and guerrilla groups are run by Communists. Within 30 miles of Bogota are two Communist enclaves, at Viota and Sumapaz south of the capital, where outsiders are unwelcome and even the army could not enter until a few months ago.

They are organized along Communist lines, distribute Communist literature and even circulate their own "bonds" as legal tender in the same denominations as Colombian money.

They have been quiescent for several years, but the leaders of the Sumapaz area have been trying recently to expand southeastward into a newly settled prairie area. "The violence," as Colombians call all this bandit and guerrilla activity, has roots deep in the nation's history. Shortly before independence in 1810, the Spanish viceroy sent home a protesting rural delegation of several hundred with promises of better treatment and then had them all systematically murdered.

Liberals and conservatives clashed in nearly 1000 insurrections and several wars in the Nineteenth Century, mainly over the issue of centralism vs. states rights. The violence continued to feed on social problems of poverty, illiteracy (45 per cent) and the landlessness that goes with a feudal agricultural system.

ROUGH TERRAIN poses additional problems in this country, the size of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico combined. The Andes mountains fan out into three rugged ridges penetrated by few railroads and highways. Most of the 14,000,000 population lives in the northwest third of the country, with large areas undeveloped and unsettled.

"If we had more roads we could stop the violence at once," an army commander said recently.

Agents of Communism and Fidelismo would have a fertile field of activity if it were not for Lleras Camargo's strong liberal program and great popularity among the forces that want social change.

Even so, agitators are busy with such projects as persuading peasants to squat illegally on someone else's land and scrawling "Cuba si, Yanquis no," on walls and fences.

Lleros Camargo has a broad program of education and expansion, public health, government housing and land development to open new areas and, most important, land "parcelization"—an agrarian reform in which the landless are given their own plots together with credit and technical assistance to begin life as independent farmers.

Kennedy Solutions in Long Run May Approach Those of F.D.R.

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.

THE PROBLEMS before the Kennedy Administration on inauguration day are much more difficult than the nation has yet come to believe. In the long run the solutions are likely to be more radical than anything in American politics since the first Roosevelt Administration.

The operating words here are "the long run," for in the short run this competent and pragmatic young administration is likely to deal with urgent questions such as the gold leakage and the 5,000,000 unemployed in conventional and perhaps even conservative ways.

Powerful forces abroad and at home, however, are likely to command the attention of these men in due course. Primarily because this is an administration of pragmatic and analytical men, it should not be a surprise if they eventually meet radical problems with radical solutions.

For the moment nobody knows what these solutions will be—not even Mr. Kennedy—but it is not too difficult to identify the problems and indicate the nature of the questions already under discussion.

THE QUESTION of Washington's economic and military relations with the allies is a case in point. It is no exaggeration to say that, even before the new administration is in office, its leaders are confronted with the prospect of seeing the alliance move forward to a much more radical form of interdependence or moving backward toward national protectionist or even isolationist policies.

The forces moving toward a new nationalism are already very strong. The outflow of gold and dollars from this country is serious. American industry, seeking cheaper labor markets, is moving steadily into the common market countries of western Europe; this at a time when there are already over 5,000,000 Americans unemployed.

Meanwhile, higher interest rates in Europe have been attracting American capital; the Germans have rejected the proposals for what Washington regards as a fair share of the defense of the continent; France has removed its Mediterranean fleet and some of its air force from the NATO command; Britain has ended its compulsory military draft, and the Liberal party in Canada, led by Lester Pearson, one of the founders of the NATO alliance, is threatening to take Canada out of the joint air defenses of this continent. (At present the Canadian government is Conservative.)

These things are happening at

Kennedy Gets Good Rating in Key Nations

World Gallup Poll Shows What Foreign Citizens Think.

Copyright, 1961, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N.J., Jan. 20.

JOHN F. KENNEDY takes over the reins of the United States presidency enjoying a good standing in the eyes of citizens in key nations around the globe.

As might be expected, a sizable minority of those interviewed by the World Gallup Poll has yet to form an opinion about the incoming Chief Executive.

But among those who have, the favorable reaction to Kennedy far outweighs the unfavorable. In each of the five nations and four major cities where opinion was sounded, the disapproval vote is negligible.

BY WAY OF comparison, the man who will be Kennedy's major opponent in the cold war struggle—Russia's Nikita Khrushchev—gets an unfavorable rating in all but one of the opinion centers, India's New Delhi.

In obtaining a world rating of the two Mr. K's, the World Gallup Poll made use of an intensity scale developed by Jan Stapel, of the affiliated Netherlands Institute of Public Opinion.

In each nation or city, persons were handed a card on which were printed 10 boxes ranging from a high of Plus 5 to a low of Minus 5. They were then asked (in their respective language) this question:

"You notice that the 10 boxes on this card go from the HIGHEST position of Plus 5—or something you like very much—all the way down to the LOWEST position of Minus 5—or something you dislike very much. Please tell me how far up or how far down the scale you would rate Kennedy? Khrushchev?

HIGHLIGHTS of the study:

Of the five nations in which country-wide samples were taken, Kennedy scored highest in West Germany, lowest in France.

Of the four major cities (Madrid, Spain; Johannesburg, South

Stories of Costly Missile Maker, Air Force Alliance Inaccurate

Counterforce Strategy, Which Avoids Destruction of Cities, Not Fully Accepted by Gen. Power.

By Brig. Gen. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Ret.)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20, 1960.

REPORTS RECENTLY PUBLISHED claiming that an "alliance between the missile makers and the military men who plan their use" insisted on a strategic target system that "would require a multi-billion dollar increase in the defense budget" are wholly inaccurate.

The stories, unquestionably inspired by service partisans, attempt to tie together the warning of President Eisenhower to guard against the "acquisition of unwarranted influence" by the military industrial complex, the current military debate about counterforce strategy as opposed to massive retaliation, and the strategic target planning organization set up in the Strategic Air Command last August.

The stories claim that the counterforce strategy is "indorsed" by the Air Force high command and much of the aircraft and missile industry and that Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander of the strategic Air Command, is overriding the opposition of naval members of the targeting organization and is assuming "complete control in deciding what areas of the Soviet Union are to be military targets."

IT SHOULD BE noted first the Air Force itself is divided on the question of counterforce, which calls for attacks on the enemy's weapons such as long-range missile and bomber bases that can be used to attack the United States, and avoids massive retaliation against cities.

The principal advocates of counterforce strategy have been the scientific civilian organizations who have war-gamed the different strategies extensively and have proved conclusively that the use of massive retaliation would certainly result in almost complete destruction of the United States, whereas limiting the attack to military targets would minimize destruction and even allow the United States to "win."

The thesis has been gaining adherents in the Air Force but far from all the top Air Force officers have accepted it. Power, who is supposed to be forcing it on the Navy through the strategic planning organization, has not fully accepted it. The counterforce strategy has substantial difficulties in application. Furthermore, it can best be implemented with aircraft and not with the missiles of the missile makers who are supposed to be advocating it.

Power, testifying before the House Appropriations Committee on this question March 22, 1960, said: "I do not think you are going to take all of the firepower off the cities. Furthermore, if you are going to attack a nation, you have to attack its control centers." Control centers mean capitals and principal cities.

THIS IS IN direct opposition to counterforce strategy, which holds that the control centers must not be attacked, even though they may be military targets. The reason is that if any overtures for peace and an end to destruction are to be undertaken, the control and communications centers must be kept in operation. Otherwise, no messages can be sent or received and the military forces still extant will blindly continue launching missiles and aircraft.

The Navy has adopted the doctrine of massive retaliation on cities, apparently because it is the only strategic doctrine that can justify a large force of Polaris submarines and missiles Adm. Arleigh Burke and R. Adm. George Russell both have testified that 30 Polaris submarines are sufficient to destroy the Soviet Union. Assuming that two-thirds are on station, this accounts for the Navy's push for 45 Polaris submarines.

The Navy successfully resisted for years all efforts to tie the Navy's strategic capabilities in with those of the Strategic Air Command. The targets for the

Letters from the People

Hope Or Chains?

I was very much impressed with your editorial, "A New Moment of Hope." The title was well chosen because the prospect, if some advance towards disarmament is made, is incalculable in terms of relief from tensions.

It would give mankind a new lease on life. The fear of extinction would recede and life itself would become more tranquil. Overburdening taxes could be relaxed, inflation could be arrested and money could be made available for the relief of business, for the creation of new jobs and for social-economic public projects.

Although the United States and the West need not relax vigilance in moving toward disarmament, they should attempt to create an atmosphere of understanding and even friendly negotiations with Russia. Neither side can attempt to achieve its own total goal. Most negotiations which are successful are the the result of compromise by the parties involved and, upon review, the results usually are what the participants desired.

Should the new Administration decide to take the first step toward cordial relations with Russia, and many more steps must be taken before they are reached, the prospect for peace in our time and the deliverance of mankind from extinction could appear on the horizon. The thought is inspiring and could well be the means of banishing forever war as a means of deciding questions.

The entire world would be indebted to the East as well as to the West and the brotherhood of man would begin to appear a possibility. With what joy and enthusiasm would the Nobel Peace Prize be awarded to the participants and what a noble peace prize it would be for man.

The Post-Dispatch does indeed point to a new moment of hope. May we be granted the wisdom to grasp it. P. A. Conrath
Webster Groves

The mistaken thinking in your terrifying editorial on disarmament can only lead to an America bound up in Russian chains.

Reach agreements with the Russians? They have broken 52 of 54 agreements concluded since World War II. The Russians want only one thing—the complete and utter destruction of America and enslavement of the people.
Florissant John A. Stormer

The Meat of Transit

It seems fashionable to assume that public ownership of the local transit will cause droves of people to abandon their autos for the buses, lured by low fares and "better" service. Actually, it is only if this "better" service includes a true rapid transit system that a patronage increase will occur.

The experience of the publicly-owned Chicago Transit Authority demonstrates this. Over the last 10 years, Chicago's surface lines have shown a 60 per cent drop in patronage. However, their subway and elevated rapid transit lines have shown a 3 per cent increase. The pace is accelerating. Chicago's rapid transit carried 7 per cent more passengers in 1959 than in 1958.

These results show that it takes more than a blue flag to convert to a rapid transit vehicle.

Public ownership is of value only insofar as it helps solve economic, physical and legal problems encountered in building and operating a true rapid transit operation, and integrating it with the surface lines.

In considering which agency is to take over the St. Louis transit lines, everyone seems worried about which can get in business the soonest. Little thought is given to the real question of which agency can get rapid transit in operation first. Don Steinmeyer

Hate on Target

The attacks on Robert Kennedy and his suitability for the job of Attorney General make me sick. The least intelligent of these attacks was contained in the article by Alexander Bickel which you reprinted recently.

Let's get level with the business of hating. If Robert Kennedy hates Communism and Jimmy Hoffa and Joey Glimco and the Mafia and the the Syndicate, I'm for him because I hate the same things.

And if, because Robert Kennedy hates them so much, they are scourged from our society, you and Mr. Bickel and I and all of the rest of the nation will be the better for it. William A. Rooney

Red China's Stand

Adlai Stevenson's testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that admission of Communist China to the United Nations "may be impossible to prevent" is no more than a recognition of the facts, regardless of how it strikes those Americans who are unalterably opposed to Western dealings with the Chinese Reds.

Mr. Stevenson, named to head the United States delegation to the U.N. in the Kennedy Administration, said the time will come when this country will "face the probability" that the Peiping regime will be admitted to the 99-member world body. The same position recently was taken by Averell Harriman, the Administration's ambassador-at-large.

But Mr. Harriman, in a radio interview, raised a related question to which the West will have to give attention. He said there were "indications that Red China does not want to be recognized by the United States." A good many proposals for solving the China question assume that China wants to enter the U.N. and wants United States recognition. But does it? And if so, under what terms?

Considerable light is thrown on this question in interviews with Mao Tse-tung, chief of the Chinese state, and Premier Chou En-lai by Edgar Snow, published in Look magazine. The Chinese leaders take the position that Peiping's claim to Formosa is indisputable, that there can be no diplomatic relations between China and the United States without a settlement of the Formosa question, that the United States must withdraw its armed forces from the area and that Red China will "definitely refuse" to sit in the U.N. or any other international bodies or conferences if representatives of the Chiang Kai-shek regime are present. Nationalist China is a permanent member of the U.N. Security Council.

The interview with Chou En-lai is long and detailed and is more interesting for its timing than for its content, little of which is new. But Chou's attitude is not belligerent and the impression is given that he is laying down the Chinese position for the Kennedy Administration in the expectation that some bargaining will be attempted in the next few years.

Chou's reason for refusing to participate in any activities with Formosa is that "it would result in a situation of 'two Chinas,' which we firmly oppose." Chiang also opposes it, but many Westerners have suggested that the only possible solution seems to be an independent Formosa, with its territorial integrity protected by the U.N., and an independent mainland regime.

The latest expression of views in this regard came several days ago in a statement issued by 130 prominent scientists, business men, educators and technicians meeting at Columbia University's Arden House. The participants said they regarded it as "desirable" that Red China be drawn into fuller participation in the international community, leading to "regularization of its diplomatic relations with other countries, including the United States," and they reaffirmed support for the independence of Formosa.

This situation involves much more than the dispute over Formosa. It involves the hope of reaching agreement on disarmament. Chou denied that Red China has given up the principle of peaceful coexistence, and professed to be in favor of "general disarmament," but emphasized that Red China will not be bound by any arms agreement reached without its "participation." In all fairness, why should it? Chou claimed in answer to a question by Mr. Snow that he did not know when Communist China would be making its own nuclear weapons, but the time is bound to come some day.

Mr. Kennedy and his foreign policy advisers and executives are well aware of the vital importance of the China question. They have indicated they believe a fresh approach is necessary. Unfortunately, because of the factors mentioned and because of United States ties with Formosa, the area of maneuver is limited. But let those who would dwell on the difficulties of the task contemplate a nation of 650,000,000 people armed with nuclear weapons and outlawed by the U.N. That should be enough to encourage every effort.

Ferguson's Wreckers

The wreckers are out in the open in Ferguson. After several months of sanctimonious lip-service to the Council-Manager principle that distinguishes the City Charter (and after great behind-the-scenes efforts to sabotage it), Mayor Duggan and two of his followers are now definitely on record in support of an amendment calling for election of the Manager by popular vote.

This would change the Manager from a professional servant of the community to a Town Hall politician and defeat the very purpose of the Council-Manager plan. Patronage and partisan advantage would come first in city affairs. When this particular proposal lost in the Council by the lack of one of the votes that the Mayor usually commands, a measure designed to reduce the Manager's powers was immediately offered. We doubt that Ferguson voters want their Charter torn to shreds, but they had better get ready for a fight. The wreckers are growing bolder every day.

Cosmic Imaginings

American and Soviet Russian scientists carry on their work in almost parallel channels when it comes to moon probes, satellite orbitings and similar space feats but when it comes to conjecturing on inhabitants of other planets there is a wide divergence.

Last Dec. 14 the National Aeronautics and Space Administration issued a warning which, despite some shrewd hedging, did say that intelligent life "could" be discovered in outer space at any time, so earthlings should be prepared for what would certainly be a severe shock. Very interesting. But recently the Soviet Academy of Science warned all Russians against a mounting wave of stories and speculation about such things as flying saucers and little green Venusians. "Irresponsible and unscientific" lecturers were blamed for fanning a natural interest in cosmic events. It was high time to get back to earthy chores, the Academy stated in Pravda.

Whether the pundits of the Academy know it or not, they have not the slightest chance of halting popular speculation on such cosmic matters. The American Air Force from time to time has tried to discourage the belief that all "unidentified flying objects" really carry visitors from outer space, but nobody who once gets a good grip on this belief will be put off by such a trifle as a scientific or military disclaimer. And the Soviet Academy will have to admit, as NASA does, that it would be a shock to meet a green Venusian some time.

An Alert 'Played by Ear'?

It is surprising to learn that the Air Force has put into effect what amounts to an airborne alert of its biggest bombers. Why should this emergency step, intended only for a time of grave crisis, have been taken, even on a small scale?

The preponderance of the testimony in congressional defense hearings last year showed the urgent need of a potential—and only a potential—for airborne alert. If an emergency situation arose, the Strategic Air Command should have the immediate ability to put and keep enough nuclear bombers aloft so our deterrent strength could not be wiped out by a surprise attack. While it is good to know that we can put a few bombers up now it is alarming to find this ability demonstrated when there is no apparent need to demonstrate it.

In his Budget message last January, President Eisenhower asked for $85,000,000 to start additional training of SAC crews and to buy extra engines and parts to give the potential which his Air Force Chief of Staff, Gen. Nathan F. Twining, said was necessary. "What I am recommending," Mr. Eisenhower said, "is a capability to fly such an alert if the need should arise and to maintain that alert for a reasonable time until the situation which necessitated it becomes clarified."

Gen. Thomas S. Power, head of SAC, later told Congress that he favored an immediate alert. Asked about this, Gen. Twining testified he doubted Gen. Power would want an alert under the circumstances then prevailing. "He would kind of play it by ear," Twining said of Power. "He's a pretty smart fellow." The final result was that Congress authorized twice as much money as Mr. Eisenhower had requested for the alert potential.

But having the potential, and using it without apparent cause, are two different things. Can it be that Gen. Power is now demonstrating his ability to "play it by ear"? No matter how smart he is, the thought is not a comforting one.

Help From the Campus

The utility of Washington University's new Institute for Urban and Regional Studies will be beyond question in an ever more urbanized country. Sometimes it seems that cities and their metropolitan areas attract problems just as they attract people. The Metropolitan Survey, made jointly by Washington and St. Louis Universities, was an example of the help which the campus can render the community. Now the urban concerns of such university departments as architecture, business, engineering, law, the social sciences and others are to be integrated for research, training and public service. If the new institute were merely to furnish more competent administrators, it would be a boon—and much more than that may be expected of it, especially by the St. Louis area which has its full share of urban problems.

Exemplar for a Generation

Dr. Thomas A. Dooley's six years as a doctor in Asia form a substantial offset to the indifference and irresponsibility which are the themes of those who deplore the "post-war generation" and its gadget-dull future. With the practice of a "society doctor" open to him, young Tom Dooley was on the U.S.S. Montague when she picked up the first refugees from beyond the Bamboo Curtain. After that, he never was away very long from the sick, the hungry and the uprooted. His concern for them was the beginning of MEDICO, now responsible for 17 projects in 12 countries.

To write this "success story," he used the methods of contemporary success-hunters—books, radio and television appeals, appearances at dinners and conventions. He did not hide his light under a bushel, but the methods were transformed by his purpose. And he was understood. A little more than a year ago he told the Missouri State Teachers Federation that "you must arouse in your students a sense of duty toward all men." This was not a hat-passing occasion, yet the audience spontaneously showered the platform with money.

Dr. Dooley might never have become a philosopher like his model, Dr. Schweitzer. He probably would not have found time. He was a man who had encountered the sight, sound and smell of poverty, pain and fear—and he would not turn from them. This is a thought for keeping in bounds the not unjustifiable good feeling which comes with writing a check to help work such a Tom Dooley's.

In Dug-Out and Stand

Chicago's Cubs—who have gotten along without lights and, in recent years, without pennants—are going to try next year to get along without a manager. It's hard to say, however, whether Owner Wrigley's decision brings a new worry or a touch of comfort to the harried profession.

The managers, already concerned over their often brief tenure, can only be alarmed by the prospect that other owners, too, may decide to get along without a "field general." On the other hand, Wrigley is going to have a whole squad of coaches, and that could mean more job opportunities, albeit without the old title. Through collective responsibility, this might ease the burden of defeat. Further, so it is said, Wrigley has ordered a mechanical brain for the dugout. Maybe the machine will take all the raps.

Baseball theoreticians who are inclined to believe that a winning team wins and a losing team loses, and that a manager makes little difference, may be grateful to have their notion put to a test of sorts. The ultra-orthodox, of course, know the experiment will result in fresh evidence that "too many cooks spoil the soup." But there is only disappointment, unhappiness and general gloom in sight for grand-stand strategists, second-guessers and manager-baiters. Since these must include about 90 per cent of the fans, can Mr. Wrigley have a hunch that his ticket-sellers will be kept busy by friends of the mechanical brain, that his park will be filled by robots?

"PARDNER, THIS COUNTRY ISN'T BIG ENOUGH FOR BOTH OF US."

Now the Squire of Gettysburg?

Mr. Eisenhower's Hopes for Quiet Retirement Seem Refuted by His Predecessors

Thomas O'Neill in The Baltimore Sun

Washington.

President Eisenhower was saying just before the election that upon surrendering the title of Chief Magistrate his intent is to acquire as a replacement that of Squire of Gettysburg, and to settle down in retirement on his farm adjoining the great battlefield of the Civil War. Whether his future will in fact be as leisurely and relaxing as the President anticipates is subject to grave question.

Two of the busiest men on the American scene are the two former White House occupants Mr. Eisenhower is about to join in the role of ex-President—Mr. Hoover and Mr. Truman. They have learned that a retired President can never become an ordinary and obscure citizen, whatever his own wishes.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Upon an earlier occasion when he thought he was leaving public life for good, Mr. Eisenhower defined his retirement plans in the following terms: "Put a chair on the porch. Sit in it for six months. Then begin to rock, slowly."

Both of his predecessors into presidential retirement can testify that they have willy-nilly remained at least semi-public servants, always in demand for one activitity or another.

The volume of Mr. Hoover's incoming mail reaches 100,000 a year. Mr. Truman receives the biggest volume of individual mail in Missouri. Invitations to speak arrive at an average rate of ten a day. Mr. Hoover replies to between 4000 and 5000 letters a month. The peppery Mr. Truman keeps his sleeves rolled up even when there is no political war to bring him into action, and says, "They're always after a retired farmer to do things."

In almost every way except the freedom from the emotional and intellectual strains of global responsibility, the former Presidents find themselves

—Post-Dispatch, July 31, 1955.

Might Be the Greater Page

still under White House pressures at a time in life when they had expected to be turned out to grass. Mr. Hoover, now 86, has been an ex-President longer than any other in the nation's history. Both are older than Mr. Eisenhower, even though at 70 he is the oldest native President the country ever had.

None of the three is bothered by a concern that meant woe to some earlier Presidents when their White House service was done, the problem of meeting living expenses. The occupations open to a retired President without demeaning the office are limited, chiefly, to writing, educating, and the law. Several who held the highest office in the land were pathetic figures of penury in their later years, and objects of charity. Three died deeply in debt.

John Adams, who lived to be 90, subsisted as a minor town official in Quincy, Mass. Jefferson, mired in debt, sold his private library, thought of liquidating Monticello by a lottery scheme, and saved it from a mortgage foreclosure only with the aid of gifts from friends.

Mr. Hoover is a man of wealth, and Mr. Eisenhower is counted a millionaire. Mr. Truman is less fortunately circumstanced, taxes and clerical assistance having eaten up most of the half million he got for his memoirs. Since 1958, however, the law has provided an annual pension of $25,000 for former Presidents, and equally important, free mailing privileges and the cost of maintaining an office and secretarial staff which amounts to an onerous sum because of the heavy mail directed to them.

Almost all Presidents groan about the intolerable burdens of the office and speak of a sense of relief upon departing, only to discover that they continue to be regarded as in the public domain.

Jefferson was happy to turn the portfolio over to Madison and said it had brought him nothing but drudgery and the daily loss of friends. Garfield asked during his term what there was in the place that anyone should ever want to get into. The repining has been all but universal.

As has lately been evident, there remains no lack of volunteers for the arduous job, of which General Sherman said that if confronted by a choice between the penitentiary and the White House for four years he would take the penitentiary.

Its tangible rewards, however, are enough to ease a great deal of pain.

The President is paid a salary of $100,000 a year, gets another $50,000 for expenses that require no accounting, and $40,000 to cover travel and entertainment costs. He gets rent free a 132-room mansion, with a household staff of several hundred, all paid by the Government. At his command are fleets of automobiles and airplanes, two cabin cruisers, helicopters, a mountain vacation retreat (Camp David) which has a 3-hole golf course on the lawn. Medical attention includes his own physicians on the White House staff. Vacations are at his discretion, as often and as extensive as he pleases.

While he occupies the White House, the President is even the official owner of a couple of cemeteries—one near Lancaster, Ohio, that was deeded to the President in 1817, the other similarly acquired near Hammondsport, N.Y. No President has ever visited them.

The Russians Consider Jazz From The Kansas City Times

Komsomolskaya Pravda, newspaper of the Russian Young Communist league, thinks the Soviets should develop jazz and suggests that Russian composers set about it forthwith. The paper says that "antipopular and antidemocratic forces have pushed American jazz into abstractness and non-reality." This, apparently, refers to some of the wilder sounds that have come along in recent years. Such free spirits as Ornette Coleman, Charlie Mingus and Dave Brubeck will pay no heed to such talk and merely continue to blow.

Presumably, jazz will have to conform to Marxist doctrine. There can be no imperialistic chords or warmongering beat. Look out there, man, for that counterrevolutionary noise. Sounds like Joe Williams, who is a rich capitalist.

Jazz music needs freedom to experiment. It is practiced by individualistic types, to say the least. They can't swing that way in Russia.

Between Book Ends The Fourth of a Series

TENDER AND VIOLENT ELIZABETH, by Henri Troyat. (Simon and Schuster, 311 pgs., $4.95.)

Henri Troyat's new book is the fourth in his projected series of five novels under the general title "The Seed and the Fruit." In earlier volumes, Troyat gave us the story of the love and courtship of Elizabeth's parents, Pierre and Amelie Mazalaigue, and of the childhood school experiences of their "tender and violent" Elizabeth, who in the present novel marries a young musician with whom she is not really in love. Instead, she violently, tenderly and illicitly loves a man older than herself, who is physically attracted to her but cruelly unconcerned about her as a person.

The scene is set against the striking background of a ski resort and of a grim family circle of Elizabeth's relatives by marriage in Paris. Much of the story is written at low pressure, in a fairly conventional way, and the people tend to be types, though often interesting ones. Elizabeth's surprisingly firm self-assertion in a Swiss hospital at the end of the book gives that conclusion a dramatic strength and makes the reader curious to know more of Elizabeth's future.

As in the case of other series novels of the kind becoming so common today, the present volume is a complete story in itself. Harry T. Moore

TALES OF EDISTO, by Nell S. Graydon. (Tupper and Love, 166 pgs., $5.25.)

Mrs. Graydon's book about Edisto Island, off the South Carolina mainland, was first published in 1955. Its limited distribution prohibited the wide and appreciative reading that this new printing by another publisher may have.

Edisto Island was the scene of great ante-bellum wealth in the Old South. Its sea island cotton was world famous, its homes lavishly European, its citizens well educated abroad, and its romance and glory comparable to its economic prestige. That era is splendidly recreated in this collection of stories and folk tales in which history and lore are combined with subtlety.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Time for Less Talk by Soldiers

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S FAREWELL ADDRESS will be remembered and quoted in the days to come. Rising above the issues which divide the parties and which were the material of the election campaign, he dwelt on a question, never before discussed publicly by any responsible official, which is of profound importance to the nation's future.

The question on which he has been brooding is how in the presence "of an immense military establishment and a large arms industry" the supremacy of the civil power is to be maintained. "In the councils of Government," he said, "we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence whether sought or unsought by the military - industrial complex." Surely, it is impressive that the old soldier should make this warning the main theme of his farewell address.

Eisenhower

Yet he was in the great tradition. Washington made the theme of his farewell address a warning against allowing the influence of foreign governments to invade our political life. That was then the menace to the civilian power.

More Civilian Control.

Now Eisenhower, speaking from his experience and looking ahead, is concerned with a contemporary threat to the supremacy of the civilian power. This is a problem rarely discussed in public but if it were not a real and serious problem, Gen. Eisenhower would not have devoted to it so much of the emphasis of his last official message to the nation.

He did not mean, of course, that civilian supremacy can or should be upheld by reducing the military power of the military establishment. And as we know, the Kennedy Administration is committed to an increase in the military power of the military establishment.

How then can the danger of unwarranted military influence —or to use an old phrase for it, the danger of militarism — be prevented? Only by making civilian influence greater, not by reducing military power.

Intelligence Needed.

How is that to be done? Essentially, it can be done by appointing to the civilian posts of decision in the Pentagon, the State Department and the National Security Council, civilians with some military experience of their own who have had personal experience in public life and possess a trained and educated intelligence.

These civilians must work with, they must not defer abjectly to, the professional soldiers. One reason why President Eisenhower has seen the militarist danger grow is that, with the exception of the last one, he never had a Secretary of Defense who was the intellectual equal of the professional soldiers he had to deal with.

Once the civilians have the self-confidence to exercise civilian supremacy, they can and should impose a strict civilian discipline on the statements and speeches issued by the Chiefs of Staff and by local commanders throughout the world.

Military Talkativeness.

The talkativeness of American military men, most of them reading speeches written by professional speech-writers who are paid by the Government, is an international scandal. Throughout the world it causes us trouble, it causes great loss of respect and confidence.

Anyone who travels about the world talking with leaders, be it behind the Iron Curtain or on this side of it, will find himself confronted constantly with the loud talk of some admiral or general. There is not any other military establishment on earth, except perhaps in small, disorderly countries, which permits a running commentary on critical affairs by its generals and admirals and the colonels down the line.

The true solution of the problem that President Eisenhower warned the country against is to be found in civilian appointees who are confident and willing to command. When such civilians are in office, it will be possible for the Administration to wean the Congress and portions of the press from their undue reliance upon the military establishment as the true source of the true American policy. For then those who have to deal with our problems will learn by trial and error that the true source of the true policy is among the civilians who make the policy.

Professional Administration.

Without pretending that everything is perfect, that every selection is ideal, and that everything is sure to be right, there is, I am convinced, solid ground for confidence in the Administration which Mr. Kennedy has organized.

It is not an Administration led by corporation executives. It is not an Administration composed primarily of professional politicians, although the head of it is among his other aptitudes a professional politician of the first order. It is not an Administration made up of professors drawn out of an academic life of scholarship and research.

It is, for the first time in our history, an Administration manned primarily by professional public servants—by men whose primary careers have long been the public service.

They will need public support. They will need a lot of luck. But I do not know of any Administration in our time in which the level of competence has been so high.

DR. DOOLEY FUNERAL FROM CATHEDRAL

Bishop Leo C. Byrne to Conduct Services Monday at 9:30 A.M.

Funeral services for Dr. Thomas A. Dooley, St. Louis physician who brought up-to-date medical care to Southeast Asia and other remote areas of the world, will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday in St. Louis Cathedral. The Rev. Leo C. Byrne, auxiliary bishop of St. Louis, will conduct the services.

Dr. Dooley, 34 years old, died of cancer Wednesday night at Memorial Hospital in New York. He will be buried in the family plot in Calvary Cemetery beside the graves of his father, Thomas A. Dooley Sr., who died in 1948, and his brother, Earle, who was killed in Germany in World War II.

Return of Body Delayed.

The arrival of Dr. Dooley's body in St. Louis was delayed by blowing and drifting snow at Idlewild Airport, New York. Trans World Airlines spokesmen there said the crews and the planes, which will carry the body and members of his family, were standing by.

Dr. Dooley's mother, Mrs. Agnes Dooley, and his brothers, Malcolm Dooley of Huntington, Long Island, N.Y., and Edward Dooley of Cleveland, O., were waiting to take off.

The delay necessitated a change in plans by the Donnelly undertaking establishment, 3840 Lindell boulevard, which is in charge of funeral arrangements.

The body is expected to lie in state after noon tomorrow and remain at the undertaking establishment until 6 p.m. Sunday when it will be taken to All Souls chapel at the Cathedral.

Dr. Dooley was a co-founder with Dr. Peter Comanduras of Washington, D.C., of MEDICO (Medical International Co-operation Organization), a non-profit, non-sectarian group which provided medical facilities to remote areas of the world where none existed.

He was stricken with cancer while at his own hospital in Laos and underwent surgery for removal of the disease in his chest at Memorial Hospital in August, 1959. A recurrence of the illness forced him to re-enter the hospital last Dec. 27.

Dr. Estelle Hughes of Washington, D.C., a member of Dr. Dooley's staff, told reporters in Bangkok, Thailand, that his death will not affect the work of MEDICO's 17 projects in 10 countries.

'Everyone is determined to stay on and work harder for the sake of the service he started," she said. "All of us loved Dr. Dooley dearly. My feeling for him was like hero worship."

Dr. Hughes arrived in Bangkok a few days ago from Dr. Dooley's hospital in Ban Houei Sai in Northeastern Laos. The young doctor had expected to be back in Laos in February, she said.

Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review and a board member of MEDICO, said, "The important thig now is to carry on the work to fulfill Dr. Dooley's ideal. But twice as much work will have to go into it now with him gone."

Cousins also was in Bangkok, returning from a trip to India. He said he plans to leave soon for Laos in the hope of visiting two of Dr. Dooley's hospitals, which are still operating in spite of the civil war in that country. The main hospital in Laos is at Muong Sing, five miles from the Red Chinese border.

The Very Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, where Dr. Dooley took a pre-medical course, said the university mourned his death as a loss to the nation. He added:

"Although young in years, Dr. Tom Dooley has exemplified in his life and death a spirit of selflessness and Christ-like charity which has earned the admiration of peoples throughout the world. He was one of Notre Dame's most distinguished sons."

Service at Notre Dame.

A memorial service was held for Dr. Dooley today in Notre Dame's Sacred Heart Church. The young doctor's most recent visit to the university's campus was last June 5, when he and President Eisenhower received honorary degrees.

Praise of Dr. Dooley and his work came from leaders in many walks of life.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker issued the following statement:

"The entire community mourns the tragic and untimely loss of a distinguished young St. Louisan, but his courageous, capable and dedicated career will long remain an outstanding example to the entire world of the very best of the American way of life."

MRS. MARY S. HARPER, assistant chief of nursing education at Jefferson Barracks Veterans Hospital, receiving sixth annual Federal Civil Service Employe of Year award from CHARLES VATTEROTT last night.

U.S. CIVIL SERVICE EMPLOYE OF YEAR

Mrs. Mary S. Harper, assistant chief of nursing education at Veterans Administration Hospital, Jefferson Barracks, was named Federal Civil Service Employe of the Year last night at a banquet in the Chase Hotel.

She was selected from among 30 nominees chosen from approximately 25,000 federal employes in the greater St. Louis area. She was awarded a plaque by Charles F. Vatterott, a member of the Distinguished Citizens Committee, which picked the recipient.

Mrs. Harper, 41 years old, has spent the last six months of her 18 years of federal service at the Jefferson Barracks Hospital. She is chairman of the Nurse Professional Standards Board there. She also serves on the hospital's station training and research committees.

A graduate of the Tuskegee (Ala.) Institute School of Nursing, Mrs. Harper holds a master of education degree from the University of Minnesota. She is presently studying for a doctorate in social psychology at St. Louis University. She has lectured on nursing education at nursing conventions throughout the United States and written several articles for professional publications.

Mrs. Harper and her husband, Willie F., live at 4860 Lee avenue. They have one 16-year-old daughter, Louise.

70 CURRIER AND IVES PRINTS ON EXHIBIT

At Jefferson Memorial—Other Shows at Clarkson Gallery, Monday Club.

By GEORGE McCUE

Life in Nineteenth Century America is abundantly reflected in a collection of about 70 Currier and Ives prints on exhibition at the Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park.

The Missouri Historical Society has the show on loan from the Library of Congress. It is in the basement Williams Gallery, which connects the two wings of the building, and may be reached from either wing.

Several rare lithographs are in the collection, which includes both documentary and story-telling prints of the moralizing tone that was dear to the heart of the Victorian period. A series of four in the latter category relates the downfall and the comeback of Henry Brown, "a respectable mechanic," who was led into idle and dissolute ways by a drinking friend.

There are scenes of steamboating, railroading, whaling, fire-fighting; the Civil War, the opening of the Brooklyn Bridge and the death of Minnehaha. Some of the prints are hurried and crude, and some, particularly one of a fireman confronting a wall of flame, are beautifully executed.

The noted Lexington print, which made Currier and Ives famous as creators of "news" pictures, is included. It shows the burning of the steamer Lexington in Long Island Sound in 1840, and was sold on New York streets three days after the occurrence. The show runs through Feb. 5.

Seven of the eight paintings by George Caleb Bingham owned by the Society are on view at the east entrance to the print gallery.

An oil and two collages by the modern French master, Nicolas de Stael, are featured in a small, select exhibition at the new Clarkson Gallery, 4651 Maryland avenue.

The oil is "Composition," with several figures done in gray impasto and subdued colors. The collages are given red and black backgrounds, respectively, with angular cut-out shapes in strongly contrasting colors maintaining tensions through their relationships in the design.

Collages of a different kind by Timothy Hennessy, a former St. Louisan now living in France, are in the show. In these, facades of baroque architecture from old prints and perspective drawings are pasted onto a background paper that is lightly tinted with watercolor, with highly decorative effects.

Sculptures by Marie Taylor of St. Louis present squat, energetic figures in compact groupings in the ebony "Family" and the Georgia marble "The Four Seasons." The latter is given admirable contrasts of smooth and rough surfaces and the stone's light-reflecting crystalline texture is ingeniously exploited. Five oils by Werner Solik, a Parisian, are done in deep background tones worked over with fluid trails and flicks of both transparent and opaque colors to produce interesting effects of erosion.

This show, organized by Alexis Carton, opens tomorrow and runs through Feb. 3.

Oils and watercolors by Bill Voos are on view at the Monday Club of Webster Groves, 37 South Maple avenue, through this month. Realistic paintings in the show, cityscapes and rural vistas for the most part, are done with pictorial simplicity and directness.

About half the show represents abstract versions of the same sort of subject matter, and these become cluttered with an indiscriminate tangle of forms. In one of the realistics paintings, "Mill Creek," a tree seems to have been tortured into a bent-over position in order to fit inside a horizontal composition.

FUNERAL OF PETER HIGGINS TO BE TOMORROW MORNING

Funeral services for Peter Higgins, former business agent of Local 682 of the Building Material and Construction Chauffeurs Union, will be at 9 a.m. tomorrow at St. Kevin Catholic Church, 10909 St. Henry lane, St. Ann. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Higgins, 57 years old, died of complications Wednesday at Faith Hospital after a long illness. He headed the union for 12 years until the local was placed in trusteeship by the Teamsters Union in 1953. He lived at 3758 Adie road, St. Ann.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Josephine Fiebig Higgins; three sons, Peter Jr., John and Charles Higgins, and a daughter, Mrs. Mathius Schaughnessey.

OPERA TO BE GIVEN IN CONCERT FORM

'Carmina Burana' on Symphony Program—Three Soloists to Appear.

A concert performance of the opera "Carmina Burana," by the contemporary German composer Carl Orff, will highlight program of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra tomorrow at 8:40 p.m. and Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at Kiel Auditorium Opera House.

Soloists for "Carmina Burana" will be baritone Jay Willoughby, tenor Kenneth Wikowsky and soprano Donna Precht. The Legend Singers and the Sumner High School A Capella Choir will provide choral accompaniment. Both groups are under the direction of Kenneth B. Billups, music department chairman at Sumner High School.

Willoughby, a St. Louisan studying for a master's degree in music at Indiana University, has appeared previously with the St. Louis Symphony and has trained as an understudy at the Municipal Opera. Wikowsky has been a tenor soloist at St. John's Methodist Church for the past seven years.

Miss Precht has studied in Paris on a French government fellowship and in Milan, Italy, where she performed in operas. She is a native of Mexico, Mo., and a graduate of the University of Missouri.

Also included in the program tomorrow and Sunday will be Mozart's Symphony in C Major. The orchestra will be conducted by Edouard Van Remoortel.

Tomorrow's Events

Plane Trouble, Blizzard and Warriors Beat Hawks, 129-127

42 Points For Pettit As Wilt Scores 39

By John J. Archibald
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20—It was just one of those days. From the time the Hawks were told in Boston yesterday morning that their scheduled plane couldn't get going, due either to virus in the carburetor or a frostbitten fuel pump, the players had a feeling nothing much good was going to happen in their basketball game.

The 129-127 defeat by the Philadelphia Warriors was just the finishing touch. The Hawks had fought all the way to prevent that happening, as tired and unready as they were for a battle with a powerhouse like the Warriors. There were times when it looked as though the St. Louis team might be up to the job.

Who can say if the Hawks might have had the little extra zip that was lacking if they hadn't had to stand around with wet feet in that train station shortly before game time, for instance? But that is getting ahead of the story — the boys were over the hump by then.

Hour's Wait at Airport.

When the players had waited in the Boston airport for an hour past their scheduled departure time and more delays were in prospect, coach Paul Seymour wangled enough seats on another plane going to Philadelphia.

At Philly, however, there was a blizzard. No planes could land. The craft carrying the Hawks and some 20 other passengers then began circling over the city, waiting for permission to set down.

Few of the players minded the delay because the card games went on as usual, with coffee-carrying stewardesses stepping gingerly over the makeshift poker table in the aisle. After a couple of hours of this, though, even the Hawks got restless.

And hungry. The plane foul-up had robbed them of their lunch and there was no food on board the substitute craft.

The Uneasy Larry Foust.

As the hours of circling in the storm clouds went by, the Hawks' Larry Foust had special reason to be uneasy. It was just a year ago that a plane carrying the Minneapolis Lakers, of which Larry was then a member, had to settle down in a cornfield because of similar weather. As the fifth hour of the flight passed, Foust had difficulty thinking up any more wisecracks for the situation.

Eventually the pilot got permission to land, not in Philadelphia, but in Trenton, N.J. Famished Hawks munched on hamburgers and candy bars in the tiny airport building while waiting for a bus that would take them into Trenton, where they expected to board trains to carry them the 30 miles to Philadelphia.

The vehicle that eventually came was a city bus, with no space for luggage. Stacking suitcases, uniform bags, players and other passengers in the seats and aisles, the planeload of people managed to get aboard. The snowstorm was at a peak by this time.

One Philadelphia-bound train was just missed, so a half-hour standing wait in the depot was necessary.

Taxi, Plane, Bus.

When Seymour and his party completed their taxi-plane-bus-train-taxi safari and walked into Philadelphia's Convention Hall, the Boston Celtics and Los Angeles Lakers were already in the third quarter of their game. Boston won it, 106-103.

The plan for playing against Philadelphia was, as usual, to gang up on Wilt Chamberlain, thereby conceding the Warriors any outcourt shots they might be able to make. It was up to Clyde Lovellette to keep Wilt outcourt when the Hawks were on the offense, mainly by sinking enough long shots.

It just didn't work this time. The Warriors were no better than expected from the field, but the combined efforts of Lovellette, Foust and Woody Sauldsberry couldn't keep Chamberlain from his deadly dunking of his teammates' misses.

Over and over, with heartbreak regularity for the Hawks, the 7-foot-1 Warrior would bound into the air and shove both hands through the hoop as he pushed the ball through. Chamberlain was credited with 39 points in all, 16 field goals and seven of his attempted free throws. Wilt also had 28 rebounds.

42 Points for Pettit.

Far surpassing Wilt in the more admired skills of the game, and out-totaling him in points this time, was the Hawks' tremendous competitor, Bob Pettit. Bob got into foul trouble early as he joined in trying to control Chamberlain, and Seymour held his ace out for 10 minutes of the third period, but Pettit still scored 42 points.

The 6-foot-9 former L.S.U. star sank 17 field goals in 27 attempts and eight of his 10 free throw chances. Pettit again led his team in rebounds with 18.

Cliff Hagan sparkled with 32 points and Lovellette added 25.

Si Green went all 48 minutes in the backcourt for the Hawks and had 13 points, as well as 15 rebounds and a dozen assists.

With seconds to go in the game Si stole the ball and was able to make one desperate shot from about 25 feet out. The ball went past the rim, however, and the Warriors had the victory.

The Hawks headed for St. Louis today, hoping to get home with less throuble than they encountered en route to Philadelphia. They will meet the New York Knicks in the second game of a doubleheader at the Arena tomorrow night, with Cincinnati playing Detroit in the 7 o'clcok opener.

Missouri Boosted Big Eight Prestige, Says Ames Coach

Missouri University's triumph over Navy in the Orange Bowl is sure to raise the prestige of the Big Eight Conference, said Coach Clay Stapleton of Iowa State U., here to speak to an Ames alumni group.

"The Tigers were the best football team we have met in my two seasons at Iowa State," added Stapleton. His Cyclones were defeated by Missouri. "But we certainly considered the loss no disgrace," he said.

Stapleton's team defeated Oklahoma for the first time in Iowa State's history in the conference. And the Ames team also won from Nebraska, Kansas State and Oklahoma State, to make it four Big Eight victories for the first time in Iowa State's Big Eight affiliation.

Other victories in a second successive 7-3 record for Stapleton and Iowa State were scored against Drake, Detroit and College of the Pacific.

"Our greatest problem next season," said Stapleton, "will be to replace fullback Tom Watkins. If we can come up with a fullback, after losing eight senior starters, we may be able to cope with the rest of the strong conference.

"No, we're not in St. Louis for recruiting work. We're not talking to anybody except our good alumni on this visit."

Stapleton, who features the single (Tennessee) wing type of offense, has an insurance policy at Iowa State similar to one that Dan Devine carries at Ol' Mizzou.

He has assured tenure, through a professorship, and there's a $100,000 policy paid by alumni for a period of 10 years. If he stays those 10 years, there will be a cash value of $26,000 on the policy or $43,000 paid-up life insurance.

CLAY STAPLETON

Devine's policy at Missouri is in higher figures.

"Up at Ames, we plan to enlarge our 20,000 seating capacity by 7000 or 8000," said Stapleton. "We're also building a new press box. . . . And I hope we won't have to move some of our home games to Oklahoma in the future in order to get a good share of gate receipts.

"We are up in Big Ten territory, somewhat away from the Big Eight Conference, but what we must do is to sell our Big Eight alignment, and be proud of it.

"Mizzou did a good job for us in the Orange Bowl."

Bob Harrison Of St. Louis Signs With Colts

ATHENS, O., Jan. 20 (AP)—Three members of the Ohio University football team, national smaller college champion, signed yesterday for professional league tryouts.

Halfback Bob Harrison of St. Louis, Mo., a 180-pounder, signed with the Baltimore Colts; end Jim Massarelli of New Philadelphia, 6-1 and 210, with Toronto of the Canadian League, and George Belu, a place-kicking end from Lorain, with Ottawa.

Of the seven starting seniors on the Bobcat team, six have now signed professional contracts.

Squash Results

Interclub squash league competition yesterday brought victories to Missouri Athletic Club and St. Louis Health Club. The M.A.C. team defeated University Club, 3-2; St. Louis won from Downtown Y.M.C.A., 3-2. Results:

The Detroit Tigers will have three first basemen in spring training at Lakeland, Fla. They are Norm Cash, Larry Osborne and Dick Gernert.

Celts Trim L.A., Stay 3 Ahead

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20 (AP)—Coach Neil Johnston today took stock of the National Basketball Association race and his own Philadelphia Warriors, who are in second place in the eastern division, three games behind Boston.

"I think we're very much in the thick of the race," said Johnston after the Warriors had defeated western division leader St. Louis, 129-127. "I don't think Boston has an insurmountable lead."

Boston, in the first game of the Convention Hall doubleheader, maintained its lead by beating the Los Angeles Lakers, 106-103, with the clincher coming on Tom Heinsohn's field goal with 1:06 remaining after the Celtics had blown a 15-point lead. Heinsohn and Bob Cousy shared scoring honors for the Celtics with 22 points each. Elgin Baylor was high for the Lakers with 29.

In the only other N.B.A. game last night, New York handed Cincinnati its seventh loss in the last eight games, 129-122, and dropped the Royals into third place in the western division. The Royals were without high scorer Oscar Robertson, sidelined with a hip injury.

Dick Garmaker led the Knicks with 32 points while Phil Jordan, sold to New York Wednesday by Cincinnati, contributed 17. Jack Twyman was high for the Royals with 34.

BOSTON, Jan. 20 (UPI)—Tonight's scheduled basketball game between the Boston Celtics and the Syracuse Nationals at Boston Garden has been postponed due to the blizzard. It will be re-scheduled for a later date.

Doris Phillips Wins Doherty Golf Match

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Jan. 20 (UPI)—Mrs. Marlene Streit of Toronto, carried to the eighteenth green before winning a narrow one-up victory yesterday, plays Pat Hahn in the second round of the Helen Lee Doherty women's amateur golf tournament today.

Opening round results ran true to form, with Marge Burns, Greensboro, N.C.; Phyllis (Tish) Pruess, Pompano Beach, Fla.; Ann Casey Johnstone, Mason City, Ia., and Doris Phillips, Belleville, Ill., among the top contenders posting victories.

Mrs. Streit, medalist and defending champion, needed a two-under-par 74 to eke out a decision over Mrs. Paul Dye of Indianapolis.

Miss Hahn, of Wilmington, Del., her opponent today, won 3 and 2, over Mrs. A. P. Slaner of Scarsdale, N.Y.

Miss Burns defeated Connie Malia, Sharon, Mass., 4 and 3, and will meet Fran Emerson of Fort Lauderdale. Miss Pruess will go against Nancy Roth of Hollywood, Fla., after defeating Barbara Williams, Richmond, Calif., 2 and 1.

Mrs. Johnstone defeated Joan Toski Burke, West Orange, N.J., 4 and 3, to advance to a second-round match against Paulette Lee of Coral Gables. Miss Phillips plays Mrs. H. S. Semple, Sewickley, Pa., following a 4-and-3 victory over Mary McCutcheon, Jasper, Ala.

Former St. Louisan Jeannie Dobbin, now of Miami, lost to Marge Michaelis, Hollywood, Fla., 5 and 3.

High for Season

Highest single game rolled at the Red Bird Lanes this season, a 289, was turned in by Harold Crockwell as his Pepperidge Farm team defeated the Manufacturers Railway team, 2-1, in a Twi-Light League match. Crockwell's three-game total was 624. His season average is 160.

Early Bird Bowling League results at Red Bird Lanes included: Tony's 3, Greek Trio 0; Rossino's 3, Rinaldi's 0; Ruggeri's 2, Stake 'N Shake 1; Red Bird Lound 2, Tension 1.

Ladies' B.P.A. Traveling Bowling League results, at Crestwood Lanes: Shrewsbury 2, Crestwood 1; Century 2, Brentwood 1; Saratoga 2, Airway 1; Red Bird 2, Concord 1. Sue Vogt had the high single, 203; Jackie Tharp high three, 558.

11 St. Louis Area Athletes At Little College in South

By Harold Flachsbart

St. Louis area athletes are scattered in colleges all over the United States. Many are at Washington University, St. Louis U. and Harris Teachers College, but down South, 52 miles west of New Orleans, 11 of them have turned up at little Nicholls College.

The place is Thibodaux, La., and an athletic brochure that matches those of major universities says the school sponsors basketball, golf and baseball teams.

If you've never heard of Nicholls College (enrollment about 1000), it's quite possible that you will in the next few years. No athletic scholarships are being awarded presently, because Nicholls went overboard about a year ago.

Here is a list of athletes from this area now playing basketball or baseball (some both) at Nicholls: Paul Vaccaro and Jack Barton from Crystal City; Jack Becker from St. Charles; Leonard Stulce, Bridgeton and Pattonville High; Simmons, St. Louis (Cleveland High); Harlan Oelklaus, St. Charles; Roger Summers, Granite City; Bobby Morrow, Bertrand, Mo.; Tom Stirrat, St. Louis (Roosevelt High); Joe Taormina from Normandy and Lonnie Wilson from East St. Louis.

First-Year Competition.

Most of them are freshmen, and that's why Nicholls is "the place to go." Athletes can compete in varsity games in their first year because Nicholls is not a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Also, James R. Hall, athletic director and baseball coach, served as coach at Herculaneum High School between 1954 and 1957, and he knows what boys from this area can do.

"It was a question of getting good basketball players and also good baseball players," Hall said over the telephone. "We have a lot of promising freshmen who should make us good teams in years to come. Morris Osburn, our former athletic director now working for his doctorate at Mississippi Southern, was influential in bringing these boys here. Scholarships are similar to those of other schools."

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
SPORTS
4B Fri., Jan. 20, 1961

GENE SIMMONS

On the basketball team alone, Vacarro, Barton, Becker, Stulce, Oelklaus and Simmons are freshmen.

Morrow First To Go.

It seems that Morrow started the trend to Nicholls. After that it was a word-of-mouth situation in which one player from this area led another to the school, where some receive athletic scholarships, an additional $15 a month, plus room and board.

Vaccaro and Barton followed Morrow because they were unhappy over conditions at Bradley, where they had a chance to go.

One veteran St. Louis coach who did not want to be quoted suggested that it was the freshman rule more than anything that attracted players from this area. And also, no suggestion from the same coach, the athletes have plenty of time for sports and don't need to hit the books too hard.

Hall, speaking of a good freshman team at Nicholls, said: "We have 16 boys on the basketball squad and 13 are freshmen. Before long we're going to beat some good teams. We appreciate boys from the St. Louis area because they're good athletes and some of them are good both in basketball and baseball.

"Watch us go in a another season or two!"

Buchholz Wins Second Time as Pro

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20 (UPI)—Australian star Lew Hoad found Andres Gimeno's number last night on Jack Kramer's tennis tour and beat the rookie sensation from Spain for the first time in three tries, 8-4.

Pancho Gonzales, the No. 1 ranking professional, defeated the former No. 1 amateur, Barry MacKay, also 8-4.

Earl Buchholz of St. Louis won from Alex Olmedo, 10-8.

In doubles, Pancho Segura joined with Gimeno to down Hoad and Buchholz, 10-8.

Gimeno, who had been leading the tour, now has a 5-2 record.

Hoad's form was brilliant in his match with the Spaniard. He broke Gimeno's service in the third and fifth games. The blond bomber from Down Under, who earlier lost to Gonzales, has a 2-5 record for the current road show.

Buchholz's win over Peruvian Olmedo was an upset. Neither player had an opportunity for a service break until the eighteenth game, when Alex missed a backhand volley and was passed on a fine forehand shot. It was Earl's second win on the tour and he's now 2-5. Olmedo, a former University of Southern California ace, is 4-3.

About 3000 fans watched the matches.

Earl Buchholz will face Olmedo at 4 o'clock in the first of four tennis matches to be presented as part of a pro basketball-tennis double attraction on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 29, at Kiel Auditorium.

Gonzales will oppose MacKay in another match and Hoad will play Gimeno in the final singles. Buchholz will team with Gonzales in a doubles match against Olmedo and MacKay.

Prior to the tennis matches the Hawks will play the Syracuse Nationals in a National Basketball Association game at 2.

Velloff Drops To 30.5 Among N.A.I.A. Scorers

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 20 (AP)—The individual scoring leader in National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball statistics this week is John Bradley of Lawrence (Mich.) Tech.

Bradley has an average of 34.3 points a game against 31.9 for Lindberg Moody, his nearest competitor, of South Carolina State.

Last week's leader, Gene Velloff of Alton, Ill., and Doane (Nebr.) College dropped to 30.5.

The best offensive team is Troy (Ala.) State with an average of 96.6 points a game. The leading defensive team is still Oglethorpe (Ga.) University, holding opponents to a 46.5-point average.

Prairie View, Texas A. & M. and Mansfield, Pa., state are the N.A.I.A.'s only undefeated teams.

Clooney Retains MAC Handball Title

Don Clooney has retained his tight hold on the Missouri Athletic Club's handball championship. For the third straight year, Don won the tournament final, defeating Ralph Stocker, 21-5, 21-8. His semifinal victim was John Shiels; Stocker won from Jim Hullverson in the same round. The Esquire division title went to Dave Remley for his final-round victory over John Veith, 21-19, 18-21, 21-20.

John And Mick

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—"Alcoholically," John Lardner wrote, "the Mick was a game fish — he swam upstream through everything that the Volstead age could pour." "And sober or stiff," says Mickey Walker, "I belted the insides of the best of them."

It is a cardinal principle of the fist fight industry that the ideal match is one that throws a puncher in with a boxer. This is also the case in the writing dodge, as the February issue of True Magazine will demonstrate beyond dispute. It contains a biographical sketch of Edward Patrick Walker by John Lardner—pairing a writer with the deftest left hand in the business who could stick and move and leave the reader gasping, with a belter who clobbered 'em all from the featherweight division to the world's best heavyweights.

It is a match that makes you want to weep—for the great writer who died last year, if not for the great champion, lover, actor and blithe spirit who went ripping and roistering across the sporting scene through a career that embraced something like 25 years and $4,000,000 and practically every saloon along the route.

Mickey, happily, is still among us, though encountered less frequently these days on the beat between Stillman's gym and Ford Frick's office, than in the purlieus of the Metropolitan and the Frick Museum. Twenty years ago art, in his own phrase, broke out on him, and today he lives in the world of Rembrandt and Renoir.

He Married 'Em Back

This is a retelling of the Walker saga, delightful not because the stories are new, for they are not, but because it is John Lardner telling them. Mickey's marital record, for example, has long been in the books: seven marriages to four brides. It has not been remarked previously that:

"In every busy boxer's career, there are cases of 'boxing 'em back.' Mickey not only fought return matches, he fought return weddings. He 'married 'em back'."

Nothing could characterize Mickey more aptly, or bring into clearer focus the relationship between him and his business partner, Dr. Jack Kearns, than the description of his 1932 defeat by Max Schmeling. While Dr. Kearns looked on sadly, the man who would knock out young Joe Louis four years later, slugged the aging Mick cruelly, battering him about the ring and dropping him from time to time. Walker, "chinning himself on his instinct," kept getting up until Kearns reluctantly heeded Schmeling's exhortations to stop it.

"'I guess this was one we couldn't win, Mike,' the doctor said solemnly, when the fighter had pulled his brains together. Walker gave him a bleary but arrogant stare. 'Who couldn't win? Speak for yourself, Kearns,' he mumbled, spitting blood on the dressing room floor. 'You threw in the sponge, not me.'"

Round With Thespis

Reading the piece brought vivid memories of a visit with Walker about 15 years ago when he was rehearsing for the New York presentation of a regrettable slice of finnan haddie entitled, "Walk Hard," a drama of the prize ring. A few evenings before the opening, Mickey sat in an East Side hash house and talked of his life, his philosophy, his art and his dreams.

"You know," he said, a little embarrassed by his own earnestness, "I believe if you want to do something bad enough, why, you can do it. I wanted to be a fighter, and I got to be a champion. Then I wanted to paint, and I've been painting five years now, some good and some bad. I know it'll be another five years before I can paint like I want to, but I'll always paint. Now I'm going to be an actor. I know I can't start out now and make it a career, but if I can be a good enough actor for this show, it'll be something to tell my grandchildren about."

He talked of his joy in fighting, of the fun he had had, the millions he had made and blown. He and Kearns, he reckoned, had managed to go through about $4,000,000 between them.

Satisfied Customer

For just a moment he seemed wistful.

"If art had of broke out on me while I was still fighting," he said, "I might be a rich man because an artist don't need much to live on, and I wouldn't of spent the money like I did . . . I would of missed a lot of fun, too."

"Now that the wild days are past," it was suggested, "suppose you had it all to do over again. Would you change any of it, Mickey?"

There wasn't an instant's hesitation. "Not a — minute," the Mick said.

Bluth Takes Lead, Weber Second in All-Star Bowling

Ray Rolls 956 Series; Welu Sixth

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Jan. 20—The previous day's hero, Billy Welu, was all but forgotten yesterday.

The crowds that have jammed the Orange Show exhibit hall for the finals of the All-Star bowling tournament had themselves a new idol in Ray Bluth, Welu's fellow St. Louisan.

Welu, who Wednesday set the All-Star record for four games, 988, lost his touch. No amount of posing or rubbing his forehead with a towel brought it back. From a lead of better than five points (more than 250 pins under the Petersen point system) Welu had tumbled to sixth place at the end of the eighth round last night.

Bluth Sensational.

Whatever Welu lost, Bluth must have found it. The pug-nosed Pinsmith from the Budweisers averaged 219 yesterday while winning 12 and losing just four games. He had his best outing of the day in the final session when he clobbered Dick Robinette, current Petersen Classic champion from Huntington, W. Va., in four straight games. Bluth rolled a spectacular 213-238-268-246—956 series. Robinette's only 200 game was the third, when he scored 244 and lost.

Bluth's point total for eight rounds was 159-27.

Dick Weber, who shares the national doubles championship with Bluth, was in second place at day's end with 154-14 points. During the last four rounds Weber won 12 and lost four to climb from ninth to the runnerup spot.

Earl Johnson of Chicago was third.

Mrs. Carter Second.

Bluth and Weber already have fought their own personal duel—in the opening match of the finals. Although the schedule for the finals is largely determined by a drawing of lots, according to tournament director Dick Nathaway, the sponsoring Bowling Proprietors Association of America makes certain that teammates face each other in early rounds.

Bill Tucker, of Rock Hill, Mo., in seventh place as yesterday's action started, took the lead in the sixth round, but was evicted by Bluth. He finished the day in seventh place.

La Verne Carter, a St. Louis bowler, who led the women's division for three straight rounds, slipped to the runnerup spot after Alvira Toepfer of Detroit took two straight from her in the eighth round, yesterday's last session. Mrs. Carter won 12 and lost just two while averaging 196 until that encounter. Mrs. Toepfer won handily, 377 to 316.

Phyllis Notaro, Brant, N.Y., who trailed Mrs. Carter most of the day, finally rolled into the lead in the eighth round after splitting with Evelyn Crowley of Scotia, N.Y. Her point total was 73-26, compared to Mrs. Carter's 73-24.

Medwick, Hofman To Attend Baseball Writers' Banquet

Joe Medwick, Red Schoendienst and Bob Hofman will take bows at the St. Louis baseball writer's dinner Monday night at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel.

Reservations for the 6:30 o'clock dinner still may be made by calling the Hawks' office, CE 1-0811, tomorrow or Monday between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m., but the tickets must be picked up at the Sheraton-Jefferson Monday between 5:45 and 6:15 p.m.

Medwick, slugging star of the Cardinals' old Gashouse Gang, is an insurance broker here. Schoendienst will be in the Redbirds' camp on a look-see basis. Hofman, a native St. Louisan who was a utility standout with the Giants, has been a manager in the Giants' chain for several years.

J. G. Taylor Spink, the Sporting News publisher for whom the Baseball Man of the Year Award is named, plans to attend. Also at the head table will be Bob Bauman, trainer for the Bills and baseball Cardinals. The Comeback of the Year Award is named for Bauman.

Fans at the dinner will include Coach Frank Ivy of the football Cardinals and Coach Paul Seymour of the basketball Hawks.

Two Weeks Added To Oaklawn Park's Spring Race Meet

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 20 (AP)—Oaklawn Park will have a 43-day horse race meeting this year, track officials said.

General manager J. Sweeney Grant said the state racing commission had approved the longer meeting, authorized by law signed by Gov. Orval F. Faubus.

The meeting now will open Feb. 18 and close April 8. It had been scheduled to run from Feb. 25 through April 1. Plans are to reschedule the $25,000 added Arkansas Derby from April 1 to 8.

State Finalists C.B.C. and St. L. U. High Meet Again; Collinsville Seeks No. 15

Christian Brothers and St. Louis U. High, last season's finalists for the Missouri large high schools basketball crown, meet at 8 o'clock tonight at C.B.C., again with two of the area's best records.

State champion C.B.C., with an 8-3 mark, suffered its first home defeat in over three seasons Wednesday, 66-58, to Sumner, so the Cadets will be trying to start a new win streak tonight.

The Junior Billikens have an 11-2 record. Their losses were to Roosevelt by two points and to Crystal City by one.

Undefeated Collinsville, ranked No. 1 in the St. Louis area poll and also top-rated in Illinois by the Associated Press and United Press International, seeks its fifteenth straight victory and its seventh in Southwestern Conference basketball play at home to Granite City, 2-3 in league play.

Alton defeated East St. Louis, 56-43, in SW play last night, while Wood River whipped Sandoval, 82-67, in the first round of the Salem tournament.

The Oilers play Centralia tonight at 8:30 in a semifinal game. Centralia won its game, 70-55, over Greenville. Salem plays Pinckneyville at 7 tonight in the other contest.

Suburban Big Ten teams, after a full league schedule tonight, open their annual tournament at Webster Groves tomorrow with four games. Also slated tomorrow is the usual menu of Public High League contests, including a McKinley-Hadley Tech battle that probably will knock the loser out of the championship race. Soldan leads with 5-0, while McKinley, Hadley and Sumner each has a 4-1 mark.

20-Game Winner Law Sixth to Sign With Champion Pirates

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 20 (UPI)—Baseball's world champion Pittsburgh Pirates continued to line up their key stars without fanfare or trouble. Pitcher Vern Law, 20-game winner today returned his contract in the mail. Six Pirates now are signed.

Winner of the Cy Young award as the major league pitcher of the year, Law received a big boost. It is believed he is in the $30,000-a-year class. Terms of the contract were not revealed but Law's quick acceptance indicated he had received a substantial increase.

The 6-foot, 3-inch, 195-pound right-hander had a 20-9 record during the last National League season and received credit for two victories over the New York Yankees in the World Series. He also started the seventh game of the series but retired after five innings partly because of an ankle injury suffered in a clubhouse accident the day the Pirates clinched their first flag in 33 years.

Law was the biggest "name" to agree to terms Thursday but the Cleveland Indians and Chicago Cubs also were active in the contract business. The Milwaukee Braves announced one player signed.

The Indians announced the signing of shortstop Woodie Held, catchers John Romano and Valmy Thomas and pitcher Mike Lee. The Cubs announced the signing of seven players, bringing their satisfied list to 32.

Held led the Indians with 21 homers in 1960 and Romano added 16 to a generally weak-hitting attack. Held batted .258 while Romano hit .272 in 108 games. Thomas was drafted from Rochester in November. Lee, a hard-throwing right-hander, appeared in only seven games and picthed nine innings in 1960.

The players signed by the Cubs are Lou Johnson, Ben Johnson, Sam Drake, Nelson Mathews, Walt Bales, Moe Morhardt and Ken Hubbs. Lou Johnson, Drake and Mathews played briefly for the Cubs last season.

Second baseman Frank Bolling, obtained by Milwakee in a December deal with the Detroit Tigers, agreed to terms. He hit only .254 for Detroit last season but is noted for his clutch batting.

The Cincinnati Reds received the contract of Vada Pinson, fleet center fielder who has played in all of the team's games the past two seasons.

The 22-year-old Pinson, who batted .287 in 1960, led the league in doubles with 37. He had a .316 batting average in 1959.

The Reds also received the signed contract of rookie southpaw pitcher John Flavin. Flavin, 18, was signed after graduating from El Cerrito, Calif., high school last season. He appeared in nine games with Palatka, Fla., and had a 2-1 record.

Eleven Reds now are under contract.

Weekend N.B.A. Games on KSD-TV

Tomorrow's pro basketball game between the Los Angeles Lakers and Philadelphia Warriors will be televised by Post-Dispatch Station KSD-TV, starting at 1 p.m.

On Sunday, the St. Louis Hawks - Cincinnati Royals game at Cincinnati will be carried by KSD-TV at 1:30 p.m.

Bowdry Bout May Be on TV

By W. J. McGoogan

There is a slight chance that the boxing match between Jesse Bowdry, St. Louis, and Harold Johnson, Philadelphia, Feb. 7, will be telecast, Eddie Yawitz, manager of Bowdry, said.

The contest will be recognized by the National Boxing Association as being for the light-heavyweight championship of the world.

Archie Moore, recently dethroned by the N.B.A. as the 175-pound title-holder, is scheduled to oppose Eric Schoeppner, of Germany, at New York, March 20 for the New York, Massachusetts and European version of the title.

Yawitz said that Bowdry and Johnson will each receive 25 per cent of the net gate at Miami Beach, where the scene of the match will be Convention Hall with a seating capacity of 17,000.

Top seat price will be $20 with the house scaled to provide receipts of $100,000.

At present, Bowdry weighs 181 pounds, six over the limit of the division, Yawitz said, and he is not at all awed by the prospect of fighting Johnson, a much more experienced boxer than Bowdry.

"Jesse is working every day here under the direction of Henry Armstrong," said Yawitz, "and he will leave for Miami Beach about ten days before the fight."

Armstrong, Bowdry's trainer, once held three world championships simultaneously—featherweight, lightweight and welterweight.

Henry handled Bowdry in his recent victory over Willie Pastrano at Miami Beach. That win was a big factor in Jesse getting the chance at Johnson.

Moore has not defended his championship in more than 18 months, which was the reason the N.B.A. lifted his title.

Schoeppner was angling for a chance at Moore and kept using the possibility that he might meet Johnson as a club over Archie's head.

It is reported in New York and elsewhere that there is a very good chance that Moore will not be able to get down to the limit of 175 pounds and may have to forfeit his championship.

Moore has been in that spot several times before, however, and always managed to take off the necessary poundage.

Goalby Shoots Blistering 66 to Go Ahead in Crosby Open

Bob Has Eagle 3 On No. 15

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 20 (UPI)—Arnold Palmer may have been the money king of 1960 among golfers.

But watch out for Bob Goalby of Belleville, Ill., in 1961!

Goalby, a former University of Illinois sub quarterback, now playing out of Crystal River, Fla., won $7500 for capturing the Los Angeles open to start this year and picked up another $550 in the San Diego open last week.

And he goes into the second round of the $50,000 Bing Crosby national pro-amateur today holding a one-stroke lead over the field after one of the greatest finishes ever seen on a golf course.

Goalby, one over par after 12 holes, went seven under par on the next six with five birdies and an eagle for a great 66 on the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course.

Big Bob, even with his fine shot-making, was only one stroke ahead of the crack field. Defending champion Ken Venturi, Palo Alto, Calif.; Dave Hill, Denver, Colo.; Bill Collins, Crystal River, Fla., and Howie Johnson, Lemont, Ill., each had 67s.

The golfers had the benefit of the finest weather in the 20-year history of the Crosby clambake. The sun shone, there was scarcely the trace of a breeze in the air and the thermometer read around 70.

This was the type of weather the professionals had asked for —one crack at Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and the Country Club when the sun was shining, no rain and little wind.

Fred Wampler of the St. Louis Westwood Club shot a first-round 71.

Closer to the pack, Dave Ragan, Orlando, Fla.; Jackie Burke, Houston, Tex., and Jerry Barber, Los Angeles, had 68s. Palmer had a 70, despite some trouble off the tee.

But Goalby was the big gun. Here's what he did on the last six holes:

13—Birdie four with a five-foot putt.

14—Birdie two with four-foot putt.

15—Eagle three with second shot on green and a 12-foot putt.

16—Birdie three with a three-foot putt.

17—Birdie three with a 10-foot putt.

18—Birdie four with seven-foot putt.

And that kind of golf is hard to beat.

Driving at the fifteenth tee of the Pebble Beach, Calif., golf course, BOB GOALBY of Belleville, Ill., goes on to register a spectacular 7-under-par 66. He thus took the first-round lead in the $50,000 Bing Crosby tournament. Watching, behind Goalby, is JACK FLECK, former U.S. Open champion.

8 St. Louis Skaters at Great Lakes

Eight St. Louisans will compete in the Great Lakes Open speed-skating meet at West Allis, Wis., over the weekend.

Representing the Missouri Skating Association will be: Bob Weiner, senior; Dennis Stanford, last year's St. Louis Silver Skates junior champion who now races in the intermediate division; John Hicks, junior; Louis Fehr, juvenile; Danny Carroll and Johnny Zuckerman, midgets; Mary Ann Smith, junior, and Linda Boyer, midget.

All are in training for the annual St. Louis Silver Skates scheduled at The Arena on Sunday afternoon, March 5.

Five members of the MSA board will attend the Great Lakes meet. They are: Lamar Ottsen, Watty Gadd, Ray Zuckerman, Bob Hicks and Louis Fehr Sr.

Outscores Rivals, 58-9.

Michigan State's 1960 soccer team scored 58 goals while holding rivals to nine goals in nine games.

Puerto Rican baseball makes the news . . . VIC POWER, first baseman of the Cleveland Indians in the summer months, is leading the Puerto Rican Winter League with a .331 average two weeks from the season's close . . . He plays and manages the Caguas Criollos . . . In the same league, Southpaw RON PICHE (Milwaukee Braves) pitching for Mayaguez, was credited with a no-hit game after the official scorer reversed a decision . . . The scorer had originally allowed two "hits," then he rubbed them out.

NOEL MICKELSEN, whose 156 strikeouts for last-place Portland last season led the Pacific Coast League, says he has quit organized baseball for a chance to coach the University of Oregon team . . . If he makes good on his threat the Milwaukee Braves, who paid $115,000 for his contract, will be left holding the bag . . . Mickelsen says he will enroll as a student taking graduate work.

INGEMAR JOHANSSON, who on Thursday in New York, signed an "agreement" to meet world heavyweight boxing champion FLOYD PATTERSON at Miami Beach, is now in Florida looking for a training camp site . . . The contract signing by Ingo and Floyd calls for the title bout to be held on Monday, March 13.

St. Louis U. High Defends Catholic School Swim Title

Seven local Catholic high schools send their swimming teams into the annual swimming championships at the St. Louis University pool this afternoon and tomorrow. Today's events, starting at 4:30, are preliminaries; Saturday's finals start at 2.

Topping the entry list is C.B.C. with 21 individuals; defending champion St. Louis U. High has 18 entries, Mercy 18, St. Thomas Aquinas 9, DuBourg and Prep Seminary have one each.

Mizzou's Hunter May Break Into Basket Lineup

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 20. — The University of Missouri basketball team winds up its examination-beset January schedule against the University of Oklahoma here tomorrow, and Coach Wilbur (Sparky) Stalcup is concerned about the height the Tigers must combat.

The teams are tied with 1-2 conference records near the bottom in Big Eight standings, but all games considered the Sooners are playing at an 8-4 clip and the Tigers at 3-10.

But the Sooner starters include Brian Etheridge 6-8, Jack Lee 6-5, Warren Foutz 6-7, George Kernek 6-2½ and Tom McCurdy 6-3, holding an advantage at every position but one.

Stalcup plans to use Charles Henke 6-5, Don Sarver 6-3, Joe Scott 6-4, and Jim Lockett 6-0 as starters, with either Ron Cox 6-4 or Walt Grebing 6-5 filling the other spot.

And the Tiger coach hinted that he may use Mike Hunter, sophomore football player, for the first time, although he would prefer to give him a little more time to get the feel of the court and may save him until the Oklahoma State game Feb. 1. Hunter, ineligible through the first five football games because of the transfer rule, played momentarily in the Kansas game to knock off a year of eligibility that in all probability would have been killed by baseball competition anyway.

Missouri ended an eight-game losing streak last week by defeating Oklahoma State.

Southwest Ill. Wins

Junior varsity teams of Southwestern Illinois U., at Alton, and St. Louis Baptist College played a basketball game here yesterday, Illinois winning with a fourth-quarter rally. Score was 83-76. Leading scorer was Bob Junck of Illinois with 32 points.

New Umps to Put Punch in Their Work

CAL HUBBARD, (right) American League supervisor of umpires, calls for a show of fists as he looks over four new baseball officials. From left, the newly appointed arbiters are: JOE LINSALATA, SAM CARRIGAN, BILL KINNAMON and HARRY SCHWARTS. The American League is building up its staff in anticipation of expansion to a 10-club organization this year. The picture was taken of league officials in Boston.

90 Trotters Eligible for Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill., Jan. 20 (UPI) —A list of 90 young trotters remained eligible for the 1961 edition of the Hambletonian Stakes when their owners made final eligibility payments by Jan. 1, it was announced today.

Gene Hayes, president of the state fair, where the sulky derby will be contested Aug. 30, said he was gratified by the big entry list and said he "fully expects" a new purse record to be set this year.

The list, headed by Meadow Farr, the 1960 two-year-old trotter of the year, was two less than the record of 92 set a year ago and today the purse is $180 below that of a year ago at this time.

But Hayes pointed out that the 1961 Hambletonian looms as a "wide open affair" and predicted a starting field of 22 or more. There were 19 starters last year when Joe O'Brien drove Blaze Hanover to victory in a $144,566 race. If Hayes' estimate of the starting field is correct a new purse record will be set.

Charles Town Meet Canceled

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Jan. 20 (UPI) — Officials at Charles Town abandoned all hope of resuming racing at the snowbound race track today and called off the remainder of the meeting.

The meeting was scheduled to close Saturday.

Five days were lost to storms, usually because snow blocked the roads leading to the track or because the jockeys were unable to see in blinding snow flurries.

The track was closed for the first time on Dec. 29. Then the sport was cancelled Monday and again on Thursday this week along with Friday and Saturday.

DePaul Upset Again

CHICAGO, Jan. 20 (UPI)—Revenge is sweet for Western Michigan's virtually unknown basketball team.

The fired-up Broncos from Kalamazoo upset tenth-ranked De Paul, 85-60, last night to avenge an earlier defeat at the hands of the Blue Demons.

The loss was the second straight on the road for De Paul, which only this week was dropped from the undefeated ranks by Notre Dame.

Western Michigan, previously beaten 81-60 by De Paul, raised its season record to 6-7 as it stopped the Demons' high-scoring guard, Howie Carl. The 5-9 Carl managed only one field goal in the first half as Western Michigan built a 36-23 advantage.

Bob Bolton's 23 points led the Broncos' well-balanced attack. Ron Robinson added 17 points while Carl's 13 topped the losers, who now have an 11-2 mark.

Houston, which toppled Bradley from the unbeaten list last week, edged out Texas A.&M., 89-85, as the Cougars' Ted Luckenbill scored 29 points. The tight contest was broken up in the last three minutes when Luckenbill drove down the middle for two consecutive layups and Tommy Thomson hit two free throws.

Gary Phillips added 22 points for Houston and Don Stanley with 27 and Carroll Broussard with 26 paced the Aggies.

In other games on a slim college schedule, Phil Dubensky's 16 points led Dayton to a 46-45 success over Wittenberg, and Kentucky Wesleyan edged out St. Francis (Pa.), 78-76, in overtime.

Gentile Scores 6, C.B.C.'s Soccer Team Wins 21st

Carl Gentile and the Christian Brothers College High soccer team both set records yesterday as the center forward scored six goals and C.B.C. defeated Duchesne, 9-0. Gentile thus ran his season total to 35, breaking his own mark of 32 set last season. The Cadets ran their undefeated season record to 21 victories. Other C.B.C. goals against Duschesne were scored by Mike Johnson, John Balmer and John Moore.

Mercy High won from St. Mary's, 2-1, on goals by Rig McIntire; Sal Rios scored for St. Mary's.

Boyer and Sievers Present Awards at Crestwood Banquet

Ken Boyer of the baseball Cardinals and Roy Sievers of the Chicago White Sox handed out plaques and certificates to players, managers, coaches and sponsors of Crestwood Khoury Baseball teams at Lindbergh Junior High, last night.

About 700 Crestwood youngsters who made up 32 boys' baseball and 12 girls' softball teams, participated in league games last season.

"Of those to whom much is given, much is required"

Much indeed will be required of the man who recently spoke those words before the Massachusetts Legislature ... John F. Kennedy.

This week, as he takes his oath of office, Newsweek reports in depth on the problems, plans and personalities of his new Administration. A 14-page Special Section—"New Frontier"—explores the hard realities he faces ... immense and urgent problems of domestic policy, an all but overpowering array of global crises, the looming threat to business here and abroad.

Some 7 million people of whom, also, "much is required" will read this issue of Newsweek ... mostly people with high responsibilities in business, government and the professions. As always, they will find both the facts and the significance of the news presented, fairly and clearly, across the full spectrum of human affairs. Each week, in ever larger numbers, this leadership community relies on Newsweek ... ahead of the news, behind the headlines ... for people at the top.

MOVE FOR QUICKER HEARING ON SHARECROPPERS REFUSED

CINCINNATI, Jan. 20 (AP)—The United States Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit, refused today to advance from Feb. 20 a hearing on a temporary injunction which prevents 46 Haywood county, Tenn., landowners from terminating contracts with sharecroppers.

The landowners, in asking quicker action on Jan. 16, said the injunction "is paralyzing farming arrangements" for the 1961 cotton crop. The sharecroppers are Negroes. The Justice Department charged that Negroes were being evicted from their homes because they registered to vote in the 1960 election.

In refusing to advance the hearing, the appellate court said a special convocation would not serve to expedite the determination of the issues involved. The court will go into regular session Feb. 6.

Colombia

and a possible Castro-type revolution in adjoining Venezuela.

Colombia's long open border with Venezuela would make for a difficult military problem if a hostile government came into power there.

Working on his side is the sound economy with its satisfactory growth rate and rather rapid industrialization. Distribution of economic benefits is a problem that can be and is being dealt with.

In addition, Colombia's elite, the group that runs the country, is more broadly based than in most other Latin American countries. There is much realization here that the alternative to social evolution is violent revolution. A final optimistic factor is the fact that no demagogue is in sight who could capitalize on the misery of the masses and the unsatisfied expectation of those on the way up.

The country is too broken up by geography and regional loyalties for a peasant demagogue to have much chance, but an urban demagogue must be considered a possibility.

Balancing the hazards against the hopeful factors, Colombia must be rated as having a good chance of continued progress if the coffee crops continue good, if the coffee market holds, and if the country can keep up an artificially fast rate of social progress.

The sputtering explosions that a visitor to Bogota hears on a late afternoon are not the outbreak of revolution at all, but an old Indian game called "tejos," in which the players throw brass weights at dynamite caps.

a time when the nuclear submarine and the underwater Polaris missile are limiting this nation's dependence on overseas bases, when pressure from the Treasury Department to cut the cost of stationing American troops overseas is strong, and when some of our oldest allies, including Canada and Britain, are engaged in serious arguments over the advisability of having United States nuclear weapons on their territories.

ONE REASON why Douglas Dillon, President Eisenhower's under secretary of state, was chosen as Secretary of the Treasury in the new administration was that he might continue dealing with this problem.

His view is that, if the allied nations do not deal with this complex of problems together, all will drift into more nationalistic problems, increase the frictions within the alliance, and enhance Moscow's economic and political offensive against the West.

Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, who has not taken an official post in the Kennedy Administration but is close to both Dean Rusk, the incoming Secretary of State, and Mr. Kennedy, is working on the problem.

His idea is that the Atlantic nations are in another crisis as severe as the crisis which preceded the Marshall Plan. His thought is that the Congress and the Executive should recognize that we have reached a fork in our policy and must now begin to move slowly but nevertheless boldly toward a closer economic and political association with our European allies, even if this means limitations on the sovereignty of all concerned.

The new under secretary of state-designate, Chester Bowles, has his own version of the same problem. His fear and expectation is that the Soviet Union will probably increase rather than reduce its economic warfare against the West by underselling in the world markets for political reasons.

This brings him to the conclusion that the western nations may be forced to combine to counter such moves, even if this means national and even allied export controls.

ALL THIS, of course, is still highly informal and speculative talk. The Kennedy Cabinet has not yet come together, let alone settled on policies, but there is already a new atmosphere of conversation in Washington, much more venturesome and experimental than anything heard in the capital for years.

These men are not bound down to an established set of policies. They are not talking in ideological terms or traditional terms. They are reviewing the problems facing the country quite analytically and it is obvious that they are perfectly willing to follow the facts wherever they may lead, even if this means breaking down long established walls and dikes.

This is not, however, a replay of the old left-right ideological battle of the thirties. Even some of the zealous New Dealers have returned talking about the need to apply this same analytical pragmatism to labor and the farmers and the allies, as they do to the Republicans.

At least some of the men around Kennedy are convinced that the annual wage-price rise of the New Deal days is as obsolete in the day of the cold war as the manned bomber.

Some of them, of course, continue to think that what labor wants is good for the country, or at least good for their political future, but others are increasingly aware of the effect of rising wages and prices in the competitive export markets of the world, and some are beginning to work on the question of getting prices down as a means of helping both the worker and the nation.

IN SHORT, this new crowd is going into office in a skeptical mood, even about their own party's foreign policy and labor policy of the past.

This is bound to lead, not at once, but in time to changes which would sound radical if not impossible now. Maybe the new President will follow his political rather than his intellectual or historical instincts when these strangers begin sending their recommendations to him. In any event it is fairly clear that questions that have been more or less closed in Washington are now going to be opened at least for discussion.

These include many things which will be highly controversial. They include the whole controversy over priorities of spending for public needs and private needs; they include the relationship of big business and big labor to the nation; they include the validity of John Foster Dulles's policies of massive retaliation and military pacts; they include the validity of the present American education system, the rate of growth, and even the concept of national sovereignty itself.

This does not mean that they are going to scrap the one-room schoolhouse or stamp out the Daughters of the American Revolution on Tuesday, but they are going to take the Soviet Union's challenge to the whole free system very seriously, and ask a lot of questions about how the free system can be transformed to meet the problems of the sixties.

SAYS JAN.-FEB. AUTO OUTPUT SCHEDULE CUT 40,000 CARS

DETROIT, Jan. 20 (AP) — Ward's automotive reports said today the auto industry has cut proposed production schedules for January and February by 40,400 cars.

The statistical service said the new schedules call for 863,900 assemblies during the two months but added this is still subject to revision either up or down depending on sales trends. Original schedules as reported by Ward's called for 904,300 cars.

Ward's said production this week will run 99,453 cars compared with 110,808 last week and 175,600 in the similar week of 1960.

Truck production was estimated at 18,591 units this week compared with 20,256 a week ago and 31,859 a year ago.

RETAIL TRADE PICKUP

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP) — Retail trade in the week ended Wednesday increased moderately over the previous week and the corresponding week a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today.

Dollar volume was 2 to 6 per cent higher than a year ago.

Favorable weather and extensive reduced-price sales were credited for the increase.

Year-to-year gains were registered in apparel, floor coverings, furniture and linens. They offset declines in major appliances, draperies and housewares. Volume in new passenger cars was close to a year ago.

COPPER OUTPUT CUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP) — Inspiration Consolidated Copper Co. today announced a 10 per cent reduction, effective immediately, in production of copper.

The company, like others announcing cuts earlier this week, said the adjustment to 90 per cent of capacity was made to bring its copper output into closer relationship with demand. Inspiration has been turning out about 3750 tons per month.

Similar reductions were announced by Kennecott Copper Corp., the Anaconda Co., Copper Range Co., and Southern Peru Copper Corp. this week. Phelps Dodge Corp. made a cut last year.

ODD LOT TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange reported today these odd lot transactions by principal dealers for Jan. 19: Purchases of 425,646 shares; sales of 421,916 shares including 1457 shares sold short.

Navy's carrier bombers and Polaris missiles were supposed to be co-ordinated. But, according to Air Force leaders, the truth was that the Strategic Air Command never had full information on the Navy's plans for targets.

THE RESULT WAS that both services were planning to attack the same targets. Likewise, the Navy had reserved for itself all naval targets, the submarine complex around Murmansk, for example, even though it knew it would have no carriers near from which to launch attacks.

The situation was intolerable and it was proposed to change it by placing Polaris submarines into a unified strategic command.

A compromise was reached in August by Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr., to establish the strategic target planning group under Power. The target planning group was under a Navy vice admiral and had a staff of 40. How difficult it was to get the Navy this far into unified operation is indicated by the statement by Gates that it "was the most important decision I have participated in since coming to the Pentagon in September 1953."

The Strategic Air Command has long had an elaborately worked-out target catalogue which is used by all services. Targets are listed in order of priority, each being given a numerical value on a point system. Many of these targets, military targets such as bridges, are so far down that they will never be on any target assignment unless there are land battles over the enemy territory.

Contrary to current charges, the new target assignments have been made and have been approved by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Secretary of Defense.

TARGETS ARE assigned to specific weapons systems and to the commands that control them. Polaris submarines, for example, operate under the Navy commander in chief, Atlantic, and may have been assigned the Murmansk submarine complex. They are currently marginal in capacity to reach deep into the Soviet Union.

The fighter-bombers under Gen. Lauris Norstad in Europe may be assigned targets in the satellite states and fringes of the Soviet Union, rather than the deeper penetrations formerly planned.

Attack bombers from the Navy's carriers are included and are assigned targets within their reach, depending upon their location.

As indicated by Power's testimony quoted above, the targeting system includes cities. The Navy has resisted, and appears still to be resisting, the unified target assignment. It would be harsh to say that it wants to win the war all by itself and plans to provide the means to do so, but its unwillingness to join this small degree of unified effort shows that its anxiety to keep its historical autonomy is still strong.

Universal Match Corp. Plans To Acquire Universal Controls

Memorandum of Intent to Merge Is Filed —Agreement to Be Submitted to Directors and Shareholders.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent.

Universal Match Corp. plans to acquire Universal Controls, Inc., says a joint announcement by the two companies.

A memorandum of intent to merge was signed yesterday by representatives of the two companies. Under the proposal Universal Match will be the surviving corporation, John L. Wilson, president of Universal Match, and M. Mac Schwebel, president of Universal Controls, announced.

The agreement will be submitted for approval to the boards of directors at meetings next week. Approval of shareholders of each company also will be required.

W. H. Kester

The board of directors of Universal Match will be increased if the merger is consummated. It is expected that Gustave L. Levy of Goldman Sachs & Co.; Carl P. Clare, president of C. P. Clare & Co., a subsidiary of Universal Control; Christopher A. Rupp, vice president of Baltimore National Bank, and Maxwell Goldhar, secretary-treasurer of Universal Controls, will become directors of the surviving corporation.

Mac Schwebel last Nov. 17 was permanently denied the privilege of appearing or practicing before the Securities and Exchange Commission for unethical and improper professional conduct.

Reports filed by Mac Schwebel in behalf of clients were found to be false and misleading. He was involved in illegal public distribution in this country of unregistered Canadian and other foreign securities, the commission found.

The acquisition would be by an exchange of capital stock at the rate of three-tenths of a share of Universal Match stock for one share of Universal Controls stock.

Universal Controls would have between 11,000,000 and 11,100,000 shares of common stock outstanding for exchange if all warrants and options are exercised by the time of the merger.

Universal Match would have to issue about 3,300,000 shares of stock in the exchange. However, the company has only about 1,500,000 shares unissued and authorized. Plans to increase the authorized shares were not disclosed by the company officers.

The market value of the shares that would be issued by Universal Match is about $188,000,000.

Both companies are actively expanding in the automatic vending machine field, with devices than can accept paper currency. Last June, the two companies entered into an agreement giving Universal Controls exclusive right to use, sell and lease such devices in the ticket issuing fields. The currency identification device of National Rejectors, a Universal Match subsidiary was to be used by Universal Controls.

Bemis Bro. Bag Co. has acquired the patents, machines and license agreements on machines to produce a new flexible package in the shape of a tetrahedron (four triangular faces joined to form a pyramid).

Lowell Manufacturing Co. of St. Louis has introduced three models of injection molded plastic speaker baffles, the first use of such material, according to Ben Lowell, president. They are molded of Monsanto Chemical Co.'s styrene.

William L. Behan III has been appointed sales manager of the St. Louis operation of Hill-Behan Lumber Co.

Robert S. Kline has been named advertising manager and assistant merchandising manager of the company.

James J. Wengert has been elected president of Commerce Publishing Co. of St. Louis, succeeding Donald H. Clark, who advanced to the new position of chairman of the board and treasurer.

Harold R. Colbert was advanced from vice president to executive vice president and named associate publisher. Richard C. Budlong was elected secretary. Welsey H. Clark and Ralph B. Cox were named vice presidents.

W. GERMAN BANK RATE CUT

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 19 (AP)—The West German Federal Bank today lowered the bank rate from four to three and a half percent, effective tomorrow.

Financial circles had expected the reduction.

The official explanation was that cutting the rate should reduce the still heavy influx of foreign currency.

LOANS DECREASE

Loans and discounts by St. Louis Clearing House banks decreased $25,125,000 in the week ended Wednesday. Times deposits increased $206,000 and demand deposits increased $7,527,000. Bond and stock accounts increased $2,988,000.

GRAINS FIRM LATE, SOYBEANS ARE OFF

CHICAGO, Jan. 20 (AP) — Grain futures prices showed a slightly firming tendency in the early afternoon today on the Board of Trade although dealings continued at a slow pace.

All grains held small advances with rye ahead a cent or more. Soybeans continued under light pressure, however, and were small fractions to more than a cent under the previous close.

Trading in January soybeans ended today but there was a small open interest in the contract and no strong drive from either side toward evening up commitments had become apparent.

BANKS LENDING CAPACITY INCREASED FOR THE WEEK

© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—Daily average borrowings of member banks of the Federal Reserve System dropped $16,000,000 to $35,000,000 in the week ended Wednesday, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported. Daily average reserves in excess of requirements rose $118,000,000 to $693,000,000 from a revised figure a week ago. As a result, daily average net free reserves—excess reserves less borrowings—rose $129,000,000 from a revised week-ago figure to $658,000,000.

At the end of the statement week, borrowings were down $4,000,000 from the previous Wednesday at $57,000,000. Excess reserves were up $289,000,000 from a revised week-ago figure at $823,000,000. Net free reserves on Wednesday, as a result, were up $293,000,000 at $766,000,000.

Member bank reserve requirements are based on weekly averages of daily figures.

WEEK'S RAIL FREIGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) —Railroad freight business improved last week after the slump following the holidays but was still below the corresponding weeks one year and two years ago.

The Association of American Railroads reported that in the week ended Jan. 14 loading of revenue freight totaled 516,210 cars, up 77,017 cars or 17.5 per cent from the first week of the year.

The figure, however, was down 89,583 cars or 14.8 per cent from the 1960 week, and 70,132 or 12 per cent from the 1959 week.

BANK CLEARINGS

St. Louis bank clearings for Jan. 20 were $71,100,000 compared with $84,000,000 a year ago.

STOCK MARKET GENERALLY FIRM BUT TRADE CUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP)—The stock market closed a bit higher in moderate trading today.

Activity was dampened by a heavy snowstorm which snarled transportation in the New York City area, and also by strikes on commuter lines.

American Telephone rose more than a point to touch a new historic high, but closed with only a fractional gain.

Baltimore & Ohio, both the regular common and "stamped" for the proposed Chesapeake & Ohio merger, were delayed hours in opening under an accumulation of sell orders. Both issues took losses exceeding 7 points.

A number of special stocks won attention. Diners' Club and Texas Instruments rising more than 2 apiece.

Prices near the close included: Baltimore & Ohio off 7¼ at 38⅜; B & O "stamped," off 7⅞ at 38⅜; Chesapeake & Ohio, off 1⅝ at 65¼; Philadelphia Electric up 1⅞ at 54½; American Telephone up ⅝ at 108⅜; Consolidated Natural Gas, up 1½ at 53⅜; American Tobacco, up 1 at 70½; Texas Instruments up 2¼ at 178⅞; Diners' Club up 2⅜ at 27⅛; International Business Machines, up 5 at 625; and Volume for the day was estimated at 3,200,000 shares compared with 4,740,000 yesterday.

Gains of fractions to about a point among key stocks outnumbered losers.

Baltimore & Ohio issues were delayed almost three hours in opening due to an avalanche of sell orders following the recent rise of this stock sparked by New York Central buying.

B.&O. common was off half a dozen points and the "stamped" common, assented in the merger offer of Chesapeake & Ohio, was down about 8. Neither stock had traded since shortly after the first hour yesterday. They did not open today until 12:52 p.m. (E.S.T.) when the common sold at 40¼, off 5¾ on 15,000 shares, and the "stamped" sold at 39½, off 6¾ on 12,500 shares.

New York Central seeks a place in the merger picture, but apparently its buying of B.&O. stock has slackened greatly.

Among an assortment of selected gainers, Goodrich, Kerr-McGee and General Time rose more than 2 apiece, Johnson & Johnson more than 3, and International Business Machines 5 points or so.

Diners' Club became active and spurted about 2 points. Texas Instruments was up close to 2. International Minerals & Chemicals, Litton Industries, and Woolworth added more than a point each.

Most of the leading steels and autos made fractional gains. American Telephone touched a new historic high but backed away from its best gain and traded only fractionally higher. American Tobacco and Anaconda were about a point higher.

Losses were taken by International Harvester, Merck, Illinois Central, Kennecott, and Southern California Edison.

American Stock Exchange late prices moved generally higher in fairly active trading. Paddington "A" and Hydrometals advanced more than 2 apiece. Gains of a point or so were made by Belock Instruments, Anken Chemical, Seeman Bros., and Aerojet-General. High-priced Horn & Hardart was up about 9.

National Oats Earnings.

National Oats Co., reported net earnings for the six months to Dec. 31, were $211,076. It was erroneously reported prematurely that net was $428,284.

KENNEDY MAKES 4 MORE APPOINTMENTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—The incoming President, John F. Kennedy, announced four additional appointments last night.

Walt W. Rostow, professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was named deputy special assistant to the President for national security affairs.

A professor of economic history, Rostow is a member of the staff of the center for international studies at M.I.T.. He will serve under McGeorge Bundy of Harvard, previously appointed by Kennedy as his special assistant for national security affairs. Rostow is a Yale graduate and a former Rhodes scholar.

Robert C. Turner was named an assistant director of the budget. He will be concerned primarily with economic and fiscal policy aspects of budget issues.

Turner is chairman of the department of business economics and public policy at the Indiana University school of business. In World War II he worked in the War Production Board as director of its foreign division and after the war served on the White House staff until 1948.

Roger W. Tubby, currently press relations director of the Democratic National Committee, was named as assistant Secretary of State for public affairs. Tubby was a press secretary to former President Harry S. Truman.

Mr. Kennedy named Comdr. Tazewell Taylor Shepard Jr. as his naval aide. Shepard was born in Mobile, Ala., and attended the University of Alabama and the United States Naval Academy.

STEVENSON GETS A BRIEFING ON U.N. PROBLEMS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Jan. 20 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson was briefed yesterday on United Nations problems facing the United States delegation which he soon will head. Then he flew to Washington for John F. Kennedy's inauguration as President.

His predecessor, Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, made a farewell call on U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and gave him a $5,000,000 check as a United States contribution to a voluntary U.N. aid fund for The Congo.

Stevenson, Democratic candidate for President in 1952 and 1956, will take over the U.N. delegation next week as United States permanent representative. He and Wadsworth had lunch at the Century Club. Earlier, Stevenson spent the morning at United States delegation headquarters on lower Park avenue.

VALUE OF J. CLARK STREETT ESTATE PUT AT $1,220,285

The estate of J. Clark Streett, former president and chairman of the board of Streett Industries, Inc., was valued at $1,220,285, in an inventory filed yesterday in probate court.

Streett, who lived at 36 Kingsbury place, died Aug. 22 at the age of 81. He was a former director of the First National Bank in St. Louis and a number of other business concerns.

The inventory listed major assets as $63,327 in cash and a trust fund established in 1946 valued at $1,156,288. The will, filed earlier, indicated that the trust fund was set up for the benefit of his wife, daughter and three sons. Terms of the trust were not given in the will.

Says Saving Must Be Increased

DES MOINES, Iowa—The level of personal savings, though high in the past year, will have to be increased by the second half of the 1960s in order to provide adequate funds for millions of new jobs and a new home building boom, a national savings and loan leader said here Wednesday.

Norman Strunk of Chicago, executive vice president of the United States Savings and Loan League, expressed this view in an address before the Thrift Essay Awards Luncheon of the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce.

Strunk is the chief executive officer of the League, a trade organization with a membership of more than 4700 savings and loan associations.

Strunk predicted that the present "ample supply of savings" will prove temporary, and that the need for additional private savings capital will become "urgent" to meet employment and housing requirements as the nation moves along through the 1960s.

Expects More Labor.

"During the 1960s, according to the U. S. Department of Labor our labor force will increase by between 13 and 14 million persons, or about 50 per cent more than in the 1950s," said Strunk. "We have no more important task here in this country than simply this: Can we provide enough jobs?"

As for housing, Strunk said that by 1965, new family formations should be increasing annually by about 1,200,000, according to the Census Bureau. This means, he added, that the United States should be building a "minimum" of 1,500,000 new houses each year by 1965 and 2,000,000 by 1970.

These projections compare to a home building volume of 1,250,000 during 1960.

"The U. S. Chamber of Commerce estimates that it takes $15,000 to create each new job," he went on. "Statistics gathered by the research department at the United States League office in Chicago indicate that in 1960, a mortgage of $13,000 was required to finance each new house.

"The crucial question confronting us as a nation is, therefore, where will the savings come from to create the millions of new jobs required and to build the millions of new homes needed?"

Closely Related.

Noting that these questions are closely inter-related, Strunk said that the housing boom in the second half of the 1960s may be the biggest single key to economic growth in the country.

"This new building boom will mean employment for hundreds of thousands of additional workers and tradesmen, and other jobs in the variety of industries —lumber, steel, brick, aluminum, glass, plastics, paint, plumbing, lighting and flooring—which supply and are related to the home building industry," he added.

Strunk predicted that the biggest part of the home financing load for the next housing boom will fall on savings and loan associations which last year financed 42 per cent of all homes built or purchased. He said that these associations had a record growth in savings of $7½ billion last year.

Motels Now Moving Into Downtown

The new super expressways in big cities are changing the sleeping as well as the travelling habits of tourists.

Highway travellers have stopped shunning the downtown areas of big cities and now prefer to spend the night in a center-of-town motel easily reached via expressways and throughways. As a result motels have reversed their original function in many cities. Designed to save highway tourists from the rigors of downtown traffic, motor hotels are now booming in the last place they once might have been expected to flourish—in the heart of America's big cities.

"No longer is a cornfield considered an ideal motel location. Gone are the days when motel men bought sites by the acre. Now motel property is purchased by the square foot in prime downtown locations and the biggest motel development is coming in the center of big cities easily reached on expressways," reports Robert L. Stuart, manager of Chicago's Lake Tower Motel located at the edge of the Loop. One of the pioneers in downtown motel construction, the Lake Tower Motel is located on Chicago's famed Lake Shore Drive with easy connections to the Windy City's two big new freeways—Congress and Northwest Expressways.

Not the Cities.

"It was not the cities the travelers were avoiding—it was congested city streets. Development of the expressways has changed all that. Motorists who reluctantly passed up their opportunity to see Chicago or other big cities—because it would have meant fighting city traffic —are pouring downtown, now that the expressways have turned the matter of getting downtown from a chore into a driver's delight," says Stuart.

"Once downtown, all these motorists are looking for places to stay. And they look for the same motel convenience, informality and luxury they would want if they stayed on the highway."

They find it in new downtown motels—along with a few big-city twists. For instance, the Lake Tower Motel has an underground garage and elevators to take guests to their rooms, and it runs a shuttle bus service for guests who want to go shopping or sightseeing.

In coming to the center of the city, tourists get some extra bonuses like less noise than at highway or airport motels since the downtown area is usually deserted and very quiet at night. They also find entertainment close at hand, answering one of the most frequent criticisms voiced by tourists in motel surveys — no facilities to keep guests amused in the evening.

This does not mean that the new city-style motel is merely a hotel built late enough in the auto age to have its own garage. It is most definitely a motel, keyed to the needs of a nation on wheels, Stuart points out.

Even the outward appearance of city motels like Chicago's Lake Tower bears the stamp of a modern luxury motel. Where hotels, in contrast, often blend into other city buildings, motels are architecturally designed with eye-catching exteriors. It is an idea which began on the highways to attract the attention of passing motorists — and it works just as well in the heart of town. City motels like the Lake Tower also have such modern motel developments as a swimming pool and the latest in luxury decor and conveniences.

"In fact, the appeal of the downtown motel is so great that a new twist is being added in many cities," observes Stuart. "Several established hotels actually are reconverting into motels by extensive remodeling."

For instance, there is a big $3,000,000 project underway in Dayton, Ohio, to convert the Gibbons Hotel, a Dayton landmark, into a completely modern 199-unit motor hotel with a self-parking garage for 204 cars. It is expected to re-open as a motel at the end of 1961, with the new name of Dayton Inn.

In Chattanooga, Tenn., a new motor inn is being built with a connecting ramp to the Read House, an aged hotel. Idea is that overflow motel guests will be channeled to the hotel, while hotel guests will have the use of motel facilities such as the swimming pool.

In other cities motels are springing up all over the downtown districts. It's happening in Houston, Minneapolis, Denver, St. Louis, Omaha, Washington, Atlantic City, Wichita, Tucson, Phoenix, Cleveland, Memphis, Birmingham, San Diego, Dallas and San Antonio. In New York five motor hotels in the midtown area were either planned, started or completed last year and the first to open, the Skyline Motor Inn, did a booming business last summer when Manhattan hotels went into one of their worst slumps.

As a result the price for motel sites has soared. Where once sites were bought by the acre, now motel property sells by the foot with prices as high as $30 a square foot.

Chicago itself is probably the best example of the way cities have taken to motels and vice versa, Stuart points out.

Eight Year Trend.

The development of motels in Chicago began only eight years ago because of a city ordinance which previously banned them within the city limits. At the beginning of 1961, in contrast, greater Chicago has more than 150 motels, and 30 of them are within the city limits.

The Lake Tower, on the Outer Drive, handy to the Loop, to Near North Side restaurants, stores and businesses and to Chicago's new lakefront exhibition hall, McCormick Place, is typical of the new concept of an ideal motel location. It is conveniently close to any attraction that might draw a visitor to Chicago—whether a tourist taking the expressway to town for some sightseeing or a business or convention visitor.

S.I.R. Award To Be Presented To N.Carolina

Maine's Republican Governor John H. Reed will present the new award for the state with the most effective industrial development program to North Carolina's new Democratic Governor Terry Sanford at a meeting of the Society of Industrial Realtors in Philadelphia tomorrow.

The meeting will bring together the governors of two states that have been national leaders in the field of industrial development. North Carolina's development program, sparked by Gov. Luther Hodges' 75,000 miles of business-boosting missions to Europe and elsewhere as the Tar Heel state's star salesman before he was appointed Commerce Secretary, won S.I.R.'s first Professional Trophy to the state with the most effective program of attracting industry.

Maine, one of the pioneering states in the industrial development field, won special mention for its imaginative, dynamic program. The award was established by S.I.R. to encourage industrial growth and recognize the important role of state development agencies in building the economy.

A total of 37 governors responded personally to a recent S.I.R. announcement of the award presentation, indicating wide interest in the new trophy.

The award will be presented during the January inaugural meetings of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and its affiliated organizations which include S.I.R. Members of the society market the large majority of the industrial properties in North America.

Albert R. Bullier Sr., Portland, Ore., will be installed as 1961 president of S.I.R. at the luncheon in Philadelphia's Warwick Hotel at which the industrial award will be presented. Bullier is the first president of the Pacific Northwest to be elected to that office. He succeeds Clinton B. Snyder, Hoboken, N.J., who donated the new state award and sparked the program.

Industries Take Extra Tax Loads

NEW YORK—For the privilege of locating their plants, laboratories, or headquarters in attractive suburban communities, industrial managers often are willing to pay in taxes several times the cost of the services they get from municipalities in which they build. The result can be healthy for both company and community, according to facts and figures presented in the January Architectural Forum. The professional building journal provides a number of cases in point in an article entitled "Industry in the Suburbs."

In West Hartford, Conn., industrial firms pay three times as much taxes as the cost of the town services they use. The community gets 9 per cent of its tax revenue from industry, but needs to spend only 3 per cent of its budget to provide the police, fire, sewerage, lighting, and other services the plants require.

In Nassau County, N.Y., industry contributes 9.7 per cent of tax revenue but costs only 3.5 per cent.

In Greenwich, Conn., industry pays 7.7 per cent, while it uses 2.1 per cent of the town's services.

In Evanston, Ill., industry pays 2.7 per cent taxes, uses less than 1 per cent of services.

In Arlington County, Va., industry pays 4.9 per cent, costs the community 1.4 per cent of its service expenditures.

In New Rochelle, N.Y., industry pays 4.1 per cent, costs 3 per cent.

This apparent largess of industry, Forum points out, has a strong economic justification. The industrial manager finds that he can buy land cheaper in the suburbs than in the city, that he can tap a new reservoir of workers, that transportation by rail and highway usually is good — often better than in the city.

Five-Room House Sold

This house at 2615 Heger court has been sold for Rose Oldani to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin W. Muskopf. The house is brick, with five rooms and an unfinished second floor. The Hoene-Craig Realty Co. was agent in the transaction.

PUBLIC NOTICES 24

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that The Metropolitan St. Louis Sewer District will hold a public hearing at 8:00 P.M. on Thursday, February 2, 1961, at the Pattonville High School, 11055 St. Charles Rock Road, St. Ann, Missouri for the purpose of determining whether or not it is in the public interest to construct trunk sanitary sewers within Subdistrict No. 110 (Pattonville) as established by Ordinance No. 430.

The approximate boundaries of the Subdistrict are as follows:

Bounded on the North by Spring Avenue, on the South by St. Francis Lane, on the East by Long and Cypress Roads, on the West by Midview Avenue.

Such sewers to be connected with a certain existing public sewer of The Metropolitan St. Louis Sewer District.

And for the further purpose of determining whether or not such improvements, if made, shall be paid for by special benefit assessments.

By order of the Board of Trustees of
THE METROPOLITAN
ST. LOUIS SEWER DISTRICT
this 5th day of January, 1961.

SCHOOL BOARD REVISING PLAN ON REORGANIZATION

The Board of Education delayed action on its proposed administrative reorganization bills yesterday to permit further revision by the board's legislative committee.

The board met in special session to approve the reorganization proposals for submission to the legislature. Alex Aboussie, chairman of the legislative committee, said technical language in those sections of the bills dealing with the duties and functions of the school board auditor needed further refinement.

Some members, it was learned felt the language about the proposed duties of the auditor was too vague. One example cited was the failure to require a pre-audit of proposed expenditures by the auditor. Some members believed the pre-audit was as important as a post-audit.

Agreed on Principles.

Aboussie said the changes sought were minor. He emphasized that the delay did not indicate disagreement among board members on the basic principles of the reorganization plan itself, which would place the school building department under the control of the superintendent of instruction and provide for the establishment of a merit system for non-teaching employes.

Members of the legislative committee and school officials attempted to reselve the auditor problem at an hour-long executive session yesterday afternoon, but were unable to, Aboussie reported.

The matter will be taken up again at a meeting Tuesday, and the committee will attempt to have the bills ready for school board approval by Jan. 30, when another special board session will be called, he said.

The school board, gave final approval to three proposed constitutional amendments which will be sent to the legislature.

Amendment Provisions.

The proposed amendments, if approved by the Legislature and subsequently by voters, would permit passage of school bond issues by a simple majority of voters, permit the setting of school tax elections every four years with approval of the tax rate by a simple majority, and raise the minimum St. Louis school operating tax rate from 89 cents to $1.

At present, a two-thirds majority is required for approval of bond issues. School tax rates are approved by simple majority if voted on every two years, but require a two-thirds majority if voted on at four-year intervals.

Action by the board on the proposals was unanimous, except in the case of the $1 school tax rate, which was opposed by Dr. Robert Rainey.

Dr. Rainey said he believed the board should ask that the tax rate revert to the last prevailing rate instead of a lower minimum in cases where a proposed tax rate increase is rejected by voters.

Thus, in the present instance, the current rate of $1.81 for each $100 assessed valuation would be maintained instead of dropping to 89 cents, if voters rejected a rate increase, he said.

Committee's Reason.

However, Aboussie and Mrs. Gilbert Harris said the committee members decided to ask for a $1 minimum because they believed there was greater chance of its passage by the Legislature.

St. Louis is the only city school district in the state which does not have a $1 tax floor, Mrs. Harris said. "Thus, we are asking for nothing more than that already granted to other school districts."

The board also approved, but later voted to reconsider, a legislative proposal which would permit hiring of outside architects and engineers for school board engineering work.

In answer to questions by Building Commissioner James F. Morrell, Board Member Oscar A. Ehrhardt said the intention of the bill was to permit hiring of outside firms to engineer and supervise construction of a building in its entirety.

Members of the board, agreeing that the language in the bill was unclear, voted to send it back to the legislative committee for revision.

Present at yesterday's meeting were Aboussie, Donald L. Carpenter, Mrs. Harris, the Rev. John J. Hicks, James S. McClellen, Dr. Rainey, Ehrhardt and Board President Edward C. Donnelly. Absent were Mrs. Irma Friede, H. Lee Bruns, Charles Dyer and Daniel L. Schlafly.

U.S. REJECTS RED PROTEST THAT SHIP WAS HALTED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) —The United States has rejected a Soviet protest that American navy ships had wrongfully stopped a Russian tanker near Cuba.

In a note delivered to the Soviet embassy yesterday, the United States said the American craft did no more than exchange routine identification signals with the Red tanker and at no time got closer than 3½ miles.

Russia had protested against the incident involving the Russian tanker Sverdlovsk Jan. 13. United States officials said their check showed neither the American nor the Soviet ship changed course or speed as the vessels passed in the Caribbean waters south of Cuba.

Khrushchev Pledges More Funds To Increase Living Standards

MOSCOW, Jan. 20 (AP)—Premier Khrushchev says the Soviet Union will begin spending more money for agriculture and consumer goods to raise the living standards of the Russian people.

His speech, delivered Tuesday before the central committee of the Communist party, was released today by Tass, the Soviet news agency.

The committee approved his call for a major reorganization of the management of the nation's farm program, with increased emphasis on scientific methods.

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union is in a new stage of historic development, the comprehensive building of a Communist society.

"Our country now has such a powerful industry, such mighty defenses, that it can, without detriment to the further development of industry and the strengthening of defenses, allocate more funds for the development of agriculture, for increasing the output of consumer goods, for further raising the living standards of the Soviet people," he told the committee.

The Premier said Soviet agriculture, shortcomings of which he repeatedly assailed at the committee meetings, must have a more solid scientific foundation. Specifically, he said:

"We must have a strict law on seed production. Husbandry must sow the best zoned varieties of seed."

The committee approved the recommendations he made in his speech for setting up an agency to speed machinery and fertilizer to state and collective farms. Speakers at the committee sessions frequently blamed lack of machinery for harvest failures.

The committee also called for a new plan for irrigating millions of acres of farmland to offset setbacks from drouth.

The committee declared in a resolution that "big shortcomings and mistakes in leadership of agriculture were made" with the result that production fell in some instances below the minimum schedules set in the seven-year plan with which Russia hopes to overtake United States per capita production.

To solve machinery problems of state and collective farms, the party committee authorized establishment of a special government agency to act as intermediary between the farm machinery industry and the farms. The committee also approved establishment of a state procurement agency to be responsible for procurement of all agricultural products.

The committee's communique disclosed that Russia's wheat crop in 1960 was 131,000,000 metic tons. This was higher than the 125,900,000 tons produced in 1959 but short of the 141,200,000 tons produced in 1958.

Milk and meat also increased slightly over 1959, but the latter particularly fell below the target.

YOUTH KILLED, 3 HURT IN CRASH ON WARSON ROAD

A Frontenac youth was killed yesterday when an automobile in which he was riding spun out of control on an icy section of pavement and crashed head on into another car, St. Louis county police said. Three persons were injured, one seriously.

Arthur J. O'Brien Jr., 16 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. O'Brien Sr., 10319 Cable avenue, Frontenac, was killed.

The collision occurred about 5:15 p.m. on Warson road, about one-half mile north of Olive Street road. O'Brien was a passenger in a southbound car driven by Neil F. Kurlander, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abbey S. Kurlander, 9370 Olive Street road, Olivette.

Kurlander's car spun completely around on the icy pavement, swerved into the northbound lane of traffic and struck a car driven by Edward F. Bumba, 26, 9527 Pagewood court, Overland, police reported.

Bumba, a service employe of Monsanto Chemical Co., suffered a fractured left hip and remained at St. Louis County Hospital. Kurlander, like the O'Brien youth a student at Ladue High School, was treated for a fractured right hand and fractured clavicle and released.

Another passenger in the Kurlander auto, William T. Smith, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Smith, 10331 Savannah avenue, Frontenac, suffered a fractured right ankle and was transferred to St. Mary's Hospital.

DINNER TONIGHT TO LAUNCH LIONS' EYE-BANK CAMPAIGN

Dr. John A. Buessler, chief of opthalmology at the University of Missouri Medical Center, will address representatives of 55 Lions Clubs of St. Louis and St. Louis, St. Charles and Jefferson counties today at a dinner at 6:30 p.m. at the Flame Restaurant, 10701 Highway 66, Sunset Hills.

The meeting will initiate a campaign by the Lions in behalf of the university's eye-tissue bank. They have sponsored aid-to-blind programs for many years and now have agreed to provide funds to buy equipment and support some operating cost of the project. So far $32,225 has been allocated for this purpose.

Dr. Garth Russell of the university, who has been assigned to the project, will assist Dr. Buessler in explaining the technical aspects of the program at the meeting tonight.

U.S. AND HONDURAS AGREE TO END TARIFF CONCESSIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) —The United States did away with special tariff concessions with Honduras yesterday to help the Central American republic ease its financial plight. At Honduras's request, President Eisenhower ordered termination of the concessions as of Feb. 28.

The termination will allow the Hondurans to step up their tariff on such items as passenger cars, tires, trucks and some canned food. United States officials said a relatively small amount of United States export trade would be affected.

Honduras has been hard hit by poor prices for its major exports, bananas and coffee. The Honduran government sought removal of the tariff concessions so it could limit imports of luxuries and raise more revenue through higher customs.

STATE STUDYING EFFORT TO CLOSE NURSING HOME

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 20—Dr. H. M. Hardwicke, acting director of the State Division of Health, had under advisement today an effort to force closing of Pine Crest Nursing Home No. 2 in Manchester.

A hearing on complaints that the home was deficient in patient care, had inadequate supplies to take care of the 105 patients there and was not complying with fire safety regulations was held here yesterday.

The nursing home is operated by Mrs. Alice Burgess. She appeared with her attorney, Isadore Scher. Neil C. Wortley, a health division consultant on nursing homes, conducted the hearing.

Brought by County.

Complaints against the nursing home were brought by the St. Louis county health department.

In addition to recommending that the home be closed until it complies with the state nursing home laws, Wortley said he would recommend that Mrs. Burgess keep a practical nurse on duty at all times and 10 attendants to care for the patients.

Scher pointed out that Pine Crest employs 11 attendants on the day shift and eight on the night shift. He added that Mrs. Burgess herself is a licensed practical nurse.

Only 3 or 4 Attendants.

County inspectors testified she had only three or four attendants on duty when they inspected the home last October when her license expired. Scher noted re-inspections are made every time a license expires, but they are not made promptly. Operators frequently have to wait as long as three months, he said.

At the close of the hearing, Scher asked that Mrs. Burgess be given three months to bring the nursing home into compliance with the law. She told Wortley she could do it in that length of time.

In addition to the home in Manchester, Mrs. Burgess operates homes of the same name in Fenton and Ballwin.

The state regulations for the operation of nursing homes were made stricter after the 1957 nursing home fire in Warrenton, Mo., in which 72 persons died.

Cat With Gold Tooth.

LONDON, Jan. 20 (AP) — A Siamese cat wandered in Devonshire place last night, its gold tooth glinting under the streetlights. A passerby took it to an animal rescue society. The society promptly called Mrs. Sarah Sharman of Wimpole street, who had reported the animal missing and said she thought it was the only cat in London with a gold tooth.

EHRHARDT SAYS C.A.P.S. SLATE IS BEING 'MISUSED'

Oscar A. Ehrhardt, a retiring member of the Board of Education, charged last night that members of the Citizens Association for the Public Schools are being "misused" in their belief that C.A.P.S. "represents only good."

Addressing a meeting of the St. Louis Public Schools Patrons Alliance at Friedens School Hall, 3954 Nineteenth street, Ehrhardt renewed his criticism of the $17,000 fund C.A.P.S. is raising on behalf of its slate of five candidates for the school board.

Replying to counter charges by Andrew Brown, chairman of C.A.P.S, that Ehrhardt had begun a "smear" campaign against the organization and its slate, Ehrhardt said his concern was the $17,000 campaign fund "not to mention the services of a public relations organization, one of the top-flight, high-priced public relations group in the community."

"Competing with this sort of arrangement creates an unfair advantage and is completely out of the realm of good reasoning in the seeking of a non-paying office," he said.

Denying Brown's charges that he had called C.A.P.S. a pressure group, Ehrhardt said he did not view the C.A.P.S. organization as a pressure group "but as a front organization with objectives in mind other than those known to a majority of their membership."

He also denied criticizing the slate of candidates, saying that he knew personally only the two who were presently members of the Board of Education by appointment of Mayor Raymond R. Tucker. These two, Mrs. Gilbert Harris and James S. McClellan, an attorney, are held "in very high esteem" by Ehrhardt, he said.

"I do not know of the other three candidates," he said. "As a matter of fact," I do not even know the nature of the business of one candidate who is billed as a business man."

Candidates' Backgrounds.

The other three candidates are Frederick E. Busse, James E. Hurt Jr. and Elmer W. Pounds. In a paid advertisement Dec. 27, CAPS published sketches of the background, civil activities and business connections of all five candidates. Hurt was described as president of Employees Loan and Investment Co., a small loan company; McClellan, as a director and member of the executive committee of Falstaff Brewing Corp., in addition to his law practice, and Pounds as a former president of the Life Underwriters Association of St. Louis and presently a member of the board of directors of the Estate Planning Council. Busse is an attorney and a member of the board of directors of the Estate Planning Council. Mrs. Harris is a past president of the St. Louis League of Women Voters.

Chester A. Virga, a representative of the Windsor School Patrons, was installed as general president of the Patrons Alliance at the meeting. He is an electrician and lives at 7117 Yates street.

AEC SAYS NUCLEAR RUNAWAY CAUSED REACTOR BLAST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission said yesterday it has established that the explosion of an atomic reactor in Idaho on Jan. 3 was caused by an accidental runaway reaction.

The explosion was nothing like an atomic bomb blast, but three men were killed and the reactor chamber still cannot be entered because of radiation danger.

The AEC announcement said technicians are seeking a way of "remotely looking into the reactor room and the reactor vessel." Special television cameras and other equipment has been brought from the AEC's Oak Ridge (Tenn.) and Los Alamos (N. M.) laboratories.

The AEC said it established the cause of the explosion by analysis of gold and copper objects found in the vicinity. They were radio-active, showing that neutrons, the sign of a chain reaction, had been loosed from the reactor. The AEC did not identify these objects.

URGES STRONGER TEACHERS' GROUP

The most important problem in American education is the development of a strong teachers' organization, Myron Lieberman, former director of basic research for the Educational Research Council of Greater Cleveland, O., said here last night.

Lieberman, a writer and lecturer on education, spoke at a dinner meeting of the University City Community Teachers' Association at Brittany Junior High School.

Organizational strength for teachers is needed, he said, both to protect the public interest in education and to advance the legitimate welfare interests of the teachers themselves.

"If you were to double the salaries of teachers," Lieberman said, "it would not be long before the teachers were back at the current relative level, because they do not have enough strength to maintain pressure."

Lieberman said he regarded efforts of teachers to bring about passage of minimum salary laws as "a complete waste of time and money." He advised them to work toward getting control of standards for entry into the profession.

"One characteristic of a profession," he said, citing the examples of medicine and law, "is that it is an occupational group which itself sets the standards for entry."

Another cause for weakness in teachers' organizations, Lieberman said, is that they follow a policy of unrestricted membership and admit school administrators, with the consequence that they may be dominated by their employers.

In Canada, he said, teachers have gotten much further along in organizing, and Canadian law now requires school boards to bargain with them. They do not, however, control licensing of teachers.

Lieberman said this nation's teacher associations were also ineffective in public relations. They concentrate on parents, he said, when a better approach would be to take the case to business and industrial leaders, "the movers and shakers of our society."

Lieberman will speak on "The Organizational Crisis in Education" at 9 o'clock this evening at Rebstock Hall on the Washington University campus.

TAX ON HOTEL ROOM RENT IS RULED INVALID

An ordinance establishing a tax of 2 per cent of the daily rental of hotel rooms occupied by transient guests was declared invalid yesterday by Circuit Judge David J. Murphy.

The tax, enacted July 1, 1957, was expected to produce a yearly revenue of about $120,000, but only $27,950 had been collected by St. Louis since its inception.

Judge Murphy held the measure invalid because it attempted to amend an ordinance which was entirely repealed earlier in 1957, he said.

The plaintiff in yesterday's suit was the 2840 Olive Corporation, which operates the Siesta Hotel at 2840 Olive street.

Collections Listed.

Judge Murphy agreed with the plaintiff that attempts by the city to collect the tax were a deprivation of property without due process of law.

Comptroller John J. Poelker told a reporter that $10,700 was collected in 1957-58; $10,250 in 1959-60, and $7000 thus far this year.

"It is my understanding that most hotels have refrained from paying this tax pending the outcome of this suit," he said. "But I also understand that most of the hotels have been earmarking and holding the revenue, to be on the safe side."

Was Emergency Measure.

The tax was one of several emergency revenue measures proposed by a Citizens' Tax Committee. As enacted by the Board of Aldermen, it was to amend Section 15, Chapter 32 of the revised code, which was enacted Feb. 28, 1949.

However, Judge Murphy ruled, the amending measure was not in effect at the time of enactment (July 1, 1957) because another ordinance had been enacted April 4, 1957, which repealed sections 1 through 81 in chapter 32.

John K. Bryan, head of the Hotel Association of St. Louis, said many of the city's hotels had been collecting the tax but "had not pressed the issue" when a guest refused to pay it.

It was understood that only smaller hotels had been paying the revenue to the city. Many hotel operators refused to pay during the period, contending that the tax was unconstitutional.

Persons who have paid the tax and who demand a refund presumably would be reimbursed by the hotel which collected it, Bryan said.

City Plan Commission to Seek 50 Pct. Higher Budget for Year

A budget request of $203,652 for the 1961-62 fiscal year was approved last night by the City Plan Commission—an increase of about 50 per cent over the actual appropriations for the current year. The commission requested $172,699 last year, but the Board of Aldermen appropriated only $135,315.

William H. Jaffke, chairman of the budget committee, said that of the nation's 17 largest cities, St. Louis continues to rank last in total planning staff and per capita expenditures, and next to last in the number of professional employes and expenditures for planning.

The budget seeks funds to hire six additional staff members to bring the total to 28. The aldermen denied a similar request last year.

Other new expenses proposed in the budget are $4900 for rehabilitation of an area in the Civil Courts Building scheduled to be taken over by the commission, and an additional $8000 for printing expenses. The last is required by the large amount of paper work which goes with the increased activity of the office, Jaffke said.

William H. Harrison, St. Louis real estate broker and a vice president of First National Bank in St. Louis, was elected chairman of the commission at the monthly meeting.

Harrison, who has been a member of the commission for six years and vice chairman for two, succeeds Arthur F. Schwarz, St. Louis architect, who resigned earlier this week.

The new chairman, who is a Major General in the United States Army Reserve and commander of the 102nd Infantry Division, has been in the real estate business here for more than 25 years. He is a member of the advisory board of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial and has served as chairman of the Plan Commission committee on downtown development.

WILLIAM H. HARRISON

On accepting the office, Harrison said he hopes to bring the Commission's staff and Commission members closer together. He said he plans to call occasional executive sessions of the Commission so new ideas can be discussed without the formality of following an agenda.

Donald Gunn, former president of the Board of Aldermen, was elected vice chairman. Miss Nell Marie Geders was re-elected secretary.

A public hearing on a revised major street plan for St. Louis will be held at 8 p.m., Jan. 30, in Room 208 of City Hall, Harrison announced.

TAVERN OWNER REPORTS THEFT OF $700 IN PURSE

Mrs. Ralph Riviere, co-owner of Lily's Tavern, 7415 South Lindbergh boulevard, St. Louis county, yesterday reported the theft of a purse containing $700 in currency, and jewelry, police said.

Mrs. Riviere told police her purse was taken from behind the bar while she was cooking lunch for two customers who fled shortly before she discovered the theft. The two men whom she said she had not seen before in the tavern, told her they were painters working in a nearby subdivision.

The jewelry taken included two bracelets, a brooch and a ring. Jewelry owned by her husband and also taken included two diamond rings and a fraternal gold ring, she said. Mrs. Riviere said she had withdrawn the money from a bank to cash payroll checks of customers.

THIRD OF NEW ORLEANS SCHOOL CHECKS DELAYED

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 20 (AP) —About a third of New Orleans school employes faced a payless pay day today after a legislative leader said he did not have authority to sign some of the checks drafted by the Orleans parish (county) school board.

Board President Louis C. Riecke had planned to pay January salaries by augmenting $1,500,000 in school board funds with $749,000 from the Legislature's school account. But Representative Bryan Lehmann Jr., St. Charles parish, said yesterday he had no authority to sign the checks.

The Legislature, now in recess until Feb. 13, had authorized Lehmann to sign the December checks for New Orleans school employes after three other state officials had been cited for contempt of court for refusing to pay teachers at the city's two integrated schools.

2 GROUPS OF YOUTHS ADMIT 127 THEFTS

There youths and three juveniles have admitted to police that they committed 127 burglaries in recent months, police reported today. Total loot was valued at about $1400.

The youths, arrested in the Page Police District, were identified as Lucius Moore, 17 years old, 1400 block of Burd avenue; Charles Foster, 18, of the 5400 block of Cabanne avenue, and Nelson Johnson, 18, of the 1300 block of Belt avenue.

Patrolman Carl Crader recognized the three as those being sought for questioning in burglaries of business establishments. He arrested them in front of Moore's home, in which some of the stolen articles were found.

The loot included drapery material, radios, tools and guns, which they admitted stealing from businesses and automobiles, police said. Most of the stolen articles had been sold by the youths.

Moore was at liberty on bond in a burglary case, police records showed, and Johnson served a 90-day sentence in 1959 for stealing. Foster has been arrested on several occasions, but was never convicted.

The juveniles, one 13 years old and the others 14, were arrested in the Carondelet District where they were beating down walls with a sledge hammer in a house in the 4200 block of Virginia avenue. The owner of the house heard the noise and called police.

Police said they have admitted 63 crimes in South St. Louis in the last year. The crimes include stealing from automobiles, business and residential burglaries, theft of an automobile and destruction of property.

They admitted throwing lumps of coal at four new automobiles, causing about $1000 damage, police said. The damage to the house on Virginia was estimated at $2500. They gave no reason for their actions.

A former convict, George Jones, 24, 2000 block of South Eleventh street, has admitted to Hampton Avenue police that he committed, or attempted to commit, 22 burglaries since he was released from prison last November.

Jones was one of two men arrested last Tuesday on the roof of a drug store at 6431 Hampton avenue. The other was Loyal Glenn, 22, 3500 block of South Spring avenue. They admitted they were trying to get into the drug store through an air duct.

Jones, who said Glenn did not commit any of the 22 burglaries, said he obtained about $1500 in loot. In some instances Jones said he was routed from business houses when tear gas bombs attached to safes were discharged.

Kennedy Takes Truman Home From Party for a Short Chat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) —A President-to-be picked up a President-that-was at a smiling, handshaking, milling, surging crowd of Democrats last night.

Then former President Harry S. Truman, who had been chatting with friends in a booth at the reception, joined Kennedy at an outside covered entranceway and got in the car with him to drive off in the snow.

Their car skidded at times and at one point was forced to take a different route to avoid other cars stalled on a hill, but they reached Kennedy's Georgetown home without incident.

"Mr. President," was the greeting Truman gave to Kennedy as they met in the entranceway.

"How are you?" Kennedy replied with a smile and an outstretched hand.

Truman stayed about a half hour at the Kennedy home. When he left, Kennedy accompanied the former President as far as the Secret Service car which took Truman away.

Kennedy told reporters Truman gave him a lot of thoughts about the presidency. He said it was the first time he had seen Truman since the election, except for a brief meeting at a party last night.

COMPLAINT ISSUED AGAINST LIVESTOCK FIRM PARTNERS

The Department of Agriculture yesterday issued a complaint in Washington that Clyde L. Landrum and Robert E. Miller, partners in the St. Louis Livestock Co., are insolvent and have failed to pay for livestock they purchased. Landrum and Miller have 20 days to answer the complaint.

Landrum said the partnership was dissolved as of last Dec. 31. He said the company had incurred a deficit of about $54,000 in 1960. Part of the physical assets will be sold to pay the bills, he said.

The firm was registered as a dealer to buy and sell livestock for its own account and as a market agency to buy livestock for commission. It did business at National Stockyards.

GENERAL CABLE CORP. NAMED IN TRUST SUIT

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP)— An anti-trust suit charging the General Cable Corp., with violation of the Clayton act was filed in United States District Court yesterday by the Government.

The suit charges the firm violated the act through acquisition of nine corporations engaged in various phases of the wire and cable industry or related activities.

The Justice Department filed at the same time a complaint under the same act against American Smelting and Refining Co., General Cable Corp. and Revere Copper and Brass, Inc. This suit challenges the acquisition, beginning in 1927, of the stock of General Cable and Revere by the smelting company.

General Cable Corp. was described by the Government as the largest producer of copper and aluminum wire and cable in the nation.

In the first suit the Government charged the acquisitions could substantially lessen competition.

The acquisitions challenged were General Insulated Wire Works of Providence, R. I.; the New England Cable Co., a New Hampshire corporation; Clifton Conduit Co., Inc., of Tennessee; the Clifton Conduit Co., of Maryland; Alphaduct Wire and Cable Co., of New Jersey; Metal Textile Corp. of Delaware; Hathaway Patterson Corp. of Palatka, Fla.; Cornish Wire, Inc., of New York, and Indiana Steel and Wire, Inc.

The Government asks that General Cable be ordered to divest itself of the stocks and assets of these corporations and be enjoined from acquiring stocks or assets of any other corporation in the field.

The second suit alleges the stock acquisitions resulted in actual and potential foreclosure of General Cable Corp. and Revere as competitive purchasers of refined copper.

4 Electrical Firms Indicted On Price Fixing Charge.

DAYTON, O., Jan. 20 (AP) — A federal grand jury indicted four companies and two individuals yesterday on charges of conspiring to fix prices in the sale of electrical resistors to commercial companies and the armed forces.

The companies listed in the indictment were Allen-Bradley Co. of Milwaukee; Stackpole Carbon Co. and Speer Carbon Co., both of St. Marys, Pa., and the International Resistance Co. of Philadelphia.

Also indicted were George W. Vater, sales manager of the electronic components division of Allen-Bradley, and Edward W. Butler, vice president in charge of marketing for the Speer company.

The government said the resistor production was a $43,000,000 business in 1959, and the indictments said the companies are the only manufacturers of the resistors in the country. The resistors are used in construction and operation of radio, television and other communications equipment.

ONE EX-PRESIDENT STAYED IN WHITE HOUSE 3 WEEKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (UPI) —The Eisenhowers moved out of the White House today before the Kennedys moved in.

In 1825, a former President continued to live in the White House, with his successor, for three weeks after inauguration day. The lingering ex-President was James Monroe, who asked incoming President John Quincy Adams if he could stay until doctors pronounced his ailing wife well enough to travel.

Inaugural Eve

A sight to stir little joy in the hearts of inauguration officials, thick layer of newly fallen snow gleams under the lights of the Capitol following storm at Washington yesterday. Falling temperatures and hours of snowstorm brought chaos and confusion to traffic in the area and vast complications to planners working for today's presidential inaugural ceremonies.

Top Hat Time

The President-elect and the retiring President—John F. Kennedy and Dwight D. Eisenhower—present a cheerfully united front on leaving the White House today for the inaugural ceremony. Top hat being worn by Eisenhower was a departure for him. He had spurned the topper for a homburg at his own two inaugurations.

Entering the White House

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower leads the way up the north portico steps of the White House today as President and Mrs. Kennedy arrived for coffee prior to the inauguration ceremonies. At far right in top hat is House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

Ready for the Worst

Early arrivals well garbed for the occasion take up positions at a vantage point along the parade route today. Hundreds of pieces of snow removal equipment were manned during the night in the struggle to remove the eight inches of snow that piled up on streets in yesterday's storm. By morning streets were passable but snow flurries and a bitter wind promised little comfort for spectators at today's outdoor festivities.

Airliner Hulk After 102 Escaped

Disaster workers are silhouetted by lights trained on Mexican Airlines jet craft that crashed in a snowstorm last night while taking off from Idlewild airport at New York. Of the 106 persons aboard, 102 managed to scramble to safety before flames burst from the wreckage. The $5,000,000 plane, bound for Mexico City, was scarcely airborne when it plunged to earth, coming to rest about three miles from the airport terminal.—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Social Success As a Bird Feeder

FOOD SURPLUS may be a problem some places but not at our house. What with a small boy with a large circle of friends, two dogs, a cat and our winter hobby, bird feeding, there are never enough scraps to provide a disposal with a daily grind.

CLARISSA START

Birds are especially helpful to the housewife in this respect, using up more leftovers than a casserole. Before we discard any foodstuffs we consider its possible avian appeal.

For instance, we had a rather unsatisfactory ham with more fat than you could use to season a batch of beans and a mess of greens. We put this white upholstered skin at our bird feeding spot and within minutes it looked like a basement bargain sale. By the end of the day that ham rind might as well have been scraped clean with a knife.

Our items at our bird smorgasbord include cheese balls and dips (our birds are partial to roquefort), scrapings from the peanut butter jar, hard rolls and bread (dipped in the breakfast bacon drippings) and the holiday cookies that looked better than they tasted. Not to mention such culinary mistakes as the overbrowned pie shell. Dishes of water are a daily must.

We've been feeding the birds for years and our only complaint was the preponderance of starlings, a problem which the city hasn't solved either. It isn't that we mind feeding the starlings; it's just that we wanted a more varied clientele.

We knew that we should have a regular bird feeder, one suspended from a tree and preferably too light for the starlings but just right for the smaller birds. But bird feeders always seemed so expensive, in a class with bone china.

A couple of weeks ago we were visiting our neighorhood plant nursery; even on cold days we hang around there, wistfully thinking of warmer, happier gardening times. They had bird feeders, seed and treats and recklessly we indulged. What if it did cost $5 a place setting?

The result has been one of the happiest investments we've ever made. We hung the feeder in a tree near the kitchen window, filled it with sunflower seeds—which we were told would attract cardinals—and fitted two seed and suet cakes at the side.

With the feeder came a "guest book" to list callers. The first day we had those same 30 starlings but three bluejays and a sparrow joined the group. The bluejays were especially fond of the sunflower seed. They didn't monopolize it, however, and soon smaller birds joined in. Quite a few brownish ones and some slate gray. (Are they all sparrows or are some juncos?)

Our greatest achievement came several days after the feeder had been established. A pair of cardinals approached cautiously, first to the hedge, then the althea bush, then to the tree. The lady cardinal, duller of the two in plumage, was the bolder. She tried a high branch of the tree, waited patiently for two bluejays to finish a brawl for squatters' rights. Then she moved to a lower limb, watched the empty feeder a moment and took the final flight, right to the sunflower seed.

At last we are a social success, attracting the right birds. Who cares that our perennial border will have a preponderance of sunflowers next summer.

Ann Landers

'Lazy' Mother of Five

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I have been married 15 years. We have five children, the oldest is 14, the youngest 6. They are in school all day and are no trouble to her.

I think my wife should be able to get out of bed a little earlier, straighten the house, get the kids off to school and then go to work downtown. We could sure use the extra money. We have many friends who manage this way and they have new cars, boats and luxuries that we'll never be able to afford on my salary.

ANN LANDERS

My wife has a washing machine and a vacuum cleaner, still she claims she's bushed from the housework and laundry. I say the cost of living is so high these days it takes two pay checks if people are going to enjoy any extras. Please tell my wife to stop making excuses and to go get herself some work. DISGUSTED.

Dear Disgusted: A woman who has five young children doesn't need to make excuses—she's got work, and plenty of it—at home.

So your wife has a washing machine and a vacuum sweeper—big deal. How would YOU like to take on another full-time job? Well, that's exactly what you're asking her to do. Quit trying to get the old mare to pull a double load and give her a hand with her present duties. She can probably use it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We live in a medium-sized city. A man here who gets into all sorts of trouble with the law has the same name as my husband. It is a terrible embarrassment to us whenever his name appears in the paper, which is often. He has been arrested for drunken driving, fighting in taverns and petty larceny.

The paper prints his name and address but we feel they should also say "Not the John Jones who is employed at the X Company." The paper refuses to do this. Can we insist on grounds that this other man is ruining our reputation? INNOCENT VICTIMS.

Dear Victims: The newspaper should make the proper distinction by printing the man's address. A newspaper can't identify individuals by stating who he is not.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is it Love or Sex?", inclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped evelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the Post-Dispatch inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Try and Stop Me

A COLUMNIST solemnly swears that he met a semi-literate movie tycoon who said he had just thrown away an old Bible that had been lying around his ancestral seat in Germany for generations.

"Who printed it, do you know?" asked the columnist quietly.

"Somebody named Guten-something," recalled the producer with an effort.

"Not Gutenberg!" gasped the columnist. "You idiot, you have thrown away one of the first books ever printed. A copy sold at auction recently for over $300,000."

The producer was unmoved. "My copy wouldn't have brought a dime," he announced firmly. "Some fellow named Martin Luther had scribbled all over it."

Layman Heads National Church Council

J. Irwin Miller, Wealthy Diesel Manufacturer, Is Business Man, Churchman and Scholar

By John T. Stewart
Church Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE LARGEST manufacturer of diesel engines in the United States, who is an Oxford scholar of the classics and reads his New Testament daily in Greek, a banker, director of many corporations—this remarkable man is the new president of the National Council of Churches. He finds relaxation by playing his Stradivarius violin.

J. Irwin Miller of Columbus, Ind., succeeded a St. Louisan, the Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg of Delmar Baptist Church, as president of the National Council, which represents 33 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations with a combined membership of 40,000,000 persons. Miller is the first layman to head the national church body.

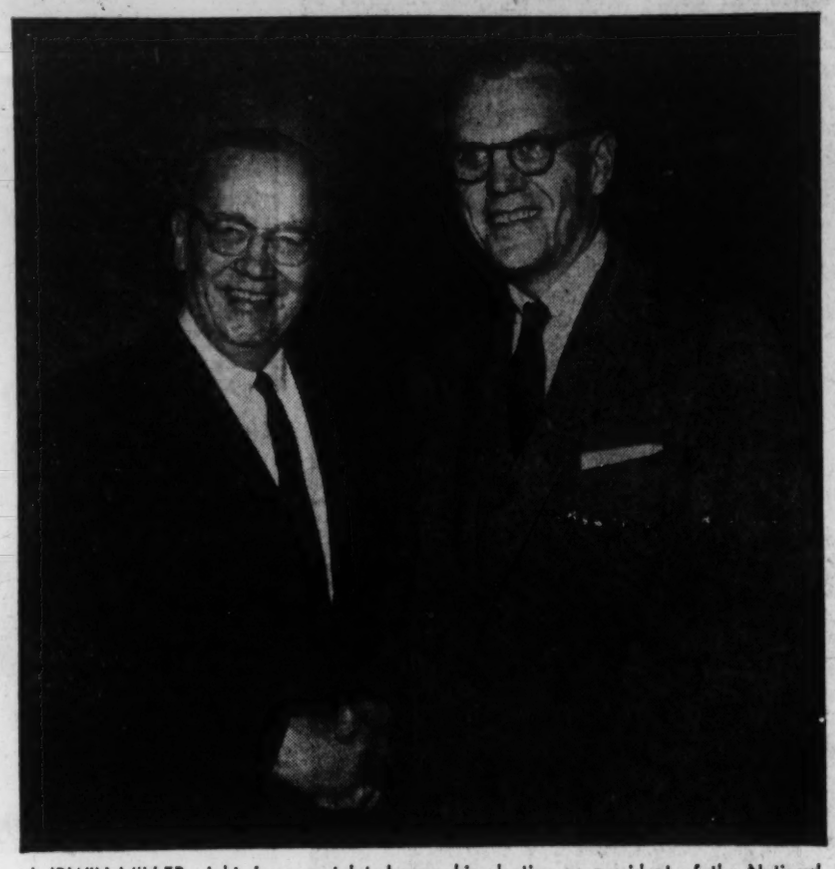
For the next three years—a council president's term—Miller will commute between his home office on the second floor of a Columbus bank which his great-grandfather founded in 1871, and the new 19-story, $20,000,000 Interchurch Center on Riverside drive, New York City. The latter is headquarters of the National Council, which carries on 71 different programs on behalf of its member churches, and has a full-time staff of 800 men and women. There are also small branch offices in Washington, D. C., and Atlanta, Ga.

The plane jaunts—an average of 100,000 miles a year is a good guess — board meetings, staff problems, budgets, meetings and speeches all over the land—all this busy schedule will be "old hat" to Irwin Miller.

Ever since the end of World War II, this 51-year-old man has had more irons in the fire than the village blacksmith. He has managed to combine two major careers, as the following partial list of functions and activities will show.

In business: Board chairman of the Cummins Engine Co. and of the Irwin Bank and Trust Co., both of Columbus, also of the Union Starch and Refining Co., of Granite City, Ill.; board member of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., Indiana National Bank of Indianapolis and of a 105-store chain of supermarkets in California. He is also a member of the Commission on Money and Credit of the Committee for Economic Development, a quasi-governmental advisory body.

In religion: Trustee of his home town North Christian Church, which he also serves as substitute Sunday school teacher (before his Sunday school class, when Miller is pushed for a more precise explanation of a New Testament passage, he can fall back on his classical training and read it in the Greek). He has been vice chairman of the National Council's Division of Christian Life and Work, a member of the council's general board and vice chairman of United Church Men. A leading layman of the Disciples of Christ (Christian Churches), one of his major interests is the Christian Theological Seminary, Indianapolis, of which he is chairman of the board of trustees. He has long been the "good angel" of The Christian Century, interdenominational weekly of Chicago.



J. IRWIN MILLER, right, is congratulated upon his election as president of the National Council of Churches by the man whom he succeeded, the REV. DR. EDWIN T. DAHLBERG of St. Louis.

Miller has said that he finds no difficulty in reconciling his position as an industrialist with his work for the National Council of Churches and other religious causes.

"I believe there is no area in life which should not be governed by Christian principles," Miller said in an interview after his election at the National Council's triennial assembly in San Francisco, "Christianity should speak to labor leaders, business leaders, politicians, doctors, lawyers and bankers."

His personal fortune is estimated at $50,000,000, and he gives away 30 per cent of his income. "I try to use money to change things for the better," he explains.

A Republican, Miller was one of the few business men who opposed Indiana's "right-to-work" law, which outlawed the union shop. His family-owned engine company, which has more than 400 employes, had been a union shop.

"I wouldn't know how to run a big company without a strong union," Miller said. "The unions are management's mirror. They tell you things your own people won't admit."

Miller was born in Columbus, in south central Indiana, population 22,000. He was graduated from Yale University, where he won his Phi Beta Kappa key in Latin and Greek. He took his master's degree at Oxford University, England. During World War II, he was a lieutenant in the Navy aboard the aircraft carrier USS Langley.

The Millers have five children: Margaret, 16; Catherine, 14; Elizabeth, 12; Hugh, 9, and William, 4. All of the family, but especially the girls, are sailing enthusiasts. They keep a 17-foot sloop on Lake Rosseau, north of Toronto, Canada, where the family has a summer home. Miller is also a golfer, who shoots in the low 80s.

The 6-foot-2 spare Hoosier, with horn-rimmed spectacles and the scholar's stoop, looks and talks more like an Oxford don than an engine manufacturer. In his address to the December General Assembly of the National Council which unanimously elected him president, Miller quoted Cicero against inflexibility of mind and spirit, complacency and love for the status quo: "Idem manebat neque idem decebat" (he remained the same, and the same was no longer becoming).

In the same address, Miller described American life as "a society whose only fixed feature appears to be swift and continuing change . . . .

"This is an age in which all too many Americans seem to want to go back to something," he went on. "Businessmen want to go back to little government. Labor leaders, frightened by low-cost foreign imports, want to go back to protective tariffs. Intellectuals want to go back to life before the Industrial Revolution, after first destroying all radios and television sets.

"Those ages of men which we hold in highest admiration have not shrunk from their own discoveries and creations, but have embraced them, put them to use, have mastered them, and not always been mastered by them. . . .

"The world looks first to our example before it listens and weighs our words. Surely, then, we must now show that, as committed Christians, we are never comfortable, never content with the mediocre and second-rate, whether of mind or spirit, but are determined, as far as we are able, to serve in everything as the best example of all that the Lord desires of His people."

Irwin Miller's cultural and spiritual roots are deep in tradition, in classical studies, in theology and church history, and in his own reflections. His minister, the Rev. Dr. James L. Stoner of Columbus, has described the new National Council president as "the most biblically literate layman I have ever known."

The first layman to head the Council is prepared to hold his own with the learned clergy. He is the grandson of two Disciples of Christ ministers. They would no doubt be amazed to see how much he has made of both worlds—combining Columbus with New York, diesels with Oxford, industry with churchmanship.

Brain Game

Here is a quiz on the home addresses of famous men. Six answers correct is excellent.

1. What writer lived in Abbotsford Castle?
2. Who made Claremore, Okla., famous?
3. Who was called the "Wizard of Kinderbook?"
4. Can you name the fourteenth president, who was born in Hillsboro, N.H.?
5. In what city was Mohammed born?
6. What noted humorist came from Paducah, Ky.?
7. In what city is the residence of James Whitcomb Riley?
8. What famous American was born in Nevis, in the West Indies?

1. Sir Walter Scott.
2. Will Rogers.
3. Martin Van Buren.
4. Franklin Pierce.
5. Mecca.
6. Irvin S. Cobb.
7. Indianapolis, Ind.
8. Alexander Hamilton.

Marilyn Picks Brawn Over Brain

By Sheilah Graham

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 20—Marilyn Monroe obviously prefers the nonintellectuality of second mate Joe Di Maggio to the egg-headedness of No. 3, Arthur Miller. When "Let's Make Love" co-star Yves Montand pointedly bypassed New York and Marilyn, going over the Pole to Hollywood and Japan for his new movie, Miss Monroe needed a new publicity peg. Di Maggio is always so obliging.

Agatha Christie's long-running mystery, "The Mousetrap," is starting its ninth year in London, with no closing date in sight.

With the younger fashion leaders, headed by the not-so-young Earl of Warwick, making merry at Gstaad in Switzerland, Maria Callas has been dancing until dawn at the Palace Hotel in St. Moritz nightly with her faithful billionaire Aristotle Onassis.

Farley Granger is joining Helen Hayes and June Havoc on the State Department-sponsored tour of Europe and South America. . . . Anne Jeffreys and Bob Sterling are laughing at the rumors — they were apart because he was working in "Return to Peyton Place" at 20th Century-Fox here and she was in San Francisco with "Destry Rides Again."

Eddie Albert flies to Honolulu for weekends the way you and I go to the country for a day. But Eddie will have to stay put in a week or so when his new movie, "The Young Doctors," starts on the East Coast.

Tony Perkins had a scare when a tiny piece of coal or whatever it is that flies around New York streets lodged in his eye and was driven in deep by his contact lenses. It took some delicate surgery to dislodge it.

Fresh enamel won't stick to old enamel very well unless you first give the old enamel a light sanding to cut the gloss. If you don't do this, the new enamel will chip away easily.

Friendly Counseling Aids Elders

By Robert Peterson

THERE'S AN ENORMOUS need among older people for an understanding ear. Thousands of people in this group don't need—and can't afford—a psychiatrist at $20 an hour or more. They just need occasional access to a responsible, mature person who will listen attentively and give them a measure of understanding response and informal advice.

I got to thinking about this recently when I met author Claudia de Lys, a woman in her late sixties who was widowed 12 years ago and has quietly developed a new career as a counselor.

"The world is full of distressed people—many of whom have little money but who desperately need someone to talk to," said this slender French-born woman who has written 10 books and holds a doctorate in sociology.

"I'm a writer, but in the last five years I've decided I can be more useful to mankind as a counselor. It began several years ago when a physician friend who credits me with compassion and common sense asked if I'd talk with certain patients of his who weren't ill but had a great psychological need to talk to someone. Since then word has spread that my door is open and hundreds of perplexed people have come into my life. If they can afford it they give me a small fee for my time. But if they can't I talk with them anyway.

"I'm not a physician and I stay away from problems with physical or psychiatric overtones. Instead, I help people with such routine, day-to-day problems as what to do about ungrateful children, how to face life with a crippled leg, how to supplement one's pension, or how to find a reason for living.

"As people grow older they have an increasing need to talk—yet their circle of friends and acquaintances includes fewer people who are willing to listen. Physicians, ministers, priests, rabbis, and social workers simply don't have the time to talk with them at length.

"That's where resposible, kindly laymen can step in. If they like people and have the time they can let it be known that they're available to talk with people who have problems. Talking a problem over—known as verbal catharsis—gives the individual great relief from tension. Putting his problems into words often helps him find a personal solution.

"There are rewards for the counselor, too. I feel I've become a better human being as a result of getting to know the problems others face."

If you would like a free booklet "Basic Health Rules for Older People" write to Robert Peterson in care of the Post-Dispatch inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The New Films

Tawdry Glamour

THE MOVIES aren't actually preoccupied with themes of prostitution, promiscuity, adultery and vicious deviation. It just seems that way. Only a small percentage of films go in for this sensationalism—really less than the Broadway stage—

yet there are enough to cause a mounting cry from moralists and to threaten restrictions that can hamper sincere adult pictures. The latest in this category is "GO NAKED IN THE WORLD," at LOEW'S STATE THEATER, a concoction of glittering pseudo-realistic trash.

In cold analysis, the theme isn't new. A weakling son, dominated by his robust, crude and selfish father, a millionaire contractor who has fought his way up, finishes a stretch in the Army Engineers, meets a flashy, beautiful woman, has an affair with her and then discovers she is a high-priced call girl. He wants to marry her, over the bitter opposition of his father, but her social and moral status make it impossible and she ends it by diving into the sea from a high cliff apartment in Acapulco.

Basically, this is "Camille," without the soft, romantic dressing. But where that went all out in hearts and violins, this attempts to be brutally realistic in one facet and brilliantly attractive in another. Who could be more glamorous than Gina Lollobrigida as the call girl, even though Hollywood has transformed her from the vivacious, earthy and humorous wench of "Bread, Love and Dreams," into a scrawny, brittle, tough and rather freakish doll, with red hair in place of her raven locks? She may pay for her sins, but not financially. She is a habitue of plush night clubs, has a swank apartment, is the darling of millionaires and even chooses a plush spot to end it all. She wears dazzling gowns and really only suffers because many of her old clients—including her lover's father—recognize her and make life miserable for her by assuming she hasn't suddenly become a paragon of virtue.

This story could be literally factual, I suppose, but it doesn't ring the bell of sympathy for any of the characters. And Anthony Franciosa as the hero is just about as weak and futile as he is supposed to be. But while the script goes in for rather blunt references, it is hard to believe, on the side of realism, that he could be so naive as not to have tumbled to the fact of what his sweetheart was after weeks of association with her. Ernest Borgnine gives a strong performance as the domineering father. But it just isn't convincing that any father who loved his son so effusively and tried to spoil him, would cruelly humiliate him and endanger his life by making him crawl out on the unprotected girder of a skyscraper framework to get some money, before a grinning bunch of workers.

In spite of its emotional gyrations, there is nothing in this to touch the spectator. There is no real compassion, nor even the basic anger and bitterness of an "Anna Christie." It is just sordidness with a coat of gilt.

Ingenious Crime

THE FAMOUS ROBBERY of the Brink's armored money truck headquarters in Boston, which was solved only a few days before the statute of limitations expired, is again the subject of a crime film, "BLUEPRINT FOR ROBBERY," at the ST. LOUIS.

Most of the cast, except Pat O'Malley as a lovable old Irish burglar, is obscure, but the picture has been pretty well done, both as to keenness and validity of characterization and to almost documentary detail of the robbery and the subsequent failures in human nature which spoiled a highly ingenious and perfect-on-paper plan. Director Jerry Hopper has turned out a fairly absorbing story in a minor key. No great drama, or melodrama is developed, but the accounting of the planning of the $2,800,000 robbery, and the execution, which went off like clockwork with the robbers disguised in Halloween masks and Navy pea-jackets, is suspenseful.

It is too bad that it doesn't make a stronger moral point. In making his robber gang into human beings instead of stereotypes (one of the gang even asks divine blessing on the undertaking in a wry note), directors and scripters have thrown the scales toward them so that the audience can't be blamed if it feels on the side of the more sympathetic of the criminals.

Try Walking More

THERE IS NO DOUBT that, as a society, we have become less and less active physically. This has happened to us so gradually that we have not realized what a great change has taken place.

Many factors have played a part in this. Here are a few. There has been a trend to smaller, more convenient homes. There are myriad labor-saving devices at home and at the office; the work week is shorter. Ours is a motorized age and we jump into the car for any errand. Many people sit for hours before the television set when they would have been more active otherwise. The tendency today is to spend the weekend watching sports on TV rather than indulging in outdoor sports or exercise.

Unfortunately, along with this lessened activity, we are more tempted than ever to buy and eat more food. Never has it been so attractively packaged, so easy to prepare or so constantly advertised. In our society hospitality means food. We do not think of entertaining without offering some sort of refreshment. Few middle-aged folks have scaled their caloric intake to their energy requirements.

It would help some if we would exercise more. Even if you are not going to take time for sports, the walk always is available. Some physicians feel that three 15-minute periods of brisk walking daily are better than one long walk. Even if you walk up and down the porch or go round and round the block, it is most advantageous.

The brisk walk is so much more valuable than the stroll because it whips up circulation. Walk this way unless there is some reason not to do so. A brisk walk which is maintained is rather strenuous exercise. Check with your doctor about this first.

If you would like to join thousands of other women on my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon, which will bring you a loss of from 15 to 20 pounds and will help you improve any defects in beauty you may have, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Ask the Teacher

DEAR MRS. SCHRAUB: My boy doesn't read well at all for a second grader, and I blame it all on those "new-fangled" methods of teaching.

I think that sounding out the words, as we did when I was a kid, is still the best way.

What's the matter—isn't it stylish any more?

ANSWER: Methods — or "styles," as you call them—have changed, but not that much. What you describe is called the "phonic" method of teaching reading, and is still going strong. It is not the only one being used, though.

A good teacher uses several methods. One is to recognize words by sight. A second method is to figure out the sound of the word, which is the phonic method. Another could be to break words into parts and get sound and meaning from those parts. Still another system is getting clues from pictures or other nearby words.

Just as there are many roads leading to any one place, so there are various methods by which a child can learn to read. There is no "best" way—by presenting several methods, each child will naturally choose the one easiest for him.

I gather from your letter that your son is weak in sounding out his words. If so, bring it to his teacher's attention. A little extra help in this area may do

MICHAEL FLANDERS

Artist's conception of Flanders and Swann and their show, "At the Drop of a Hat."

By Dickson Terry
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

Michael Flanders Tells How He and Donald Swann, a Pair of Literate Englishmen, Built Hit Show

MICHAEL FLANDERS and Donald Swann are a pair of literate, highly polished Englishmen who are now appearing in a show of their own devising at the American Theater called "At the Drop of a Hat." They call it "an after dinner farrago."

Farrago has been variously defined as a mish-mash and a medley. Flanders and Swann, however, remain somewhat indefinable. Flanders has been described as "urbane and bearded like an Elizabethan buccaneer" and Swann has been described as a "diffident mouse of a man who attacks the piano with the concentrated precision of a churchwarden trying out a new harmonium." Their show has been likened to Falstaff singing duets with Hamlet.

The show is something of an anomaly in this day and age, because it consists of nothing but the two men singing some nonsense and satire which they wrote themselves, interspersed with comments by Flanders which might be called mordant, not to mention trenchant. They have the added quality of being very funny. "America," Flanders says, "is wonderful. They have so many excellent things here we don't have in England; such as English muffins. And pens that only write on the high priced spread."

Fortunately, Flanders and Swann don't try to define themselves. Some things are best left unanalyzed and this is one of them. They had a highly successful run in New York, and now they are trailing clouds of glory across the country. Audiences love them and critics drool.

"We're just a pair of middle-rank Englishmen," Flanders told us in a conversation the other day, "and we think of ourselves that way. By middle-rank I mean we're liberal to the left rather than extreme conservative or extreme left-wing.

"Most of our audiences, at least in England, are the same. We like doing what we do. The audiences like it; that pleases us, and it works out splendidly for everybody."

The field of humor, Flanders feels, is headed in various directions. "The stand-up comedian who delivers gags written by his gag-writers is on the way out. The comment on life from a personal point of view is the most important thing today. Comedians are adopting a point of view, instead of just the desire to be funny. Of course, whatever stand they take is going to offend part of the audience, but that is better than nothing."

The point of view of Flanders and Swann is the desire to entertain, through the medium of nonsense, and to both entertain and provoke through the medium of satire.

Although Flanders and Swann have been together on the stage for several years, and for some eight years before that as song writers, they see very little of each other away from the footlights. "People assume we're inseparable," Flanders explained, "but we seldom meet except on the stage." That way they have maintained a splendid rapport.

Flanders was accompanied to St. Louis by his wife, to whom he was married in New York during the show's Broadway engagement last year. An American, born in Massachussetts, she was working at the United Nations and rooming with Flanders's sister. "Neither of us had anything to do with the theater," Mrs. Flanders explained. "Thank goodness," Flanders added.

As a result of an attack of polio suffered shortly after World War II, Flanders is confined to a wheelchair. It presents few difficulties, even on tour, except for hotel doors. "We have to look for fairly old hotels," he explained. "They have wide doors. The new, modern hotels have very narrow doors. In fact our advace man has to spend a great deal of his time with a tape measure, measuring hotel doors." At the Lennox, where Flanders is staying, they had to remove the door between the living room and the bedroom of his suite.

Flanders is a large man with a big head, a full black beard and mustache and eyes with something of a Caucasian cast which he inherited from his mother, who came from the Caucausus. He smokes cigarettes rather continuously. "I not only prefer my English brand," he explained, "but they have the added advantage that nobody else likes them."

He was in his shirt sleeves.

"There is a temperature control on the wall," he explained, "which says 'close' and 'open.' The big question is, which is hot, closed or open? It's as upsetting as a sign in the hotel room we had in St. Paul. It said, 'The best way to test the shower is in use. It is impractical for the hotel staff to test the shower personally.' Although I don't know why," Flanders mused. "I see no reason why the hotel manager couldn't come up and take a shower first to test the water."

The team of Flanders and Swann really started some years ago as a songwriting team. They wrote clever and amusing songs for clever and amusing revues in the West End. In London, he explained, the West End is the equivalent of Broadway, and the funny thing about it is there isn't a major theater there, anymore than there is one on Broadway.

At parties, among a limited circle of friends, Flanders and Swann sang some of their own songs. And then, of course, they did run-throughs for the cast when they wrote a new song for a new show. "Our friends kept telling us we should try a show of our own. So, just to see if our friends were being flattering, we engaged a little theater, equivalent to an off-Broadway theater in New York, and did a show. We got excellent response and pretty soon we were in the West End."

They use about 20 of their songs in the show, the most stable and enduring of which is a song about a hippopotamus who calls to his mate to follow and wallow in the glorious mud. It has a lilting melody and in England people and children sing it somewhat, we gathered, as we in this country once sang, "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?"

Flanders and Swann have eight more weeks of their tour and then they plan to head back for England. Flanders isn't particularly interested in television. "Ours is a show for two men and an audience," he explained, "and the audience is as important as the two men. You have to have it for a show of this kind."

They still haven't toured their own country, he explained, and they have offers to go to several other countries. As for immediate plans, "We want to write some new material, and we have an offer to cut some records. We've promised ourselves a year off, to write and do what we like and get our homes re-established."

Flanders is a great admirer of the humor of James Thurber. "And I like something he said not long ago," Flanders said. "He explained that 'tragedy is insight; comedy is outlook.' I think a comedian should look out at the world as he sees it."

Flanders stopped talking and looked me in the eye and said: "Adlai Stevenson is my favorite comedian in this country." He made it clear he meant it as a compliment. "Next to him," he said, "is Sam Levenson. We have a lot in common. I think we talk about adult life just as he talks about children."

"Our two nations are alike," Flanders once said, "because you always ask a visiting Englishman, 'How do you like America?' and we always ask a visiting American, 'How do you like America?'"

So, to relieve the monotony, I asked him, "How do you like England?" He made a quick recovery, smiled and said, "That's an interesting question. As a matter of fact, I don't know right now. It's going to be interesting, after these months in America, to go back and take a long, and for the first time, truly objective look. I don't know how I'll like it."

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

YOU ARE SOUTH, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1♥	Pass	1♠	Pass
3♠	Pass	?

What would you now bid with each of the following hands?

1. ♠QJ82 ♥7 ♦K954 ♣Q763
2. ♠K87642 ♥K ♦K53 ♣K74
3. ♠K753 ♥954 ♦QJ6 ♣QJ8
4. ♠AJ962 ♥J74 ♦A97 ♣KJ
5. ♠KQ95 ♥Q6 ♦872 ♣AJ54

1. Four spades. The jump raise to three spades is not forcing, though it carries with it a strong plea that we bid again. The opening bidder usually has about 18 points, part of which may be in distributional values. The opener also practically guarantees four trumps.

There is therefore every reason to accept the invitation to bid four spades. Our first response was not of the absolute minimum class and we have the extra values to justify bidding again.

2. Four notrump. A slam is a decided possibility and the number of tricks that can be made will almost surely depend upon the number of aces North has. The Blackwood convention is therefore invoked.

If North bids five spades (showing three aces), we contract for six. If North shows four aces by bidding five notrump (or five clubs), a grand slam should be bid. Of course, if North responds five hearts (showing only two aces) we quit at five spades.

3. Three notrump. It might turn out to be easier to make nine tricks at notrump than 10 tricks at spades. Partner will usually carry on to four spades in this sequence because of his distribution, but he will sometimes have a hand that is acceptable for notrump play. Three notrump is therefore bid to cover this possibility.

4. Six spades. Since we have an opening bid of our own, enhanced by a guaranteed spade fit, it is clear there will be an excellent play for a slam. Partner jump-raised to three spades in the face of the possibility that the spade response might have been made with a 6-point hand.

With 14 high-card points, a good suit, and good controls, a slam contract is clearly indicated. An alternate rebid is four diamonds with the intention of bidding at least six spades later, but there is so little chance of eventually undertaking a grand slam that it is better to use the direct method of getting to six.

5. Four clubs. Here there is a possibility of a slam, but whether it is in the cards depends largely on North's diamond holding. The four club bid is a slam try because if we were interested in only a game contract we would bid four spades directly. The eventual contract depends on what partner does over the cuebid.

News and Gossip From Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.

JACQUES CHARRIER, Brigitte Bardot's estranged husband must be making an unusual army record—even for the French. He's recently been discharged for the second time for the same reason—a nervous breakdown—and he is recuperating at his parents' home in the South of France. But Jacques isn't giving up, and neither is the French Army; he is scheduled to be called to the colors again in 1962. . . . Optical note: Nearsighted Shirley MacLaine packed 10 pairs of contact lenses in her luggage when she took off for Tokyo.

Apparently Hollywood's Walter Wanger has decided that he and wife Joan Bennett will make England their permanent home. He's quoted as explaining: "I love the people, and I love their climate. I haven't felt so good in years. I also like their intellect; they do so much more serious thinking than we do at home, and their traditions give one a feeling of stability we lack."

SOME TELEVISION experts predict it won't be long before quiz shows return to the "prime" evening spots on your dial. Example: they expect Art James's "Say When," now a daytime program to graduate to the evening ranks before long. It's been a big click . . . That Nassau investigation into the bootleg recording racket will have repercussions all the way to California.

When Peggy Lee returns to Basin Street East she'll introduce a feature that promises to thrill jazz fans. For the first time in her career, she'll do an impersonation—through a trick of lighting and staging. Peggy will take a couple of steps and perform a blues medley a la Billie Holiday. Then the lights and the music will change, and she'll be Peggy Lee again. She's bringing her own harpist, Stella Lucci, and a special lighting man.

MARY JANE McCAFFREE, Mamie Eisenhower's personal secretary, is all set for her new job as aide to J. Anthony Panuch, who's in charge of the industrial and government exhibits at the upcoming New York's World's Fair.

WOMEN

February Wedding At Country Club

By Karin Hayward

WESTWOOD COUNTRY CLUB will provide a setting for the wedding Saturday, Feb. 25, of Miss Judith Einstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Major Einstein of the Frontenac, 40 North Kingshighway, to Edward Neisser of Chicago. After the 7 o'clock ceremony, at which Rabbi Julius J. Nodel of Temple Shaare Emeth will officiate, a dinner and reception will be given at the club.

Miss Einstein, who has been living in Chicago, will return to St. Louis Sunday to complete plans for her wedding. She will have only one attendant, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Alfred Einstein. Mr. Neisser has asked his brother, Carl Neisser of Newport Beach, Calif., to serve as best man. There will be no ushers, as guests will be limited to close friends and the families.

Coming from out of town to the wedding will be the prospective bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Neisser of Highland Park, Ill.; Mrs. Carl Neisser of Newport Beach and numerous other relatives.

Miss Einstein has been honored at a series of pre-wedding parties in Chicago. Among those being planned here is a dinner dance to be given Feb. 4 at Westwood Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin M. Loeb and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lowenbaum.

Benefit for Wells College

SLIDES illustrating the first ascent of Mount Masherbrum, last but one of the Himalayas to be climbed, will be shown in the auditorium of the Church of St. Michael and St. George Friday night, Jan. 27, at 8 o'clock. The programs has been arranged by the Wells College Club of St. Louis; proceeds will augment the Wells College scholarship fund. Tickets may be had at the door.

The slides will be shown by Dr. Tom Hornbein, anesthesiologist at Washington University, who will also do the commentary. Dr. Hornbein was official physician on the trip up the mountain which was climbed under the joint sponsorship of the sports committee of the Pakistan Army and the American Alpine Club after three previous attempts had failed.

Arrangements for the entertainment were made recently at a meeting of Wells alumnae at the home of Mrs. Robert L. Brereton, (Ann Van Dyke) 9785 Litzsinger road, Ladue. Mrs. Paul Painter is club president.

Miss Margaret Drum Plans Wedding.

MISS MARGARET ANN DRUM and Elliott William Bergfeld Jr., whose engagement was announced in October, have completed plans for their wedding. The ceremony will be performed at 5 o'clock the afternoon of March 18 at Ladue Chapel with the Rev. Dr. W. Davidson McDowell officiating. After a reception at church the bridal party will be entertained at a dinner at the Drum home, 1412 Spoede road, Frontenac.

MISS MEIER . . . To Be Maid of Honor.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mrs. Clarence G. Drum and the late Dr. Drum, will be given in marriage by Frank B. Horton. She will be attended by Miss Julia Lake Meier as maid of honor and by Miss Margaret Ward Pauley, Miss Suzanne Eloise Chapman and Miss Judith Ann Uelk as bridesmaids.

Mr. Bergfeld, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott William Bergfeld of the Montclair Apartments, will have Rodney Petterson of Indianapolis as best man. Ushers will be Edward C. Schneider Jr. and Wayne and Stanley Steele.

Parties for Miss Drum will start Feb. 4 with a luncheon to be given by Mrs. Edwin Wagner at Old Warson Country Club. Miss Pauley has planned a linen shower Feb. 9 at her home, 33 Ridgetop, Richmond Heights. Feb. 12 Mr. and Mrs. Horton will give a cocktail party at their home, 12820 Horton lane, St. Louis county, and Feb. 18 Miss Meier will give a dinner, the place as yet undecided. Miss Uelk will be hostess March 5 at a shower at her home, 1408 Spoede road, and the rehearsal dinner will be given March 17 by the prospective bridegroom's parents at the University Club.

Alliance Francaise to Meet.

THE ALLIANCE FRANCAISE, Group de Saint Louis, will hold its annual open meeting at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Women's Building at Washington University. Friends of the Alliance and those interested in the French language are invited.

Mrs. Frederick Straub Anheuser, president of the organization, will introduce Mrs. Elizabeth Schreiber of the French Department at Washington University. Mrs. Schreiber will speak on "Cathedrals of France" in French.

Several French-born women now living here will wear costumes native to various French provinces and will show illustrations of the cathedrals described by Mrs. Schreiber. Those in costume will be Mrs. John Schiestl, Mrs. David L. Hoffmann, Mrs. Francis Estaque, Mrs. Ansel L. Whitsett, Mrs. Donald L. Oetter, Mrs. T. W. Doherty, Mrs. William M. Garesche, Mrs. Myron Little, Mrs. Edward Lehmuth, Mrs. Lawrence Bulus and Mrs. William J. Comar.

After the lecture, there will be a social hour. Tea will be served.

Dinner and Bridge at Woman's Club.

A DINNER AND BRIDGE PARTY will take place tomorrow at St. Louis Woman's Club. Dinner will be served at 7:30 o'clock and members and their guests will play bridge or canasta afterward. Mrs. Edward J. Hopkins is chairman of the card committee. She is being assisted by Mrs. Milton G. Kahle, vice chairman, and Mrs. Gerald W. Froemke, secretary.

Those making reservations include Mrs. Robert L. Blanke Jr., Mrs. Daniel H. Hundley, Mrs. Herbert H. Luedinghaus, Mrs. Charles B. Meyer, Mrs. Paul J. Neff, Mrs. Cleveland A. Newton, Mrs. Ralph F. Piper and Mrs. John W. Thomsen.

Serving on the card committee are Mrs. George A. Bayle Jr., Mrs. Alexander M. Cornwell, Mrs. Quintus L. Drennan, Mrs. Adrian W. Frazier, Mrs. Robert E. Grote, Mrs. Oscar D. Guth, Mrs. George C. Hannaway, Mrs. Meyer, Mrs. Walter B. Muckerman, Mrs. Neff, Mrs. E. E. Pershall, Mrs. Piper, Mrs. Clifford A. Schlueter, Mrs. Edwin R. Thomas, Mrs. W. J. Westphalen and Mrs. Lyndon C. Whitaker.

MISS BONNIE BOWDERN, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Hardy Bowdern, 2 Berkshire, Richmond Heights, is in Washington to attend the inauguration today of John F. Kennedy as President of the United States and the inaugural ball tonight.

Miss Bowdern went east by way of Cincinnati where she was met by Miss Patricia Richards, her former roommate at Barat College, Lake Forest, Ill. In Washington they are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Spitze, former St. Louisans.

Workers in Grand Opera Ticket Drive

MRS. EDGAR L. ORCHARD, left, with MRS. VICKI PACKMAN KESSLER, MRS. JOHN S. LIONBERGER JR. and MRS. CLIFFORD P. McKINNEY JR., who are active in the ticket subscription campaign for the Civic Opera Association. They were photographed at one of the recent teas for captains and workers. Mrs. Orchard is campaign chairman; her brother-in-law, Robert H. Orchard, is president of the association. Civic Opera will present "Tosca," "Fedora," "Faust" and "Il Trovatore" in April.

Spring Rushing Scheduled by Panhellenic

ANNOUNCEMENT HAS BEEN MADE by the Washington University Panhellenic Association that spring rushing by the sororities on the campus will begin Feb. 6 and continue through Feb. 9. No applications from students wishing to participate in rushing will be accepted after Jan. 31.

Student Panhellenic co-operates with the St. Louis Panhellenic Association in the conduct of rush week. Mrs. John A. Sinning of Kappa Kappa Gamma and Mrs. Roy E. O'Neal of Alpha Phi, who are members of the college advisory committee, represent city Panhellenic at joint meetings of the two groups.

Tickets have been distributed to all member sororities of St. Louis Panhellenic for the association's annual scholarship benefit bridge party. It is scheduled for Saturday, April 8, in the Washington University Women's Building. Because of the increases in tuition in schools where Panhellenic gives scholarships, the association will conduct a food sale in connection with the bridge benefit to increase receipts. Mrs. James A. Long of Zeta Tau Alpha, Panhellenic president, serves on the committee with Mrs. Harold Ory of Sigma Sigma Sigma, bridge chairman, and Mrs. L. Neil Buckles of Alpha Chi Omega, scholarship chairman.

Program, Tea To Be Given By Art Club

MRS. GLADYS TURNER will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Twentieth Century Art Club Monday at 1:30 p.m. at the College Club, 5428 Delmar boulevard. The president, Mrs. A. George Dasho, will preside at a business session preceding the program.

Mrs. Turner, well-known lecturer on flower arrangements, has recently returned from abroad, where she visited the flower markets and studied European flower arranging. For the last 30 years Mrs. Turner has been engaged in teaching and demonstrating flower arranging in St. Louis. In addition to conducting schools in which to teach her art, she serves on the state rehabilitation program for veterans and handicapped citizens under the St. Louis Board of Education.

Mrs. H. A. Dodson, hospitality chairman, has asked Mrs. Pierre Chandeysson and Miss Hazel Howe to serve at the tea table after the program.

A PANEL DISCUSSION, "You Owe the Land a Living," will be a feature of a meeting of Baden Women's Club Monday at the home of Mrs. Don Cammon, 9111 Halls Ferry road, at 1 p.m. Participating will be Mrs. Victor Vohsen, Mrs. Pierre Belleville and Mrs. George Nieters. Mrs. Charles Auringer is program chairman.

of a "Gay 90s Gas Light Dance" tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. The party will be given by the school's Mothers' Club of which Mrs. William T. King is president.

Mrs. John J. Geraghty Jr. is chairman assisted by Mrs. Leo A. Jaudes Jr.

Brother Lawrence, Brother Aloysius and the following are assisting in preparations for the affair: Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald, Mrs. Sidney G. Holthaus, Mrs. P. Ward Fox, Mrs. Julius B. Garagnani, Mrs. Roy Ottenlips, Mrs. Nicholas J. Mueller Jr., Mrs. Orlando A. Castrone, Mrs. John Mohan, Mrs. Charles J. Poelzl, Mrs. Charles E. Weniger and Mrs. J. Vincent O'Connor.

Decorations will emphasize the gas light era and entertainment will include numbers by a barber shop quartet. Refreshments will be furnished by the Fathers' Club.

Toastmistress Clubs Mid-Winter Meeting

COUNCIL NO. 1 of the South Central Region of International Toastmistress Clubs will hold its mid-winter meeting Saturday, Jan. 28, with a luncheon at the Congress Hotel at 1 p.m. Registration at 10 a.m. and a morning session will precede the luncheon. The council chairman, Mrs. Eileen A. Younggren, will preside.

The afternoon program will feature a clinic on officers with Miss Susan Barrington as moderator. Mrs. Frederick Haeberle and Miss Ethel Clasen will discuss officers' duties. The program has been arranged by the program chairman, Miss Linnie Alexander.

Honor guests will include the regional supervisor, Mrs. J. L. Jarrett, San Antonio, Tex., and Mrs. Georg Burnett, Danville, Ill., an international director. The council is composed of Toastmistress Clubs in Missouri and Illinois.

A MEETING of the Women's Organization of the National Association of Retail Druggists, St. Louis Chapter No. 8, will be held next Wednesday at the Gatesworth Hotel. Mrs. Eugene LaBarge, assisted by Mrs. Rudolph Krummenacher, will be chairman.

CHURCH NOTICES CHURCH NOTICES

WHAT IS BAPTISM?

Only two accounts in the Holy Scriptures tell us what baptism is, and both of them teach that baptism is a burial.

"Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life." (Romans 6:4).

"Buried with him in baptism, wherein also ye are raised with him . . . " (Colossians 2:12).

BIBLE EXAMPLES DEFINE BIBLE BAPTISM

When Jesus was baptized by John, He "went up straightway out of the water . . . " (Matthew 4:16).

When the Ethiopian eunuch was baptized by Philip, "they went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he baptized him. And when they were come up out of the water . . . " (Acts 8:38-39).

THERE IS ONLY ONE BAPTISM

"There is one body, and one spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism . . ." (Ephesians 4:4-5).

HAVE YOU BEEN BURIED WITH CHRIST?

No, water cannot save! Peter taught "the like figure . . . baptism does now save you." (I Peter 3:21). Baptism is a figure of the death, burial and resurrection of our Savior. It is the figure or burial into Christ's death that saves, for it was in Christ's death that He shed His blood. We urge every reader to meet Christ "in His death" by baptism, for only there can salvation be found. "We are justified by His blood." (Romans 5:8).

Martha Carr's OPINION

Today's column is just for teen-agers. If you have a problem send it to Martha Carr.

Dear Martha:

I'M 15. I have been going with a boy for nine months. We started going steady two months ago. My mother seems to think that we've been going together too long. If she could only understand us she would know we like each other very much. We've never done anything wrong and never will. I really think he's the only boy I've ever known who treats me nice and does everything in the world for me. If I lost him I'd feel like I'd lost my future. I ask you, is there any reason for me to give him up? I've never had so much fun with any boy in my life.

WONDERING.

Martha has never approved of going steady a 15. Your mother realizes that at your age you should be going to chaperoned parties and school affairs with various boys so that when you grow up you'll know what type of boy is best suited for you. Respect her wishes and do it gracefully. Don't argue, but ask if you might see this boy occasionally while you get to know others. When you're 16, your mother will give you a little more freedom.

Dear Martha:

I AM A FRESHMAN in high school. Last year I went steady with a boy for six months. I realize I was too young but just the same I did. We broke up last June. I've dated other boys but no one of them is half the fun of the boy I went steady with. I find myself comparing all boys to him and it makes me dislike them. It may sound silly and childish but I've tried everything to get him off my mind. I'm doing all right in school. I get straight A's. But I feel miserable inside all the time. And sometimes I just can't keep from crying. SHIRLIE.

Martha remembers feeling just as you do when she was your age. There's something at this point in the teens that makes girls particularly intense in their feelings. You'll just have to keep extra busy with extra-curricular activities to shut this boy out of your mind. In a few weeks or months some young man will pop up to take his place and you'll wonder how you could have been so miserable over any one person.

Dear Martha:

YOU WERE RIGHT. If there ever was a snobbish person that "Top of the Ladder" took the cake. I'd like to tell this high-level Tilly to read what it says on the side of Girl Scout cookie boxes: "Make new friends but keep the old; one is silver the others gold." MIDDLE CLASS.

Send a self-addressed stamped envelope for Martha's leaflets: "Teen-age Games" and "Valentine Party," giving ideas for invitations, games and refreshments.

Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

Faints at Sight of Blood

DEAR DR. MOLNER: I cannot stand the sight of blood, and have often fainted upon seeing it, nor do I like to visit anyone in the hospital, for I become weak if I see someone in pain. Some friends say this is abnormal. Is there a cure? A.L.

YOU'RE NOT the first one who has felt faint at the sight of blood. Offhand, I'd say that nine out of 10 doctors have had some pretty rough experiences, in their medical training. They have felt queasy and have even fallen over in a faint at the sight of blood.

Our instincts, developed over the course of countless past generations, tell us that a bleeding person has been hurt. Feeling faint at the sight of blood is one of those things that we have to overcome by letting our minds show us that our instincts aren't always correct.

As to seeing people in hospitals, the same sort of process is at work except not as severe. Instinctively, we feel rather than think, that a hospital is a place of pain and misery. This used to be true, a few decades ago. But today—as opposed to 1865, or the "gay" 1890's—people don't go to a hospital to suffer and die. They go there to get better. Or they go there to have babies in safety.

I'd guess that the best "cure" for someone who has been trapped by this old, but understandable, fear of hospitals is to make it a point to visit them a few dozen times on happy occasions. Like going to visit a brand-new mother a few days after she has had her baby, or visiting somebody who has had an operation and is going to go home in two or three days. Presently your instinctive feeling of dread will give way to a new and happier feeling.

DEAR DR. MOLNER: What is your opinion of contact lenses in relation to glaucoma? Your comment that "glaucoma is a matter of pressure inside the eyeball" is what prompts this inquiry. R.S.

Patients with glaucoma should not wear contact lenses. However, the use of contact lenses does not cause glaucoma. Set your mind at rest on that score.

Bed-wetting is a distressing problem. If your child has the habit, write to Dr. Molner in care of the Post-Dispatch for a copy of his helpful booklet, "Enuresis—Ten Way to Stop Bed-Wetting." Please inclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Bill Vaughan Says

RUSSIA, according to a report, is moving ahead faster than we are in the field of automation. Khrushchev's job, though, is safe, as it is hard to imagine a machine that could be funny and ruthless at the same time.

"IN NORTHERN SWEDEN, reindeer have the right of way." And it's pretty hard to think of any part of the United States where they probably wouldn't get it, too.

A NEW GOVERNMENT RESTRICTION bars Soviet travelers from St. Louis, Milwaukee and Cincinnati. This makes it tough on the Russian who is a National League fan.

THE NEW TRAVEL RULES will permit Russians to visit Disneyland, and we may expect them to complain that the United States is interfering in the internal affairs of that brave little country.

THE LITTLE GIRL down the block reports that her new beau is an older man. He remembers Hopalong Cassidy.

WALTER TIPPY says there is no gratitude. Give the children money for Christmas and they won't lend it back to you in January without charging exorbitant interest.

HAVING ATOMIC BOMBS handy for everybody is like putting hard rolls on the tables at a banquet. Sooner or later some clown obeys the urge to throw one.

ONE AUTHORITY SAYS that careless driving should be regarded as a disease. You can tell the officer that you caught it from that last guy who breezed past.

Mrs. Rusk Married the Prof

By Joy Miller

SCARSDALE, N.Y. Jan. 20 (AP)

MOST WIVES are able to provide an impressive little list of invaluable boosts they've given their husband's careers.

How does Mrs. Dean Rusk help her husband?

"I don't," she says with a smile. "In fact, he teases me and calls me his official deflator."

But she does admit she's pretty reasonable about all the time he gives to a job. And as Secretary of State he'll probably spend even more time at his work.

"We discuss things," she says, "but I find men don't want to bring their problems home if they don't have too much time to spend at home anyway. I purposely try not to prod too much into things I shouldn't know about. It's easy to let things slip out inadvertently. I prefer ignorance."

Virginia Rusk can talk without embarrassment about being ignorant, because everybody knows she's not.

At Mills College (Oakland, Calif.) on a scholarship in the 1930s, she won a Phi Beta Kappa key and one of the school's most eligible young professors as a husband.

"I was a delegate to a student conference in Japan in 1934. That automatically made me an international relations expert on the campus. I was majoring in both history and geography. I had pre-registered for an international relations course with a professor I'd enjoyed working with before. Then I was disappointed to find he was on sabbatical and a young man named Dean Rusk was teaching the course.

MRS. DEAN RUSK

"I became quite interested in him, but I soon was aware that he liked people of all kinds, and he didn't show me any favors."

Somehow, though, that all changed and they dated, although they tried not to appear together on the campus. "You have to be very circumspect in a girls' school."

She was graduated in 1936, and a year later they were married.

David, their first child, was born in October 1940, and a couple of months later Rusk was called into service from Mills. He had kept his Army commission active from his Davidson College days.

When he returned from duty in the China-Burma-India theater, they settled in Washington where he entered Government service.

"It seemed every foreigner I met in Washington spoke two or three languages. I studied French in high school and Spanish in college, but you know what that means. When I'm back in Washington this time I hope I'll have some time to study languages seriously."

Mrs. Rusk, 43, years old, blue-eyed and brown-haired, is amused when people call her a Bostonian. "I was born there, but we left when I was a few months old. I was brought up in Seattle. I'd never returned to Boston, even when my two brothers were going to Harvard, until last spring. That's a terrible admission to make, but that's how much of a Bostonian I am."

She hasn't traveled abroad much, Mrs. Rusk admits. A main reason is that her husband's trips—first for the government and then as head of the Rockefeller Foundation—usually take only a few days and he doesn't like for them to travel together on the same planes while the children are still young and non-supporting.

David is now 20, studying economics at the University of California; Richard is 14, Peggy 11.

The State Department job isn't expected to bring much traveling either. Her husband, she says, feels his responsibility to be on hand in Washington and leave the travel to others.

There are regrets in leaving Scarsdale. "We've lived here for nine years. Just now we've done the kitchen over. I hate a surgical looking kitchen. But we used just what was here. We even kept the tile, which still reminds me of Grand Central Station.

"I like to cook and fuss around in a creative way in a house, but I don't like cleaning and doing dishes."

BLUE SHIELD

provide your family with the BEST in medical-surgical protection!

Chances are there's a low-cost Blue Shield GROUP PROGRAM available to you.

BLUE SHIELD STANDARD

For groups of 5 or more employees

This low-cost protection, available to both small and large groups, provides surgical benefits for every type of surgical operation, paying up to $200 for specified procedures. You also get liberal medical care benefits for your doctor's visits in the hospital; maternity benefits, too, if yours is a Family Plan membership. Monthly dues for Standard (Series 11) group members are only $1.40 for Individual membership, or $3.60 for a family.

BLUE SHIELD PREFERRED

For groups of 25 or more employees

This extended protection plan pays surgical benefits of up to $300 for specified procedures . . . as compared with lower level benefits available to Standard plan members. Medical care benefits are also included in Preferred plan membership . . . plus maternity benefits if you have Family Plan coverage. Individual membership dues are just $1.70 per month, and Family Plan membership $4.60.

BLUE SHIELD SELECTIVE

For groups of 25 or more employees

This flexible plan enables your group to select a level of benefits according to the needs of your own group. A surgical schedule, for example, of up to $200, $300 or even $400 for specified procedures can be selected. Your group can also specify the medical benefits and payments for other medical services desired. Dues are determined on the basis of your group's selection of needed benefits.

NON-GROUP PROTECTION ALSO AVAILABLE

Group membership means extra savings, but you don't have to belong to a group to enjoy Blue Shield protection. Personal membership—with all Standard plan medical-surgical features—is available to non-group participants, including people age 65 or over. If you are not eligible for group enrollment, ask about Blue Shield Personal Membership. (If you are a member of the Missouri Farm Bureau you are automatically eligible to apply for special group membership.)

Complete Your Protection

For complete health care protection, supplement your Blue Shield medical-surgical protection with Blue Cross, for hospital benefits. You need them both.

Fix It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

PEOPLE AND THINGS do a lot of damage to furniture but furniture can do some damage on its own. A familiar furniture-inspired damage marks left on walls by the backs of chairs. In time the chairs can remove the paint or paper from an area of the wall and even damage the plaster.

One way to eliminate this problem is to install small rubber or felt covered buttons on the backs of chairs so that when they are placed up against a wall, the wood part of the chair does not actually touch the wall. You can get these little buttons at furniture and hardware stores.

Another remedy is to install a chair rail. A chair rail is simply a piece of wood molding that is installed horizontally along the wall at a height that will prevent the backs of chairs striking the wall. The average height of the molding is around 30 inches but this should be adjusted to suit the style of furniture you happen to own.

The molding can be purchased at any lumber yard and is installed with finishing nails driven through the wall covering into the studding. Paint the chair rail to match the wall.

The legs of furniture, especially heavy pieces, do a lot of damage to floors. Even a wood floor can be dented by a heavy piece of furniture with thin legs and the damage is much more severe on soft materials such as carpeting, linoleum or tile.

One way to avoid damaging the flooring is to move the piece of furniture an inch or so at frequent intervals so that all the weight is not always concentrated at the same points.

Another remedy is to equip the legs with wide castors or cups that will distribute the weight over a much greater area than will the legs. Castors and cups will also make it easier to move the piece an inch when required.

Snap Beans

Cook slivered snap beans with thin crescents of celery; drain and mix with slivered blanched almonds browned in butter. Garnish with scarlet strands of pimiento.

TV Notes and Gossip

POETRY, painting and dancing will share the spotlight with "Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic" on KMOX-TV Sunday afternoon. Instead of concentrating on music alone, Bernstein will call on the other arts to make his points about the development of "Romanticism in the Nineteenth Century," the program title.

KSD-TV from 4:30 to 5 p.m. Sunday will present a filmed report on the ceremonies in Rome in which Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter was elevated to the College of Cardinals.

THE National All-Star Bowling Tournament, now in progress in San Bernardino, Calif., will be pictured on KTVI at 9 p.m. tomorrow for an hour.

COMEDIAN Jack E. Leonard reports that he spent six hours in police custody at Fuquay Springs, N.C., last week when a "Candid Camera" stunt backfired.

THE CIVIL WAR series, "The Americans," starting on KSD-TV Monday night, was first titled "The Blue and the Gray." Producer Frank Telford said, "Some sponsors thought the title was repugnant to the South. Don't ask me why."

BOB NEWHART . . . Will appear as guest on Dinah Shore's show on KSD-TV Sunday night.

EARN $10,000 A YEAR

The average starting salary of students, completing our mechanical and technical training, is $4,300 per year. After becoming familiar with the industry, it will jump to $6,000 or $7,000 a year.

As efficiency increases, they can earn $8,000 to $10,000 per year. If they become specialists, or a part of management, they can earn considerably more.

Write, phone or visit for complete information.

BUZ SAWYER—By Roy Crane

HIGH ON A MOUNTAIN OVERLOOKING HONG KONG HARBOR SITS THE B. E. McCOLL HOUSE... DARK, ALONE, SILENT.
BUZ INSERTS THE KEY IN THE LOCK... THE DOOR OPENS WITH A CREAK. FUMBLING FOR A LIGHT, HE IS STARTLED BY RUNNING FOOTSTEPS DOWN THE HALL, THE SLAM OF A DOOR.
STRANGE! I THOUGHT THIS PLACE HAD BEEN BOARDED UP SINCE McCOLL'S "ACCIDENT."

Uncle Ray's Column

Eratosthenes's Feat

By Ramon Coffman

Uncle Ray awards a set of the World Book to the 6th grade, Room 211, of the Russell H. Erwine School, Euclid, Ohio. Pupils of the fourth through twelfth grades: Would you like to help your school class win a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia? Uncle Ray is giving awards to classrooms for the best groups of questions sent to him in care of the Post-Dispatch. Your tacher should select the five best questions asked by pupils on such subjects as science, history, biography or geography.

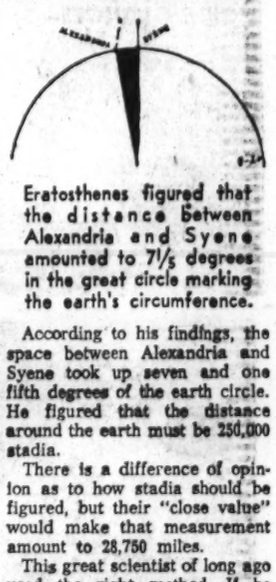
ERATOSTHENES (air-uh-TOS-the-neeze), the writer of geography, was of Greek descent, but his early years were spent in Syene, a small city in southern Egypt. At noon on a certain day each year, the sun appeared to be exactly overhead.

That gave Eratosthenes a starting point in his effort to learn the size of the earth. He was among the few men of his time who believed the earth to be round.

"Every circle has 360 degrees. If we find the number of degrees in one segment of the earth circle, we shall be able to figure the circumference," he wrote.

An ancient unit of distance was the "stadium" (STAY-de-um) or "stade." In a rough way, we may figure that a stadium was a tenth of a mile, but figuring more closely, it was 607 feet. It was believed that Syene was 5000 stadia directly south of Alexandria.

At noon, on the date of a summer solstice, Eratosthenes measured the short shadow cast by a post in Alexandria. This gave him an angle which he used in constructing a right-angled triangle, with the right angle at Syene and the sun as the apex.



Eratosthenes figured that the distance between Alexandria and Syene amounted to 7 1/5 degrees in the great circle marking the earth's circumference.

According to his findings, the space between Alexandria and Syene took up seven and one fifth degrees of the earth circle. He figured that the distance around the earth must be 250,000 stadia.

There is a difference of opinion as to how stadia should be figured, but their "close value" would make that measurement amount to 28,750 miles.

This great scientist of long ago used the right method. If he erred by a few thousand miles, it was because his figure for the "direct south distance" from Alexandria to Syene was a bit too large.
